Human Blood In Basement At Sheppards

Prosecution Says Prowler Wouldn't Go Into Cellarway

CLEVELAND, Nov. 24 (AP)—Human blood was found on the basement stairs of her home after Marilyn Sheppard's July 4 murder, an ace crime sleuth testified today at her husband's murder trial.

In a slow and painstaking maneuver which built up the courtroom suspense, the state thus sought to demolish Dr. Samuel Sheppard's defense of his life — by questioning that a prowling murderer would take time to go into a basement with blood still dripping from him.

Trial Is Adjourned

Dr. Sheppard, 30-year-old osteopath, claims a bushy-haired prowler killed his pregnant 31-year-old wife and left him unconscious.

However, the state claims he beat Marilyn to death after a love affair with Susan Hayes, a pert 24-year-old former technician in his osteopathic hospital. Conviction carries a maximum penalty of death.

The trial was adjourned shortly after noon for a holiday recess lasting until Friday morning, when Dombrowski will resume his testimony. The state hopes to conclude most of its case then, saving Miss Hayes as a star witness early next week.

During the morning, the state produced a previously unannounced witness. She was Mrs. Doris Bender, a neighbor of the Sheppards in suburban Bay Village, 12 miles west of here on Lake Erie.

She testified in a nervous fashion that she saw lights on, upstairs and downstairs, in the Sheppard home shortly before the state says Marilyn was slain. Previous defense questioning had indicated there was only a single upstairs night lamp lit when the murder occurred.

Two fishermen also were produced to say they saw no one on the beach outside the Sheppard home that night and early morning, except some young boys. The osteopath claims he struggled with his wife's slayer on the beach about dawn and was knocked unconscious a second time.

The fishermen, John Tronti and Arthur Beaire, testified also that the lake was rough that night and morning—supporting a state contention that Dr. Sheppard would have been drowned had he been left unconscious on his narrow strip of wave-beset beach.

The state also blocked a defense attempt to get on the record a statement by a Cincinnati ex-convict named Henry W. Fuehrer. Early this week, he claimed knowledge that Marilyn was slain by a stranger. But police said he admitted the whole story was a hoax.

Return To Thumb Print

The defense returned to the print of Dr. Sam's left thumb found on the headboard of Marilyn's deathbed. It was the only identifiable print on the bed.

"Did you ever hear of a man coming into the bedroom at night and kissing his wife good night?" demanded defense attorney William J. Corrigan of the fingerprint man who found the thumbprint, detective Jerome C. Poelking.

The state objected and Common Pleas Judge Edward Blythin refused to allow a reply. But the question and its insinuation stood on the record—and possibly in the minds of the seven men and five women on the jury.

Corrigan also determined that Poelking didn't know how fresh the thumbprint was when he found it July 23. Another finger print man said he had not gone over the bed too thoroughly July 4, for fear he might disturb it for other investigators.

FOUND DEAD — Mrs. Ann Dewey, mother of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, was found dead yesterday in bed at her Owosso, Mich., home. Mrs. Dewey was 77 years old.

Nation's Cost Of Living Is Reported Down

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—The government said today declining food prices have brought the nation's living costs down to the lowest point reached thus far in 1954. As a result, it said, the makings of tomorrow's Thanksgiving dinners are cheaper.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics announced that its consumer's price index declined two tenths of one per cent in October to 114.5 per cent of the 1947-49 base period. It said further food price declines since then indicate a still lower living cost level in November.

Almost all the traditional Thanksgiving dinner ingredients, including turkeys, are lower than last year, generally speaking.

One result of the October index decline is that 1,300,000 workers in the auto, aircraft and farm machinery manufacturing industries will take a cent-an-hour pay cut. Their labor contracts require quarterly pay rate adjustments according to changes in the official index.

A penny-an-hour pay cut for so many workers means a savings to their employers of more than $100,000 for every working day. This same group of workers gained two cents an hour on a rising index last October, lost a penny in January and another in April, and gained a cent in July.

But the Labor Department said factory workers' take home pay, after taxes, hit a record for October at $59.84 for workers with no dependents and $67.07 for workers with three dependents. It also reported worker purchasing power at near record levels, with wage rates increasing and living costs declining.

Living costs this year started in January at the high level of 115.2, then declined in February, March, and April, rose in May, June and July, and fell in August, September and October.

The latest October index is the lowest this year, in fact, the lowest since June, 1953, and is nearly one per cent below the living cost peak of 115.4 set last October.

Pork and poultry prices led the October food declines. However, vegetables were somewhat higher seasonally.

Rents were a bit higher, although some rent decreases were reported. There were many large price cuts for household appliances like refrigerators and vacuum cleaners. The bureau attributed these reductions to moves by department and retail stores to meet competition from discount houses.

Transportation and house furnishings costs were down, but clothing and fuel prices were a bit higher as were movie admissions, some newspapers and medical care.

Reject Invitation

LONDON, Nov. 24 (AP) — Yugoslavia today formally rejected the Soviet Union's invitation to attend an all-European conference on collective security next Monday.

Ike Pledges Every Effort For Fliers

Tells Mothers Sons' Freedom Sought

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—President Eisenhower gave assurance today that the government is doing everything "humanly possible with peaceful means" to liberate 13 Americans sent to prison by the Chinese Communists as "spies."

The President's pledge was sent to Mrs. Hurley L. Baumer of Lewisburg, Pa., mother of one of the prisoners. Mrs. Baumer had complained about "dilly-dallying," and had told a reporter it was high time "we really get to doing something about those boys over there."

Peiping radio, meanwhile, boasted the Chinese Reds have caught 230 American and Chinese Nationalist agents since 1951 and that 106 of them were killed.

230 Alleged Agents

The broadcast, monitored in London, said 18 of the 230 alleged agents were Americans and that five of them were killed when their planes were shot down. The remaining 13 apparently were those whose sentences were announced by Peiping radio yesterday.

The State Department received the latest Red broadcast with expressions of mistrust.

"It seems quite evident that the Red Chinese will plump out all the propaganda they can to try and justify their action yesterday," said press officer Lincoln White.

"Stories of alleged spy drops are old hat from radio Peiping."

Mrs. Baumer is the mother of Maj. William M. Baumer, 32, one of 11 American airmen and two civilians who received sentences ranging from four years to life. Baumer got eight years.

James C. Hagerty, the President's press secretary, said he had been instructed to telephone Mrs. Baumer after Eisenhower learned she had tried unsuccessfully to talk to some one in the White House about the fate of her son.

"I told her that the President had received word of her telephone calls and I gave her the personal assurance of the President that everything is being done by her own government that is humanly possible with peaceful means to get our boys back," Hagerty said.

Consul To Lodge Protest

Last night the State Department ordered its consul general at Geneva, Switzerland, Franklin C. Gowen, to lodge the "strongest possible protest" with Red Chinese authorities there against the imprisonment of the Americans on what it described as "trumped up" charges.

Gowen, a Philadelphian, reported today he has demanded a face-to-face meeting with his Chinese opposite number, Weng Peng-chiu and that he expects a reply within two or three days. Gowen will ask for further details about the imprisoned Americans and the charges against them.

The United States does not recognize the Communist Chinese government, but during the Far Eastern conference at Geneva last June arrangements were made to exchange information between the two governments about Americans still held in China.

Advance Relations

BONN, Germany, Nov. 24 (AP)—By order of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, a special department has been set up to advance French-German political, economic and cultural relations, the government announced today.

Collect $32,861

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24 (AP)—Firemen, serving as volunteer collectors, took in $32,861.27 last night in Baltimore city and Baltimore, Anne Arundel and Howard counties in the drive for funds to combat muscular dystrophy.

Brownell Asks Desegregation On Local Level

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell today suggested to the Supreme Court that racial desegregation in public schools be carried out on the local level under the direction of the federal District Courts in the areas involved.

The plan, advanced in a brief Brownell filed with the court, appeared to be in line with what President Eisenhower suggested yesterday at a news conference. Eisenhower said the matter of decentralizing desegregation was being explored.

The court ruled out "separate but equal" facilities for white and Negro pupils in the public schools in a decision early last summer. It now has before it the matter of setting up the actual procedure for ending segregation.

The attorney general, in suggesting that the actual procedure be handled in the local districts, rather than by a general Supreme Court mandate, emphasized his belief that the Supreme Court should retain jurisdiction in the matter "for the purpose of making such further orders, if any, as may become necessary . . . "

Brownell proposed these steps:

A Supreme Court decree declaring racial segregation is unconstitutional and that all laws requiring or permitting such segregation are invalid.

A return of the test cases to lower courts where they were first heard for further action in line with the high court's decision. These cases came to the Supreme Court from South Carolina, Virginia, Kansas, Delaware and the District of Columbia.

The entry of orders in the lower courts directing the defendant school boards to submit within 90 days a plan for ending segregation in their districts "as soon as feasible."

Unless a satisfactory desegregation program is submitted to and approved by the lower court, the entry of an order by that court directing that nonsegregated schools be operated at the beginning of the next school term.

Upon submission of a desegregation plan, the conduct of hearings by the lower court to determine whether it provides for the transition "as expeditiously as the circumstances permit."

Brownell said no program should be sanctioned which does not call for immediate commencement of the procedures necessary to bring about desegregation.

During the period allowed for transition, he said, the lower court should require the defendants in the test cases to submit detailed periodic reports showing the progress made toward ending segregation.

Brownell proposed also regular reports from the lower courts to the Supreme Court detailing the actions taken in the respective districts "in bringing about compliance with the requirements of the Constitution."

The attorney general suggested the Supreme Court may want to appoint a special master to review such reports and make appropriate recommendations concerning them to it and to lower courts.

Montgomery Meets Ike

President Eisenhower and a military friend of World War II days, British Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, chat at National airport prior to their flight to Augusta, Ga., where Montgomery will be a guest of the Eisenhowers over the Thanksgiving holidays. The presidential party left in the Columbine III, the chief executive's new plane which was christened yesterday by Mrs. Eisenhower in Washington.

British Clerk Accused As Spy For Russians

LONDON, Nov. 24 (AP)—A British secret agent testified today a Russian diplomat named Barabanov sent John Clarence, 27, a British clerk, to spy on the U. S. Navy headquarters and other American offices here.

After a preliminary hearing, Clarence was ordered to stand trial by jury on two charges of obtaining and recording British military information "calculated to be useful to an enemy." Clarence pleaded innocent.

Prosecutor Ian Smith told the court the case came to light when Clarence lost a briefcase containing a document headed "Embassy of the Soviet Union."

That document, he said, contained information gathered about Britain's air defenses when Clarence worked as a clerk for a Home Guard unit in the fall of 1953.

Chief Inspector Charles Ward of Scotland Yard's top secret special branch testified the information included the code word for mobilizing Northeast Britain's air defenses in case of war.

Ward said he questioned Clarence in January, 1953—months before he got the Home Guard job—and Clarence told him he had "offered his services in any capacity" to the Soviet consulate here.

How Clarence got the Home Guard clerkship after that admission was not explained in court.

Ward added that Clarence said he went to the consulate in September, 1952, and met Barabanov, described as a Soviet attache dealing with displaced persons.

The chief inspector quoted Clarence as saying:

At Barabanov's suggestion he went to the U. S. Navy headquarters in London's Grosevenor Square. He had instructions from Moscow to ingratiate himself with U. S. authorities and to obtain any literature or information dealing with the attitude of the United States toward displaced persons.

Clarence was asked also to distribute Soviet propaganda among displaced persons here and to spy on them and report their activities.

The clerk reported regularly to Barabanov and was paid one or two pounds on occasion. The pound is worth $2.80.

Terms Sentence Of U. S. Fliers As "Outrageous"

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (AP) — Anthony Nutting, chief of the British delegation to the United Nations, today termed Red China's imprisonment of 13 Americans "outrageous" and said Great Britain would "do all in our power to mitigate this grievous wrong."

Nutting made the statement while addressing the Overseas Press Club of America.

He said Britain has "made it plain for our part in all of our dealings and statements to and about the Chinese Communist government that we measure their eligibility to join any world organization by their behavior."

England, he said, has made its position regarding Communist China "very clear, especially on the question of admitting the Chinese government into the United Nations."

Pier Angeli, Singer Wed

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 24 (AP)—Singer Vic Damone and actress Pier Angeli, whose recent engagement surprised even their most intimate friends, today were wed in a double ring ceremony at St. Timothy's Roman Catholic Church.

The bride was given in marriage by E. J. Mannix, MGM vice president. She was attended by her twin sister, Marissa Pavan, as maid of honor. Like Pier, Marissa also is an Italian-born actress.

Miss Angeli, 22, looked like a child bride in the wedding gown of film white silk chiffon over a foundation of white crepe. Reembroidered lace highlighted by seed pearls was appliqued on the chiffon at the high neckline and midriff. The molded torso was of tiny tucks which fanned out at the hipline into gores, forming a full skirt with a short train.

Mrs. Enrice Pierangeli, mother of the bride, wept a little during the rites as did Damone's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rocco Farinola of New York City.

No Paper Tomorrow

Because of the Thanksgiving holiday The Cumberland News will not be published tomorrow. The next publication will be Saturday morning.

Remington Dies Of Injuries In Prison Fight

LEWISBURG, Pa., Nov. 24 (AP)—William Walter Remington, 37, a convicted perjurer who denied he gave government secrets to the Communists, died today of a skull fracture in the federal penitentiary here and the FBI accused two auto thieves of killing him.

Remington's head was bashed in and his face badly cut, when he was set upon Monday morning as he slept in a prison dormitory.

Emergency surgery was performed yesterday on the unconscious Remington but he died 16 hours later.

After an exhaustive FBI inquiry which started soon after disclosure of the beating, two convicts—George Junior McCoy, 34, of Grundy, Va., and Robert Carl Parker, 21, of Washington, D. C.—were charged with murder.

The complaint charged the killing was done "with premeditation and by means of striking (Remington) on the head with a partial red brick enclosed in a white sock."

Motive for the attack was not disclosed by prison officials or the FBI, and questions whether the attack might have been part of an anti-Communist demonstration met with crisp "no comments."

Another inmate of the prison—Alger Hiss—will be released on parole Saturday after serving 3½ years of a perjury sentence. Hiss, like Remington, was convicted of lying when he denied any connection with a Communist spy ring operating in Washington before and during World War II.

Hunter Gets Deer From Wheelchair

WELLSVILLE, N. Y., Nov. 24 (AP)—Here's an encouraging note for all those cold, wet, hungry deer-slayers who came home today cold, wet, hungry and deerless. Charles H. Lambert, legless veteran of World War II, got his from a wheelchair.

Lambert drove out to the country in his automobile, which is specially equipped for operation without foot pedals. He hauled out his folding wheelchair, rolled himself a few feet off the road into a small orchard, and waited. Presently a 150-pound, six-point buck came along. Result: Venison in the Lambert freezer.

China Claims Are Broadcast From Peiping

106 Dead, 124 More Americans, Chinese Are Said Captured

LONDON, Nov. 24 (AP) — Red China said today it has killed 106 American and Nationalist Chinese agents and captured 124 more air-dropped into the country in the years of war and truce since 1951. The claim was made in a Peiping radio broadcast loaded with anti-American propaganda.

A broadcast communique said the "American aggressors and their puppets, the traitorous Chiang Kai-shek clique," had dropped armed spies into different parts of China many times between 1951 and 1954. The dates included the Korean War, in which the Red Chinese fought against U.S. and other United Nations forces.

The broadcast mentioned only 18 Americans, five of whom it said were killed when their planes were shot down. The remaining 13 appeared to be the Americans sentenced yesterday by a Red Chinese military court to prison terms ranging from four years to life.

Lumped Other Captives

The communique lumped the other captives in a sweeping denunciation as "former officers of the traitor Chiang Kai-shek's army, professional agents, provocateurs, bandits and local despots who were inveterate counter-revolutionaries.

"They are traitors to their own country and are bitterly hostile to the people," it said.

All were declared dropped into China by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, the Free China Movement in Hong Kong, and the Nationalist Chinese.

The communique was issued by the Peiping regime's Public Security Ministry. It claimed there were "14 American spies of the U.S. 581st Air Supply and Communications Wing . . . and four other spies, including John Thomas Downey, sent by an espionage body of the CIA."

Arnold, a U.S. Air Force colonel from Silver Spring, Md., commanded an Air Force B29 shot down Jan. 12, 1953, six months before the Korean War ended. His second in command was Maj. William H. Baumer of Lewisburg, Pa.

Downey Is Civilian

Downey is a civilian employe of the U.S. Army and a cousin of singer Morton Downey. Yesterday's announcement by Peiping on the military court said Downey was sentenced to life, Arnold to 10 years in prison and Baumer to eight years. Nine other men aboard the B29 drew shorter terms.

The Peiping broadcast claimed all the "special agents" seized or killed had "received special espionage training before they were air-dropped to the Chinese mainland."

In Washington, a U.S. State Department spokesman said something along the line of today's Peiping broadcast had been expected as part of an effort to "plump out all the propaganda they can" in an attempt to becloud the condemnation of the 13 Americans yesterday.

Americans To Count Their Blessings For Thanksgiving

[By The Associated Press]

As President Eisenhower saw it in his Thanksgiving proclamation, the nation has much cause for gratitude:

"We are grateful that our beloved country . . . remains free and strong, and that each of us can worship God in our own way.

"We are grateful for the innumerable daily manifestations of divine goodness in affairs both public and private, for equal opportunities for all to labor and serve, and for the continuance of those homely joys and satisfactions which enrich our lives."

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower flew to Augusta, Ga., for the holiday. They had Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery as a guest but their son, Maj. John Eisenhower, his wife and three children could not get away from Fort Leavenworth, Kas., to make it a family reunion.

The Eisenhowers had a 43-pound

A-Bomb Frightens Tourists From Washington, Guide Says

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—This is the sightseeing capital of the world, and an expert said today even more tourists would be looking at Washington but for one thing: Many people are afraid of being hit by falling atom bombs.

The expert is Henry Burroughs, president of the Gray Line Motor Tours. His firm totes 600,000 of the 1,500,000 persons who take guided trips here each year.

Burroughs said he's astonished at how many tourists tell him they're edgy over being here, and of their friends who won't visit the nation's capital at all.

"Can't understand why," Burroughs said. "Why, militarily, this must be the worst target of all."

This city, unlike most other big towns, has no vast industrial layout.

Still, if it astonishes Burroughs that so many amateur strategists stay away, it astonishes others that so many — some 4,000,000 tourists — flock here each year.

Burroughs figures more people visit New York, but when it comes to climbing into a car for a guided tour, he says Washington leads all the rest.

That the U.S. Capitol is the prize attraction; nearly everyone wants to see it. But the White House, which is open only two hours a day, does the biggest business while it lasts. During one stretch, visitors were doing the White House at the rate of 4,000 an hour.

That April in Washington, when the cherry trees are in bloom, is the biggest tourist month, but that October is now running a good second. "Good reason for it, too," Burroughs said. "October has more fine days than April. The Weather Bureau has figures to prove it."

That more people go sightseeing on Tuesdays than any other day. Sunday, at least for the guided tour business, is the worst.

That although it's 24 miles to Washington's old home, Mt. Vernon, the lovely building overlooking the Potomac still has tremendous pulling power. A check of one week in April showed 187 buses and limousines there each day. "And that's not counting the taxicabs."

That a religious tour is always popular. It includes stops at the National Cathedral, the Shrine of the Immaculate Conception and the Franciscan Monastery. Soon to be added: A stop at the only mosque in the Western hemisphere.

That the spiels given by the drivers are continually revised, but no matter what the management says, if a guide gets a laugh with a line of his own, that line is in to stay. "As a result of adding these lines all year," Burroughs said glumly, "their talks become really corny."

That although the 38-year-old Burroughs practices what he peddles, he spends his vacations taking sightseeing trips. "Just back from Yosemite," he said. "Had a wonderful guide, a fellow who really loved that park."

Mamie Christens Ike's New Airplane, "Columbine III"

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower christened the President's new airplane "Columbine III" today — and splashed herself with water from a Colorado fishing stream in doing so.

The first lady officiated at the christening ceremony just before she and the President took off for a Thanksgiving weekend in Augusta, Ga. Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, chief of the British Imperial Staff, went along as their guest.

Standing with Air Force Secretary Talbott on a red-white-and-blue decked platform, Mrs. Eisenhower cracked a brightly wrapped bottle of Platte River water against a specially installed plate on the nose of the new Air Force Super Constellation.

"I christen thee Columbine III," she said, and then failed to duck the shower of water that cascaded down from the broken bottle.

The christening — which made use of water specially flown from a favorite fishing stream of the President's—inaugurated the chief executive's first flight on the new plane, which is 18 feet longer and 50 miles an hour faster than the Columbine II, which has been transferred to other Air Force duties.

All of Eisenhower's planes—beginning with the Columbine I, which flew him when he was supreme allied commander — are named for the state flower of Colorado, Mrs. Eisenhower's home state. The flower is painted in blue on the nose of the new model.

Weather Forecast

Mrs. Baumer is the mother of Maj. William M. Baumer, 32, one of 11 American airmen and two civilians who received sentences ranging from four years to life. Baumer got eight years.

James C. Hagerty, the President's press secretary, said he had been instructed to telephone Mrs. Baumer after Eisenhower learned she had tried unsuccessfully to talk to some one in the White House about the fate of her son.

"I told her that the President had received word of her telephone calls and I gave her the personal assurance of the President that everything is being done by her own government that is humanly possible with peaceful means to get our boys back," Hagerty said.

Consul To Lodge Protest

Last night the State Department ordered its consul general at Geneva, Switzerland, Franklin C. Gowen, to lodge the "strongest possible protest" with Red Chinese authorities there against the imprisonment of the Americans on what it described as "trumped up" charges.

Gowen, a Philadelphian, reported today he has demanded a face-to-face meeting with his Chinese opposite number, Weng Peng-chiu and that he expects a reply within two or three days. Gowen will ask for further details about the imprisoned Americans and the charges against them.

The United States does not recognize the Communist Chinese government, but during the Far Eastern conference at Geneva last June arrangements were made to exchange information between the two governments about Americans still held in China.

Advance Relations

BONN, Germany, Nov. 24 (AP)—By order of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, a special department has been set up to advance French-German political, economic and cultural relations, the government announced today.

Collect $32,861

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24 (AP)—Firemen, serving as volunteer collectors, took in $32,861.27 last night in Baltimore city and Baltimore, Anne Arundel and Howard counties in the drive for funds to combat muscular dystrophy.

Brownell Asks Desegregation On Local Level

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell today suggested to the Supreme Court that racial desegregation in public schools be carried out on the local level under the direction of the federal District Courts in the areas involved.

The plan, advanced in a brief Brownell filed with the court, appeared to be in line with what President Eisenhower suggested yesterday at a news conference. Eisenhower said the matter of decentralizing desegregation was being explored.

The court ruled out "separate but equal" facilities for white and Negro pupils in the public schools in a decision early last summer. It now has before it the matter of setting up the actual procedure for ending segregation.

The attorney general, in suggesting that the actual procedure be handled in the local districts, rather than by a general Supreme Court mandate, emphasized his belief that the Supreme Court should retain jurisdiction in the matter "for the purpose of making such further orders, if any, as may become necessary . . ."

Brownell proposed these steps:

A Supreme Court decree declaring racial segregation is unconstitutional and that all laws requiring or permitting such segregation are invalid.

A return of the test cases to lower courts where they were first heard for further action in line with the high court's decision. These cases came to the Supreme Court from South Carolina, Virginia, Kansas, Delaware and the District of Columbia.

The entry of orders in the lower courts directing the defendant school boards to submit within 90 days a plan for ending segregation in their districts "as soon as feasible."

Unless a satisfactory desegregation program is submitted to and approved by the lower court, the entry of an order by that court directing that nonsegregated schools be operated at the beginning of the next school term.

Upon submission of a desegregation plan, the conduct of hearings by the lower court to determine whether it provides for the transition "as expeditiously as the circumstances permit."

Brownell said no program should be sanctioned which does not call for immediate commencement of the procedures necessary to bring about desegregation.

During the period allowed for transition, he said, the lower court should require the defendants in the test cases to submit detailed periodic reports showing the progress made toward ending segregation.

Brownell proposed also regular reports from the lower courts to the Supreme Court detailing the actions taken in the respective districts "in bringing about compliance with the requirements of the Constitution."

The attorney general suggested the Supreme Court may want to appoint a special master to review such reports and make appropriate recommendations concerning them to it and to lower courts.

Montgomery Meets Ike

President Eisenhower and a military friend of World War II days, British Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, chat at National airport prior to their flight to Augusta, Ga., where Montgomery will be a guest of the Eisenhowers over the Thanksgiving holidays. The presidential party left in the Columbine III, the chief executive's new plane which was christened yesterday by Mrs. Eisenhower in Washington.

British Clerk Accused As Spy For Russians

LONDON, Nov. 24 (AP)—A British secret agent testified today a Russian diplomat named Barabanov sent John Clarence, 27, a British clerk, to spy on the U. S. Navy headquarters and other American offices here.

After a preliminary hearing, Clarence was ordered to stand trial by jury on two charges of obtaining and recording British military information "calculated to be useful to an enemy." Clarence pleaded innocent.

Prosecutor Ian Smith told the court the case came to light when Clarence lost a briefcase containing a document headed "Embassy of the Soviet Union."

That document, he said, contained information gathered about Britain's air defenses when Clarence worked as a clerk for a Home Guard unit in the fall of 1953.

Chief Inspector Charles Ward of Scotland Yard's top secret special branch testified the information included the code word for mobilizing Northeast Britain's air defenses in case of war.

Ward said he questioned Clarence in January, 1953—months before he got the Home Guard job—and Clarence told him he had "offered his services in any capacity" to the Soviet consulate here.

How Clarence got the Home Guard clerkship after that admission was not explained in court.

Ward added that Clarence said he went to the consulate in September, 1952, and met Barabanov, described as a Soviet attache dealing with displaced persons.

The chief inspector quoted Clarence as saying:

At Barabanov's suggestion he went to the U. S. Navy headquarters in London's Grosevenor Square. He had instructions from Moscow to ingratiate himself with U. S. authorities and to obtain any literature or information dealing with the attitude of the United States toward displaced persons.

Clarence was asked also to distribute Soviet propaganda among displaced persons here and to spy on them and report their activities.

The clerk reported regularly to Barabanov and was paid one or two pounds on occasion. The pound is worth $2.80.

Terms Sentence Of U. S. Fliers As "Outrageous"

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (AP) — Anthony Nutting, chief of the British delegation to the United Nations, today termed Red China's imprisonment of 13 Americans "outrageous" and said Great Britain would "do all in our power to mitigate this grievous wrong."

Nutting made the statement while addressing the Overseas Press Club of America.

He said Britain has "made it plain for our part in all of our dealings and statements to and about the Chinese Communist government that we measure their eligibility to join any world organization by their behavior."

England, he said, has made its position regarding Communist China "very clear, especially on the question of admitting the Chinese government into the United Nations."

Pier Angeli, Singer Wed

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 24 (AP)—Singer Vic Damone and actress Pier Angeli, whose recent engagement surprised even their most intimate friends, today were wed in a double ring ceremony at St. Timothy's Roman Catholic Church.

The bride was given in marriage by E. J. Mannix, MGM vice president. She was attended by her twin sister, Marissa Pavan, as maid of honor. Like Pier, Marissa also is an Italian-born actress.

Miss Angeli, 22, looked like a child bride in the wedding gown of film white silk chiffon over a foundation of white crepe. Reembroidered lace highlighted by seed pearls was appliqued on the chiffon at the high neckline and midriff. The molded torso was of tiny tucks which fanned out at the hipline into gores, forming a full skirt with a short train.

Mrs. Enrice Pierangeli, mother of the bride, wept a little during the rites as did Damone's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rocco Farinola of New York City.

No Paper Tomorrow

Because of the Thanksgiving holiday The Cumberland News will not be published tomorrow. The next publication will be Saturday morning.

Remington Dies Of Injuries In Prison Fight

LEWISBURG, Pa., Nov. 24 (AP)—William Walter Remington, 37, a convicted perjurer who denied he gave government secrets to the Communists, died today of a skull fracture in the federal penitentiary here and the FBI accused two auto thieves of killing him.

Remington's head was bashed in and his face badly cut, when he was set upon Monday morning as he slept in a prison dormitory.

Emergency surgery was performed yesterday on the unconscious Remington but he died 16 hours later.

After an exhaustive FBI inquiry which started soon after disclosure of the beating, two convicts—George Junior McCoy, 34, of Grundy, Va., and Robert Carl Parker, 21, of Washington, D. C.—were charged with murder.

The complaint charged the killing was done "with premeditation and by means of striking (Remington) on the head with a partial red brick enclosed in a white sock."

Motive for the attack was not disclosed by prison officials or the FBI, and questions whether the attack might have been part of an anti-Communist demonstration met with crisp "no comments."

Another inmate of the prison—Alger Hiss—will be released on parole Saturday after serving 3½ years of a perjury sentence. Hiss, like Remington, was convicted of lying when he denied any connection with a Communist spy ring operating in Washington before and during World War II.

Hunter Gets Deer From Wheelchair

WELLSVILLE, N. Y., Nov. 24 (AP)—Here's an encouraging note for all those cold, wet, hungry deer-slayers who came home today cold, wet, hungry and deerless. Charles H. Lambert, legless veteran of World War II, got his from a wheelchair.

Lambert drove out to the country in his automobile, which is specially equipped for operation without foot pedals. He hauled out his folding wheelchair, rolled himself a few feet off the road into a small orchard, and waited. Presently a 150-pound, six-point buck came along. Result: Venison in the Lambert freezer.

China Claims Are Broadcast From Peiping

106 Dead, 124 More Americans, Chinese Are Said Captured

LONDON, Nov. 24 (AP) — Red China said today it has killed 106 American and Nationalist Chinese agents and captured 124 more air-dropped into the country in the years of war and truce since 1951. The claim was made in a Peiping radio broadcast loaded with anti-American propaganda.

A broadcast communique said the "American aggressors and their puppets, the traitorous Chiang Kai-shek clique," had dropped armed spies into different parts of China many times between 1951 and 1954. The dates included the Korean War, in which the Red Chinese fought against U.S. and other United Nations forces.

The broadcast mentioned only 18 Americans, five of whom it said were killed when their planes were shot down. The remaining 13 appeared to be the Americans sentenced yesterday by a Red Chinese military court to prison terms ranging from four years to life.

Lumped Other Captives

The communique lumped the other captives in a sweeping denunciation as "former officers of the traitor Chiang Kai-shek's army, professional agents, provocateurs, bandits and local despots who were inveterate counter-revolutionaries.

"They are traitors to their own country and are bitterly hostile to the people," it said.

All were declared dropped into China by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, the Free China Movement in Hong Kong, and the Nationalist Chinese.

The communique was issued by the Peiping regime's Public Security Ministry. It claimed there were "14 American spies of the U.S. 581st Air Supply and Communications Wing . . . and four other spies, including John Thomas Downey, sent by an espionage body of the CIA."

Arnold, a U.S. Air Force colonel from Silver Spring, Md., commanded an Air Force B29 shot down Jan. 12, 1953, six months before the Korean War ended. His second in command was Maj. William H. Baumer of Lewisburg, Pa.

Downey Is Civilian

Downey is a civilian employe of the U.S. Army and a cousin of singer Morton Downey. Yesterday's announcement by Peiping on the military court said Downey was sentenced to life, Arnold to 10 years in prison and Baumer to eight years. Nine other men aboard the B29 drew shorter terms.

The Peiping broadcast claimed all the "special agents" seized or killed had "received special espionage training before they were air-dropped to the Chinese mainland."

In Washington, a U.S. State Department spokesman said something along the line of today's Peiping broadcast had been expected as part of an effort to "plump out all the propaganda they can" in an attempt to becloud the condemnation of the 13 Americans yesterday.

Americans To Count Their Blessings For Thanksgiving

[By The Associated Press]

As President Eisenhower saw it in his Thanksgiving proclamation, the nation has much cause for gratitude:

"We are grateful that our beloved country . . . remains free and strong, and that each of us can worship God in our own way.

"We are grateful for the innumerable daily manifestations of divine goodness in affairs both public and private, for equal opportunities for all to labor and serve, and for the continuance of those homely joys and satisfactions which enrich our lives."

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower flew to Augusta, Ga., for the holiday. They had Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery as a guest but their son, Maj. John Eisenhower, his wife and three children could not get away from Fort Leavenworth, Kas., to make it a family reunion.

A-Bomb Frightens Tourists From Washington, Guide Says

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—This is the sightseeing capital of the world, and an expert said today even more tourists would be looking at Washington but for one thing: Many people are afraid of being hit by falling atom bombs.

The expert is Henry Burroughs, president of the Gray Line Motor Tours. His firm totes 600,000 of the 1,500,000 persons who take guided trips here each year.

Burroughs said he's astonished at how many tourists tell him they're edgy over being here, and of their frfends who won't visit the nation's capital at all.

"Can't understand why," Burroughs said. "Why, militarily, this must be the worst target of all."

This city, unlike most other big towns, has no vast industrial layout.

Still, if it astonishes Burroughs that so many amateur strategists stay away, it astonishes others that so many — some 4,000,000 tourists — flock here each year.

Burroughs figures more people visit New York, but when it comes to climbing into a car for a guided tour, he says Washington leads all the rest.

That the U.S. Capitol is the prize attraction; nearly everyone wants to see it. But the White House, which is open only two hours a day, does the biggest business while it lasts. During one stretch, visitors were doing the White House at the rate of 4,000 an hour.

That April in Washington, when the cherry trees are in bloom, is the biggest tourist month, but that October is now running a good second. "Good reason for it, too," Burroughs said. "October has more fine days than April. The Weather Bureau has figures to prove it."

That more people go sightseeing on Tuesdays than any other day. Sunday, at least for the guided tour business, is the worst.

That although it's 24 miles to Washington's old home, Mt. Vernon, the lovely building overlooking the Potomac still has tremendous pulling power. A check of one week in April showed 187 buses and limousines there each day. "And that's not counting the taxicabs."

That a religious tour is always popular. It includes stops at the National Cathedral, the Shrine of the Immaculate Conception and the Franciscan Monastery. Soon to be added: A stop at the only mosque in the Western hemisphere.

That the spiels given by the drivers are continually revised, but no matter what the management says, if a guide gets a laugh with a line of his own, that line is in to stay. "As a result of adding these lines all year," Burroughs said glumly, "their talks become really corny."

That although the 38-year-old Burroughs practices what he peddles, he spends his vacations taking sightseeing trips. "Just back from Yosemite," he said. "Had a wonderful guide, a fellow who really loved that park."

Mamie Christens Ike's New Airplane, "Columbine III"

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower christened the President's new airplane "Columbine III" today — and splashed herself with water from a Colorado fishing stream in doing so.

The first lady officiated at the christening ceremony just before she and the President took off for a Thanksgiving weekend in Augusta, Ga. Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, chief of the British Imperial Staff, went along as their guest.

Standing with Air Force Secretary Talbott on a red-white-and-blue decked platform, Mrs. Eisenhower cracked a brightly wrapped bottle of Platte River water against a specially installed plate on the nose of the new Air Force Super Constellation.

"I christen thee Columbine III," she said, and then failed to duck the shower of water that cascaded down from the broken bottle.

The christening — which made use of water specially flown from a favorite fishing stream of the President's—inaugurated the chief executive's first flight on the new plane, which is 18 feet longer and 50 miles an hour faster than the Columbine II, which has been transferred to other Air Force duties.

All of Eisenhower's planes—beginning with the Columbine I, which flew him when he was supreme allied commander — are named for the state flower of Colorado, Mrs. Eisenhower's home state. The flower is painted in blue on the nose of the new model.

Latin American Countries Plan Inter-American Bank To Aid Economical Future

QUITANDINHA, Brazil, Nov. 24 (AP)—Latin-American countries launched plans today for a big Inter-American bank to finance their economic development — with or without United States participation.

The plan was drafted by Chile and is supported by a majority of the 21 countries represented at the Inter-American Economic Conference here. It envisages participation by the United States, but word circulated among the delegates the other countries will put up the money themselves if Washington does not go along.

GRATEFUL — Alex Washchenke, Russian immigrant, placed an ad in a Chicago newspaper expressing his gratitude for the blessing he has found in the United States. He described "the warm and pleasant feeling" of good job and friendly superiors and ends, "I thank God for such sympathetic human beings in this wonderful God blessed America."

The U.S. delegation appeared cold to the project. The delegation, headed by Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey, has expressed the view the U.S. Export-Import Bank, the World Bank and a proposed International Finance Corp. plus private investment, can provide ample resources to meet Latin America's economic needs. But orator after orator from the other delegations objected to the U.S. contention the capital so provided would be adequate.

Outlines Plans

Chilean Finance Minister Jorge Prat outlined his country's plan yesterday for an Inter-American bank. He estimated Latin-American nations have between three and six billion dollars in bank reserves which they could use to improve their backward economies.

The plan gained impetus today when both Argentina and Cuba supported it. Other countries that favor it include Colombia, Ecuador, the Dominican Republic, Costa Rica, El Salvador, Nicaragua, Honduras and Guatemala. This gives the proposal the backing of 11 delegations, sufficient for approval by the plenary conference when the measure comes out of committee.

Committee hearings began this afternoon. A fight is expected within the committee as the group seeks to find a formula which the United States might accept as a basis for participation.

Full details of the Chilean plan may have to be worked out in the committee by the hemisphere's top economic experts.

Some delegates have indicated one drawback may be the fact Latin-American countries generally have pledged their liquid reserves in such ways they could not be used easily as capital for a new bank. These delegates pointed out some of the reserves are tied up with the International Monetary Fund, while others are in the form of World Bank bonds.

Argentina Backs Move

Argentine economy Minister Antonio F. Cafiero surprised today's plenary session when he said his country will support the Chilean plan. The Peron government had not been expected to go along with the idea. Cafiero called the Chilean proposal an "important contribution."

In supporting the plan, Cuba's Secretary of the Treasury Gustavo Gutierrez Sanchez said present international institutions are not providing the help which Latin America needs. He appealed to the United States to "remember that its best friends" are in Latin America.

Eugene F. Black, president of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (World Bank), said his institution is ready and willing to finance economic development projects on a larger scale in Latin America. He emphasized "the bank cannot substitute for domestic effort," but can only supplement such effort.

Black said "well-planned investments can have explosive effects" in a broad development of a country's resources and that this is the type of project which his bank particularly welcomes.

Americans To Count

turkey, gift of the National Turkey Federation.

And if ordinary families didn't have a free turkey, they could buy the traditional bird for 4 to 10 cents a pound cheaper, generally speaking, than last year.

Mrs. Aryness Joy Wickens, acting commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, said in Washington "it is quite clear from everything we have that the Thanksgiving dinner costs this year will be less than last year."

Here was the menu for American soldiers still in Korea:

Shrimp cocktail, roast young turkey, dressing, giblet gravy, cranberry sauce, snowflake potatoes, buttered corn, green peas, cole slaw, stuffed celery, olives, fresh carrot sticks, mixed pickles, apples, oranges, fruit cake, pumpkin pie, hot rolls, butter, coffee, tea, assorted candies and mixed nuts.

A Thanksgiving dinner just about as elaborate as that was advertised by one of Washington's better restaurants at $4.50—or $2.75 in child's portions.

Football, too, has a place on the holiday traditionally devoted to feasting and giving thanks to God.

There is the 61st meeting of Cornell and Pennsylvania, and dozens of others that have become Thanksgiving fixtures. For those who don't want to leave home to see football, there is a nationwide televised game between Maryland and Missouri Universities, and a pro TV game between Detroit and Green Bay.

Devilbiss Gets Salisbury Post

The State Board of Education announced at its meeting today that the 50-year-old Frederick County native would replace Dr. J. D. Blackwell in July of next year.

Dr. Blackwell's resignation becomes effective at that time.

Devilbiss was educated in Frederick schools and graduated from Western Maryland college. He took his masters and doctors degrees in education at the University of Maryland and at George Washington University.

He has taught in Mardela, Middletown, Frederick and Brunswick schools, serving as principal of the high schools in Frederick and Brunswick.

Dr. Devilbiss became supervisor of Maryland high schools in 1942 and later served as supervisor of teacher and higher education for Maryland.

Felon Caught After 17 Years

HAGERSTOWN, Nov. 24 (AP) — Ulysses Leak, 43-year-old fugitive from the State Reformatory for Males, was returned there today after a 17-year absence during which he married and fathered five children.

Leak escaped from the reformatory at nearby Breathedsville on Oct. 29, 1937, after serving two months of a 15-month sentence for assault.

He settled down to a family life in Perryman, Md., working for a contractor.

Testimony in circuit court, where he was tried on the escape charge, showed his first run-in with the law since the escape occurred last month. Police said he was picked up in Baltimore for investigation and was identified through fingerprints as the reformatory escapee.

Prime Ministers Visit Eisenhower

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—The prime ministers of Norway, Denmark and Sweden had lunch today with President Eisenhower at the White House.

They came to the capital last night for a brief visit at the conclusion of a history-making flight. The three, Oscar Torp of Norway, Hans Hedtoft of Denmark and Tage Erlander of Sweden, were on the first commercial flight from Copenhagen to Los Angeles over the polar regions. This service has been inaugurated by the Scandanavian Airlines System, owned by the three countries.

Additional Grant Goes To West Berlin

BERLIN, Nov. 24 (AP)—The United States Foreign Operations Mission announced today an additional grant of $23,695,000 for economic aid to Allied West Berlin from the U. S. government.

The announcement said the new aid is aimed particularly at expanding West Berlin's industrial capacity and creating additional permanent places of employment. The grant supplements funds already allocated for those purposes as well as reconstruction and refugee housing programs in Berlin.

College Heads Favor Students Debate On China

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24 (AP) — At least five Maryland college presidents and a dean said today they thought their students ought to be allowed to debate whether or not the United States should recognize Red China.

However, President Eisenhower said at his press conference yesterday he would trust cadets and midshipmen and let them debate the issue to their hearts' content.

Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, president of the University of Maryland:

". . . I think the students here should be permitted to debate the issue. If we can't have freedom of speech on the campuses, I don't know where we could have it."

Dr. Richard D. Weigle, president of St. John's College, Annapolis:

"We would debate it. Our position is quite different from that of the Naval Academy where the students are trained to carry out the known policy of the United States, not to make it. It seems right to suggest other topics for them to discuss, but for us it is a vital national question that has to be debated."

Rt. Rev. Thomas J. Murray, president of Loyola College, Baltimore:

"Debating basically is "a test of ingenuity" and a college student "ought to be permitted to discuss questions without the necessity of involving himself personally with either opinion."

Dean Elizabeth Green, Goucher College, Baltimore:

"We would be very happy to debate it if we had a debating club."

Dr. Martin D. Jenkins, president of Morgan State College, Baltimore:

"In this country we should consider and discuss all aspects of such important problems. We plan to debate the subject."

Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, president of Washington College, Chestertown:

"I see no reason why the ordinary college could not debate the subject. It would help bring into the open some of the issues involved."

Dr. Lowell S. Ensor, president of Western Maryland College:

Dismal Weather Blankets East

[By The Associated Press]

Cloudy and rather dismal weather blanketed most of the eastern half of the nation Wednesday, but it was dry and clear in the western half.

A slowly moving disturbance over the Great Lakes was responsible for the cloudiness in the East, while a large nearly stationary high pressure area extending from the Great Basin and the Rockies southeastward across the Southern Plains was responsible for the clear skies and the dryness in the West.

Light snow predominated across the Upper Mississippi Valley and to the Western Great Lakes with mostly showers or light rain from the eastern lakes south through the Ohio Valley and eastward to the Atlantic Coast, including Southern New England. Temperatures in the 30s ruled much of this region with the 40s from Southern New England through the Ohio Valley. There was some light rain in the far West.

Some afternoon temperatures Wednesday included: Salt Lake City 51; El Centro, Calif., 85; Duluth, Minn., 27; Miami 74; Bismarck 40, and New York and Washington, each 45.

Bohlen And Dulles Have Consultation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen, home from Moscow for consultation, met briefly with Secretary of State Dulles and conferred with other high officials.

Bohlen said he planned to go out of town for the weekend. Later inquiry confirmed that he is going to Aiken, S. C., for a Thanksgiving visit with a sister.

Upon his arrival here Wednesday Bohlen said his talks with officials would be "regular routine—very normal procedure."

State To Purchase Martinsburg Armory

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 24 (AP)—The state expects to complete its purchase of the Martinsburg armory in about two weeks.

The State Armory Board met here yesterday to complete final arrangements for the purchase. The building, now owned by the American Legion, will cost $77,649 including adjoining property.

An Armory Board spokesman said the state's share of the cost would be about $23,000. The federal government will provide the remainder.

Michigan established the first state agricultural college in the United States in 1857.

MARRIED FOR 79 YEARS — Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Hartley, who were married when they were 16, celebrated their 79th wedding anniversary yesterday at Sagle, Idaho, and are believed to be the nation's longest married couple. Although 95, both are keen of mind, she has active interest in current events. Their families were on opposite sides in the Civil War.

Finds His Coat At Bottom Of Barrel Again

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—It's happened again!

James Toner, president of the St. Anthony's Parish Holy Name Society, reported the society and the parish sodality had a highly successful old clothing drive.

Then he prepared to go home.

Lane Advocates Force On Reds

LAWRENCE, Mass., Nov. 24 (AP) —Rep. Thomas J. Lane (D-Mass) said today "protests mean nothing" as far as Chinese Communist prison sentences to 13 Americans are concerned and that "force is the only argument that will induce them to release our fellow citizens."

Lane's district includes Lynn, home town of Richard George Fecteau 27, one of the prisoners.

The congressman said further:

"Passing headlines won't rescue these men from the Iron Curtain of a Communist jail. I, therefore, ask the State Department to serve notice on the Chinese Reds that they be given one week to fly these men out to freedom.

"If this demand is not complied with we shall inform the Chinese Reds that we shall step up our aid to Chiang Kai-shek and permit him to engage in counteroffensive action against the Chinese mainland—effectively sealing off all Red commerce."

Red Buttons Ill, Will Miss Show

NEW YORK (AP) — Television comic "Red" Buttons is suffering from a virus infection and will miss his weekly show Friday night, a spokesman for the NBC-TV network said yesterday.

He is the third major entertainer that illness has kept off television in the past week. Milton Berle suffered a nervous collapse following a show and Joan Blondell became ill at a TV rehearsal.

Talbott Dissatisfied With Air Defenses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Secretary Harold Talbott said yesterday this country cannot rely yet on antiaircraft guided missiles to knock down enemy bombers and expressed dissatisfaction with the efficiency of interceptor planes.

Moreover, Talbott indicated he believes it virtually impossible with present weapons to intercept long range guided missiles traveling at 3500 miles per hour. He said it is like pitching needles from the opposite ends of a hall "in the hope the needles might collide."

Better methods of defense are being developed, he added.

In an address for the National Press Club, Talbott also said it "may be" that the Strategic Air Force bombers will be enlarged, although a single bomber now can carry an explosive load equal to the destructive power carried by all the air forces of World War II.

Put Lye In Snuff, Man Goes To Jail

CHESTERTOWN, Md., Nov. 24 (AP)—John Caulk, about 60, was sent to the House of Correction today for putting lye in the snuff box of Edna Wheeler, his girl friend.

The 45-year-old woman told Substitute Magistrate F. Asbury Bartlett that her lips were burned when she took a pinch of snuff to tuck into her cheek.

Caulk wouldn't testify and refused to tell why he made the lye-for-snuff switch. Both principals are Negroes.

Housewife Says McCarthy Isn't Answer To Reds

PALMER, Mass. (AP)—Mrs. Winifred Swanson, 30-year-old housewife who says she doesn't believe Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) is "America's best answer to communism," is only a little surprised by the snowball growth of her drive to support his censure.

Only last Tuesday she decided something should be done to "counteract" the petition drive of the Committee for Ten Million Americans Opposing Censure.

Mrs. Swanson, mother of a year-old son and wife of a tariff computer for a Springfield trucking firm, announced she would seek 20 million signatures favoring censure.

She typed up a few petition forms and sent them out.

Since then she has done little, she says, "but answer the 'phone and sign for telegrams," with a little time out to run off more copies of her petition on a borrowed duplicator.

She says she has sent out 1,500 copies of the form, with instructions to have them signed and mailed directly to Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), chairman of the committee which recommended censure.

For that reason she doesn't have any idea how many signatures have been affixed to her petitions.

She says she has had requests from all parts of the United States asking for forms.

Once she got the ball rolling, Mrs. Swanson said she turned control over to a "committee of privates, first class, retired," with her husband, Marshall, World War II veteran, as one of the committee.

Collapse Of Hook Caused Man's Death

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24 (AP)—Fire Department investigators said today that a half-inch metal hook which straightened out under the weight of Peter Jekubs, 50-year-old Baltimore steeplejack, was to blame for his death.

Jekubs weighed 300 pounds. The Fire Department was called out to rescue him Monday after he slipped from a YMCA tower and was left hanging upside down with a rope around his leg for more than an hour.

The metal hook connected a life belt to a block with which firemen had hoped to rescue the man. His weight proved to be too much for the hook, they said.

Producer Takes Over Lead Role

NEW YORK (AP) — Haila Stoddard, television actress making her debut yesterday as a Broadway theatrical producer, suddenly had to take over the play's leading role today as well.

The acting stint was forced on her when doctors reported that Constance Ford, the principal performer in the new farce "One Eye Closed," would be unable to go on because of an attack of appendicitis.

Broadway historians said that once before, in 1928, this had happened. William Brady appeared that time in "A Free Soul."

Making Study

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House said today that former Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge is making a general study for President Eisenhower of organization, coordination and development of foreign economic policy.

Sobeloff Named "Man Of Year" By Ad Group

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Advertising Club of Baltimore announced today it has selected U. S. Solicitor General Simon E. Sobeloff as Baltimore's "Man of the Year."

Sobeloff will be honored at a luncheon Wednesday, Dec. 8.

The Ad Club said Sobeloff was not picked only because he holds the high government post, but because he served "with credit to himself and to his profession" as chief judge of the Maryland Court of Appeals and because he has "demonstrated character, courage and integrity of the highest order."

Movie And Turkey Promised To Inmates

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24 (AP) — A movie and a turkey dinner will brighten the day for the 1,631 inmates of the Maryland Penitentiary tomorrow.

Warden Vernon L. Pepersack said the holiday menu will be:

Armed Showdown In Kremlin Settled Struggle For Power

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (AP)—An armed showdown by Communist leaders in the Kremlin settled the Moscow struggle for power and sent police boss Lavrenty P. Beria to his doom, says a former officer of Beria's forces.

Writing in Life magazine, Lt. Col. Yuri Rastvorov, who defected to the Americans in Japan last January, declares:

Beria, allied with Stalin's son, Lt. Gen. Vassily Stalin, gathered forces during Stalin's final illness with the intention eventually of seizing the Soviet government by force. Marshal Georgi Zhukov and other military leaders, fearing a blood purge even greater than Stalin's if Beria succeeded, joined forces with Georgi Malenkov and other Communist elements to thwart the intended coup, seize Beria and his cohorts and send them to death by execution.

Headed Secret Police

Col. Rastvorov until last January was the head of an MVD (Beria's secret police) spy ring in Japan. Expressing conviction that Stalin died a natural death in March, 1953, he says:

"With 10 physicians prepared to testify that their leader had indeed died of a brain hemorrhage, each member of the (ruling) group hoped to forestall any future accusations that he had plotted Stalin's death or failed to provide the fullest possible medical care for the dying Vozhd (leader)."

But a contest for power between the various blocs became inevitable when Stalin died. Rastvorov sketches the Kremlin events this way:

Malenkov, who had flattered and wooed Beria in the past, had his assistance in becoming Premier, while Beria retained control over the secret police and the nation's arms program. Beria realized the time was not ripe for a hated police boss to take over the top job, and thus joined a working agreement with Malenkov and V. M. Molotov for a governing triumvirate.

Molotov could not have taken the top job because he had been in disfavor and his wife actually had just been released from imprisonment on Stalin's charges that she was a spy for the Americans. This charge was based largely on the fact she had a brother in the United States.

Quietly Shook Up Force

But Beria set out at once to build up his own power, quietly shaking up police forces throughout the country, and climaxing his moves by bringing about public acquittal of the group of doctors accused in February 1953 of plotting Soviet leaders' deaths.

Aligned with Beria were Stalin's son and several generals, including Col. Gen. Pavel Artemiev, commandant of the Moscow district; Lt. Gen. N. K. Spiridonov, commandant of the Kremlin; and Lt. Gen. K. R. Sinilov, commandant of the city of Moscow. (None of these has been heard from since Beria was seized. Rastvorov reports all were quietly liquidated.)

But Malenkov was not idle either, and set about strengthening his position in the Communist party. Suddenly, with the help of Army generals, Malenkov had young Stalin removed from his post. Beria realized the time for action had come, and Artemiev ordered two divisions under trusted officers into Moscow from the nearby provinces. But Communist spies in the army tipped off Malenkov.

Key Communist leaders were armed as they gathered for the meeting. They seized Beria on his arrival, ignored his pleas for mercy and led him away. With Beria gone, the plot collapsed.

Young Stalin disappeared. Shortly after Beria was seized, the Defense Ministry's party section met announced that henceforth party organizations of the armed forces would be loyal followers of the Central Committee.

M'Carthy Said To Be Improved

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) was reported today to be continuing to improve at Bethesda Naval Hospital and one of his supporters said he expects the censure debate will resume Monday as scheduled.

This supporter, Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill), said he had no assurance that McCarthy would be back in the Senate Monday, however. If he has not been released from the hospital by then, Dirksen said, "We would have to take that into account."

The hospital, where McCarthy is being treated for an injured right elbow, said the senator "has sustained previously reported improvement."

The Senate recessed for 10 days last Thursday when told McCarthy had to have hospital treatment. It took the position that it shouldn't proceed with debate on whether to censure McCarthy for his past actions unless he was on hand to defend himself.

The censure resolution will die Dec. 24 if it is not acted on before then. Sen. George (D-Ga) said the Senate should know by Monday or Tuesday whether the issue will "reach a culmination" or drag along to the expiration date.

Two Youths Held In Bombing Attacks

ROCKVILLE, Md., Nov. 24 (AP)—Two Bethesda youths were placed under $1,000 bond each today after they were indicted on charges of arson and malicious destruction of property in bombings last spring.

They are James L. Fieser Jr. and James P. Seward, 18.

In a series of bombings last May, homemade explosives were tossed into several homes and business places.

Latin American Countries Plan Inter-American Bank To Aid Economical Future

QUITANDINHA, Brazil, Nov. 24 (AP)—Latin-American countries launched plans today for a big Inter-American bank to finance their economic development — with or without United States participation.

The plan was drafted by Chile and is supported by a majority of the 21 countries represented at the Inter-American Economic Conference here. It envisages participation by the United States, but word circulated among the delegates the other countries will put up the money themselves if Washington does not go along.

GRATEFUL — Alex Washchenke, Russian immigrant, placed an ad in a Chicago newspaper expressing his gratitude for the blessing he has found in the United States. He described "the warm and pleasant feeling" of good job and friendly superiors and ends, "I thank God for such sympathetic human beings in this wonderful God blessed America."

The U.S. delegation appeared cold to the project. The delegation, headed by Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey, has expressed the view the U.S. Export-Import Bank, the World Bank and a proposed International Finance Corp. plus private investment, can provide ample resources to meet Latin America's economic needs. But orator after orator from the other delegations objected to the U.S. contention the capital so provided would be adequate.

Outlines Plans

Chilean Finance Minister Jorge Prat outlined his country's plan yesterday for an Inter-American bank. He estimated Latin-American nations have between three and six billion dollars in bank reserves which they could use to improve their backward economies.

The plan gained impetus today when both Argentina and Cuba supported it. Other countries that favor it include Colombia, Ecuador, the Dominican Republic, Costa Rica, El Salvador, Nicaragua, Honduras and Guatemala. This gives the proposal the backing of 11 delegations, sufficient for approval by the plenary conference when the measure comes out of committee.

Committee hearings began this afternoon. A fight is expected within the committee as the group seeks to find a formula which the United States might accept as a basis for participation.

Full details of the Chilean plan may have to be worked out in the committee by the hemisphere's top economic experts.

Some delegates have indicated one drawback may be the fact Latin-American countries generally have pledged their liquid reserves in such ways they could not be used easily as capital for a new bank. These delegates pointed out some of the reserves are tied up with the International Monetary Fund, while others are in the form of World Bank bonds.

Argentina Backs Move

Argentine economy Minister Antonio F. Cafiero surprised today's plenary session when he said his country will support the Chilean plan. The Peron government had not been expected to go along with the idea. Cafiero called the Chilean proposal an "important contribution."

In supporting the plan, Cuba's Secretary of the Treasury Gustavo Gutierrez Sanchez said present international institutions are not providing the help which Latin America needs. He appealed to the United States to "remember that its best friends" are in Latin America.

Eugene F. Black, president of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Developmen. (World Bank), said his institution is ready and willing to finance economic development projects on a larger scale in Latin America. He emphasized "the bank cannot substitute for domestic effort," but can only supplement such effort.

Black said "well-planned investments can have explosive effects" in a broad development of a country's resources and that this is the type of project which his bank particularly welcomes.

Americans To Count

turkey, gift of the National Turkey Federation.

And if ordinary families didn't have a free turkey, they could buy the traditional bird for 4 to 10 cents a pound cheaper, generally speaking, than last year.

Mrs. Aryness Joy Wickens, acting commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, said in Washington "it is quite clear from everything we have that the Thanksgiving dinner costs this year will be less than last year."

Here was the menu for American soldiers still in Korea:

Shrimp cocktail, roast young turkey, dressing, giblet gravy, cranberry sauce, snowflake potatoes, buttered corn, green peas, cole slaw, stuffed celery, olives, fresh carrot sticks, mixed pickles, apples, oranges, fruit cake, pumpkin pie, hot rolls, butter, coffee, tea, assorted candies and mixed nuts.

A Thanksgiving dinner just about as elaborate as that was advertised by one of Washington's better restaurants at $4.50—or $2.75 in child's portions.

Football, too, has a place on the holiday traditionally devoted to feasting and giving thanks to God.

There is the 61st meeting of Cornell and Pennsylvania, and dozens of others that have become Thanksgiving fixtures. For those who don't want to leave home to see football, there is a nationwide televised game between Maryland and Missouri Universities, and a pro TV game between Detroit and Green Bay.

Class To Meet

Devilbiss Gets Salisbury Post

The State Board of Education announced at its meeting today that the 50-year-old Frederick County native would replace Dr. J. D. Blackwell in July of next year.

Dr. Blackwell's resignation becomes effective at that time.

Devilbiss was educated in Frederick schools and graduated from Western Maryland college. He took his masters and doctors degrees in education at the University of Maryland and at George Washington University.

He has taught in Mardela, Middletown, Frederick and Brunswick schools, serving as principal of the high schools in Frederick and Brunswick.

Dr. Devilbiss became supervisor of Maryland high schools in 1942 and later served as supervisor of teacher and higher education for Maryland.

Felon Caught After 17 Years

HAGERSTOWN, Nov. 24 (AP)—Ulysses Leak, 43-year-old fugitive from the State Reformatory for Males, was returned there today after a 17-year absence during which he married and fathered five children.

Leak escaped from the reformatory at nearby Breathedsville on Oct. 29, 1937, after serving two months of a 15-month sentence for assault.

He settled down to a family life in Perryman, Md., working for a contractor.

Testimony in circuit court, where he was tried on the escape charge, showed his first run-in with the law since the escape occurred last month. Police said he was picked up in Baltimore for investigation and was identified through fingerprints as the reformatory escapee.

Prime Ministers Visit Eisenhower

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—The prime ministers of Norway, Denmark and Sweden had lunch today with President Eisenhower at the White House.

They came to the capital last night for a brief visit at the conclusion of a history-making flight. The three, Oscar Torp of Norway, Hans Hedtoft of Denmark and Tage Erlander of Sweden, were on the first commercial flight from Copenhagen to Los Angeles over the polar regions. This service has been inaugurated by the Scandanavian Airlines System, owned by the three countries.

Additional Grant Goes To West Berlin

BERLIN, Nov. 24 (AP)—The United States Foreign Operations Mission announced today an additional grant of $23,695,000 for economic aid to Allied West Berlin from the U. S. government.

The announcement said the new aid is aimed particularly at expanding West Berlin's industrial capacity and creating additional permanent places of employment. The grant supplements funds already allocated for those purposes as well as reconstruction and refugee housing programs in Berlin.

College Heads Favor Students Debate On China

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24 (AP) — At least five Maryland college presidents and a dean said today they thought their students ought to be allowed to debate whether or not the United States should recognize Red China.

However, President Eisenhower said at his press conference yesterday he would trust cadets and midshipmen and let them debate the issue to their hearts' content.

Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, president of the University of Maryland:

". . . I think the students here should be permitted to debate the issue. If we can't have freedom of speech on the campuses, I don't know where we could have it."

Dr. Richard D. Weigle, president of St. John's College, Annapolis:

"We would debate it. Our position is quite different from that of the Naval Academy where the students are trained to carry out the known policy of the United States, not to make it. It seems right to suggest other topics for them to discuss, but for us it is a vital national question that has to be debated."

Rt. Rev. Thomas J. Murray, president of Loyola College, Baltimore:

"Debating basically is "a test of ingenuity" and a college student "ought to be permitted to discuss questions without the necessity of involving himself personally with either opinion."

Dean Elizabeth Green, Goucher College, Baltimore:

"We would be very happy to debate it if we had a debating club."

Dr. Martin D. Jenkins, president of Morgan State College, Baltimore:

"In this country we should consider and discuss all aspects of such important problems. We plan to debate the subject."

Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, president of Washington College, Chestertown:

"I see no reason why the ordinary college could not debate the subject. It would help bring into the open some of the issues involved."

Dr. Lowell S. Ensor, president of Western Maryland College:

Dismal Weather Blankets East

[By The Associated Press]

Cloudy and rather dismal weather blanketed most of the eastern half of the nation Wednesday, but it was dry and clear in the western half.

A slowly moving disturbance over the Great Lakes was responsible for the cloudiness in the East, while a large nearly stationary high pressure area extending from the Great Basin and the Rockies southeastward across the Southern Plains was responsible for the clear skies and the dryness in the West.

Light snow predominated across the Upper Mississippi Valley and to the Western Great Lakes with mostly showers or light rain from the eastern lakes south through the Ohio Valley and eastward to the Atlantic Coast, including Southern New England. Temperatures in the 30s ruled much of this region with the 40s from Southern New England through the Ohio Valley. There was some light rain in the far West.

Some afternoon temperatures Wednesday included: Salt Lake City 51; El Centro, Calif., 85; Duluth, Minn., 27; Miami 74; Bismarck 40, and New York and Washington, each 45.

Bohlen And Dulles Have Consultation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen, home from Moscow for consultation, met briefly with Secretary of State Dulles and conferred with other high officials.

Bohlen said he planned to go out of town for the weekend. Later inquiry confirmed that he is going to Aiken, S. C., for a Thanksgiving visit with a sister.

Upon his arrival here Wednesday Bohlen said his talks with officials would be "regular routine—very normal procedure."

State To Purchase Martinsburg Armory

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 24 (AP)—The state expects to complete its purchase of the Martinsburg armory in about two weeks.

The State Armory Board met here yesterday to complete final arrangements for the purchase. The building, now owned by the American Legion, will cost $77,649 including adjoining property.

An Armory Board spokesman said the state's share of the cost would be about $23,000. The federal government will provide the remainder.

Michigan established the first state agricultural college in the United States in 1857.

MARRIED FOR 79 YEARS — Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Hartley, who were married when they were 16, celebrated their 79th wedding anniversary yesterday at Sagle, Idaho, and are believed to be the nation's longest married couple. Although 95, both are keen of mind, she has active interest in current events. Their families were on opposite sides in the Civil War.

Finds His Coat At Bottom Of Barrel Again

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—It's happened again!

James Toner, president of the St. Anthony's Parish Holy Name Society, reported the society and the parish sodality had a highly successful old clothing drive.

Then he prepared to go home.

Lane Advocates Force On Reds

LAWRENCE, Mass., Nov. 24 (AP)—Rep. Thomas J. Lane (D-Mass) said today "protests mean nothing" as far as Chinese Communist prison sentences to 13 Americans are concerned and that "force is the only argument that will induce them to release our fellow citizens."

Lane's district includes Lynn, home town of Richard George Fecteau 27, one of the prisoners.

The congressman said further: "Passing headlines won't rescue these men from the Iron Curtain of a Communist jail. I, therefore, ask the State Department to serve notice on the Chinese Reds that they be given one week to fly these men out to freedom.

"If this demand is not complied with we shall inform the Chinese Reds that we shall step up our aid to Chiang Kai-shek and permit him to engage in counteroffensive action against the Chinese mainland—effectively sealing off all Red commerce."

Red Buttons Ill, Will Miss Show

NEW YORK (AP) — Television comic "Red" Buttons is suffering from a virus infection and will miss his weekly show Friday night, a spokesman for the NBC-TV network said yesterday.

He is the third major entertainer that illness has kept off television in the past week. Milton Berle suffered a nervous collapse following a show and Joan Blondell became ill at a TV rehearsal.

Talbott Dissatisfied With Air Defenses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Secretary Harold Talbott said yesterday this country cannot rely yet on antiaircraft guided missiles to knock down enemy bombers and expressed dissatisfaction with the efficiency of interceptor planes.

Moreover, Talbott indicated he believes it virtually impossible with present weapons to intercept long range guided missiles traveling at 3500 miles per hour. He said it is like pitching needles from the opposite ends of a hall "in the hope the needles might collide."

Better methods of defense are being developed, he added.

In an address for the National Press Club, Talbott also said it "may be" that the Strategic Air Force bombers will be enlarged, although a single bomber now can carry an explosive load equal to the destructive power carried by all the air forces of World War II.

Put Lye In Snuff, Man Goes To Jail

CHESTERTOWN, Md., Nov. 24 (AP)—John Caulk, about 60, was sent to the House of Correction today for putting lye in the snuff box of Edna Wheeler, his girl friend.

The 45-year-old woman told Substitute Magistrate F. Asbury Bartlett that her lips were burned when she took a pinch of snuff to tuck into her cheek.

Caulk wouldn't testify and refused to tell why he made the lye-for-snuff switch. Both principals are Negroes.

Housewife Says McCarthy Isn't Answer To Reds

PALMER, Mass. (AP)—Mrs. Winifred Swanson, 30-year-old housewife who says she doesn't believe Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) is "America's best answer to communism," is only a little surprised by the snowball growth of her drive to support his censure.

Only last Tuesday she decided something should be done to "counteract" the petition drive of the Committee for Ten Million Americans Opposing Censure.

Mrs. Swanson, mother of a year-old son and wife of a tariff computer for a Springfield trucking firm, announced she would seek 20 million signatures favoring censure.

She typed up a few petition forms and sent them out.

Since then she has done little, she says, "but answer the 'phone and sign for telegrams," with a little time out to run off more copies of her petition on a borrowed duplicator.

She says she has sent out 1,500 copies of the form, with instructions to have them signed and mailed directly to Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), chairman of the committee which recommended censure.

For that reason she doesn't have any idea how many signatures have been affixed to her petitions.

She says she has had requests from all parts of the United States asking for forms.

Once she got the ball rolling, Mrs. Swanson said she turned control over to a "committee of privates, first class, retired," with her husband, Marshall, World War II veteran, as one of the committee.

Raises Hogs In His Cellar

CHICAGO, Nov. 24 (AP)—Hal White is pig-farming in his basement again. He expects he may be hearing from irate neighbors who two years ago got the health department to make him move his hogs to a farm.

But this time White figures he'll be able to primp up three Tamworth barrows into blue-ribbon shape and get them into a stock show before encountering serious difficulty in his Southwest Side residential neighborhood.

White, 32, regularly is in the sporting goods business, but his wife, Genevieve, 31, says he's "a hobby nut about hogs."

White recently spirited three barrows into his basement on a dark night to get them ready for the upcoming International Livestock Exposition. Their presence became known when some dogs smelled out the secret and began barking at the windows.

Mrs. White said her husband plans to haul the three barrows to the International Amphitheater, site of the livestock show, on Wednesday.

"He said this is the last year he's going to enter hogs, and I hope so," Mrs. White said. "But then, he's figuring that our oldest boy will be ready to start showing in a year or two, so I guess it'll begin all over again."

White has been raising porkers for more than 10 years, and has won several ribbons in competition.

Cancer Society Makes Reply To Cigaret Concern's Critic

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (AP)—The American Cancer Society, replying to criticism from a large cigarette manufacturer, said that "we center our attack only on cancer... regardless of where the chips fall."

E. A. Darr, president of the Reynolds Tobacco Co., had accused the society of centering its attack on the cigarette industry and tying cigarettes to cancer through "guilt by association."

There isn't a "single shred of substantial evidence" to support the theory, Darr told a luncheon of the Security Analysts' Assn. Monday.

"We center our attack only on cancer and with the support of the public we shall continue to do so, regardless of where the chips fall."

Cameron said the ACS finds itself "in large and growing company" of investigators who have reached the conclusion that "an association exists between cigarette smoking and lung cancer." He added:

"We have set aside $500,000 for investigation of all causes of lung cancer, and we will welcome it if the studies we finance produce evidence that would enable the tobacco industry to eliminate the factors which appear to be responsible for the association between cigarette smoking and lung cancer."

Darr's speech apparently was the first time the head of a big tobacco firm has singled out the cancer society for criticism.

The industry has set up a research committee to investigate the relationship between tobacco use and health.

Cameron asserted:

"The key point of Mr. Darr's attack on the society seems to be the matter of what constitutes substantial evidence. This is a question we think best left to scientists and physicians. As an organization seeking to save lives from cancer of all kinds, through education of the public and through a broad research program, the society seeks, gets and is guided by the advice of scientists and physicians of acknowledged competence and authority.

"In taking our public position that an association exists between cigarette smoking and lung cancer, we have expressed what we believe to be the trend of opinion of those who have given the most careful study to the evidence.

"The society has never stated that cigarette smoking is solely responsible for the alarming increase of cancer of the lung."

Negroes Are Admitted

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24 (AP) — Friends School announced today Negroes would be admitted to its nursery and kindergarten classes next September and integration would be carried out to completion by adding one grade per year.

Dr. G. Canby Robinson, chairman of the Quaker school's educational committee, said failure to change the admission policy would amount to "moral and spiritual defeat."

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

Glittering chandeliers were draped in filmy black. The stately, paneled room with its magnificently frescoed ceiling was darkened by curtains of black and deep red.

In the center of the room at Soviet headquarters in the palatial mansion at 680 Park Ave. was the bier of the chief Soviet delegate to the United Nations, who died Monday of a heart attack. It rested upon a rectangular platform, about two feet high, covered in severe black.

Vishinsky, looking frailer and wispier than he ever looked in his vigorous lifetime, was laid out in a casket fit for a king. His gray head rested on a pillow of ruffled white satin. Only the upper part of his black-clad body was exposed, his hands folded on his breast.

Behind the bier were two red flags of the Soviet Union, the golden tips of the staff meeting at a bow of black crepe. Along three of the walls were banked the elaborate floral tributes of Vishinsky's staff and his Soviet diplomatic colleagues, all bearing red ribbons emblazoned with golden Russian lettering such words as "To our beloved Andrei Yanuarievich Vishinsky."

A steady stream of what the Russians insisted should be "accredited" visitors passed silently in and out of the room. As they entered the building, they first satisfied two New York policemen as to their identity, then identified themselves to two solemn, black-garbed Russians just inside the door.

The visitor, once admitted, went to a small reception room, darkened by black curtains, to sign a book registering the names of all those who arrived to pay tribute to the departed spokesman for Moscow in the United Nations.

In whispers, or just by gestures, other solemn Russians directed the visitors to a spiral staircase to the right of the mansion's marble columns. Vishinsky's body lay in state in a room on the second floor. At either side of the door was a Russian bearing a brilliant red armband of mourning on his blac sleeve.

The visitor went in and stood i silence at the edge of a knot c about 20 Russians, men and won en, standing in vigil over the bier Some of them, both men and women, sobbed quietly, their eyes filled with tears.

This group made up a constant guard of honor, taking turns in groups of four — two men and two women — at standing stiff, solemn and silent at either side of he bier. At the end of each three-minute interval, four others from he group, one man and one woman on either side, tiptoed silently forward, touched their ompatriots lightly on the arm, nd relieved them of their posts. All wore the brilliant red armbands of mourning on their sleeves. Not a word was spoken hroughout the whole procedure.

The crowd of curious which had collected outside the building, one

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

Glittering chandeliers were draped in filmy black. The stately, paneled room with its magnificently frescoed ceiling was darkened by curtains of black and deep red.

In the center of the room at Soviet headquarters in the palatial mansion at 680 Park Ave. was the bier of the chief Soviet delegate to the United Nations, who died Monday of a heart attack. It rested upon a rectangular platform, about two feet high, covered in severe black.

Vishinsky, looking frailer and wispier than he ever looked in his vigorous lifetime, was laid out in a casket fit for a king. His gray head rested on a pillow of ruffled white satin. Only the upper part of his black-clad body was exposed, his hands folded on his breast.

Behind the bier were two red flags of the Soviet Union, the golden tips of the staff meeting at a bow of black crepe. Along three of the walls were banked the elaborate floral tributes of Vishinsky's staff and his Soviet diplomatic colleagues, all bearing red ribbons emblazoned with golden Russian lettering such words as "To our beloved Andrei Yanuarievich Vishinsky."

A steady stream of what the Russians insisted should be "accredited" visitors passed silently in and out of the room. As they entered the building, they first satisfied two New York policemen as to their identity, then identified themselves to two solemn, black-garbed Russians just inside the door.

The visitor, once admitted, went to a small reception room, darkened by black curtains, to sign a book registering the names of all those who arrived to pay tribute to the departed spokesman for Moscow in the United Nations.

In whispers, or just by gestures, other solemn Russians directed the visitors to a spiral staircase to the right of the mansion's marble columns. Vishinsky's body lay in state in a room on the second floor. At either side of the door was a Russian bearing a brilliant red armband of mourning on his blac sleeve.

The visitor went in and stood i silence at the edge of a knot c about 20 Russians, men and won en, standing in vigil over the bier Some of them, both men and women, sobbed quietly, their eye filled with tears.

This group made up a constant guard of honor, taking turns in groups of four — two men and two women — at standing stiff, solemn and silent at either side of he bier. At the end of each three-minute interval, four others from he group, one man and one woman on either side, tiptoed silently forward, touched their ompatriots lightly on the arm, nd relieved them of their posts. All wore the brilliant red armbands of mourning on their sleeves. Not a word was spoken hroughout the whole procedure.

The crowd of curious which had collected outside the building, one

News Oddities Last Week Had Some Sad Tales

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (AP)—Sad stories were common as pigeons on a courthouse in last week's News Hunters had more than their share of troubles.

Near Mt. Pleasant, Mich., Fred Cashen, 19, hit a buck with his first shot of the hunting season. The wounded animal fell, bounced up and charged. A second shot hit the buck in the side. Cashen fled behind a tree as the deer kept charging. As the animal passed, the youth swung his rifle. It broke. For half an hour the chase went on, the angered buck running Cashen from tree to tree. It finally fell from loss of blood. Cashen finished the fight with a tree limb.

Mrs. Ola Cunningham in Paso Robles, Calif., had a 10-pound white hen turkey she had been raising for Thanksgiving. It had different ideas, and escaped to the hills. For four days a small army of searchers — including the dog catcher — chased it. At last report, it still was a gone gobbler.

A stork proved faster than the police of two states in a race through lower Indiana and into Kentucky. An expectant mother, Mrs. Mercedes Thompson, 29, was bundled into her car at Clarksville, Ind., and police gave her a rush escort to the Kentucky line. There Louisville police whizzed the car to the hospital. It was all in vain. A 6-pound, 10-ounce daughter was born in the car at the hospital gate.

A policeman at St. Joseph, Mo., had his troubles, too. The automobiles of detective Austin Beierle and another driver collided. The second man said he was broke, but gave Beierle his car to pay for the damages. The books didn't balance. Beierle's repairs cost $35 — he sold the second car for $12.50.

At Fort Worth, Tex., C. F. Colwell became a hero — but he had a rough time doing it.

The 29-year-old painter was talking with his brother outside of the brother's apartment house when the building caught fire. Colwell volunteered to rescue his brother's clothing.

Rushing inside, he grabbed the clothes and then learned the fire department hadn't been called. He dropped his bundle and grabbed a phone.

Then he found one woman still was in the building and rushed upstairs. A tenant rushing down with a mattress hit him headon and sent him sprawling. It was too late to get upstairs, so he ran outside and yelled for the woman to jump.

She appeared at her window, holding a bottle of ketchup and a jar of mayonnaise. He braced himself to catch the woman. She dropped the bottles on his head— and then jumped. The impact knocked him flat. The woman broke her leg.

The clothing belonging to his brother? "Burned up," Colwell said. "I never got back to it."

Vishinsky Was Enjoying Life When Death Struck Him Down

Editor's Note—In the last eight years Francis W. Carpenter of The Associated Press had talked scores of times with Andrei Vishinsky. He knew the Russian perhaps as well as any American could.

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 24 (AP)—In his last days at the U.N., Andrei Y. Vishinsky obviously was a man having fun and enjoying himself.

Carrying out Moscow's directives of limited agreements with the West on some subjects, he was negotiating with Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief American delegate, to achieve a vote on a resolution endorsing President Eisenhower's atom-for-peace plan. Moscow wants the proposed international agency tied to the Assembly and Security Council. But delegates who had talked with the Russians expected Vishinsky to cast a vote with the United States and the West for the resolution, leaving it to later negotiations to settle the issue of the Security Council. The Russians have a Security Council veto which Vishinsky often used.

Vishinsky played the cello for relaxation.

At social functions he served lavish food and drinks. At one such affair he handed a correspondent a glass of vodka and proposed a toast:

"To your success."

The correspondent drank that toast—though he and Vishinsky had different ideas of what would constitute success.

In 1950 Vishinsky fought the appointment of Secretary General Trygve Lie to an extension of three years in his term. He used harsh words to attack Lie. But at a Soviet anniversary party both Lie and Vishinsky performed in the most accepted diplomatic tradition. Vishinsky stuck out his hand and seemed to look a little embarrassed. Lie had been invited before the tirade and he felt he should attend the party since the invitation had not been revoked. He did not remain long and it probably was the last time he entered a Soviet mansion.

Vishinsky was on good terms with Lie's successor, Dag Hammarskjold. They had their arguments, but Vishinsky obviously respected Hammarskjold and cooperated with him on matters affecting the Secretariat.

Two weeks ago Monday Vishinsky was host at a party at 680 Park Avenue, New York, only a few steps from the living quarters where he died quietly. Dressed in his blue Foreign Office uniform with decorations, with his red-haired wife at his side, Vishinsky was a smiling host, with a ready word for everyone.

The American delegation boycotted that party in protest against the shooting down that weekend of an American plane off Japan. But some Americans went in various capacities and Vishinsky gave no notice of the official cold-shoulder.

Vishinsky loved to quote proverbs and to trip people who tried to trip him with Russian proverbs. Among his favorites:

"Don't spit in the well, you may get thirsty some day."

"A promise is like a chair—you sit on it a while and then you get up."

Once Selwyn Lloyd of Britain said Vishinsky reminded him of the Russian proverb that a bawling cow gives little milk. Vishinsky argued that was really a Polish saying.

Vishinsky took English lessons during his stay at the U.N. but he never felt easy in using the language. Rarely was his interpreter absent. But at a dinner in 1953, given by Charles A. Malik of Lebanon, a correspondent asked Vishinsky if he intended making a long speech the next day during a debate on disarmament. In slow English, he replied he did not plan to make a long speech but would discuss the subject. He spoke for two hours. He has said his longest speech took 12 hours. That was in his days as prosecutor in the Soviet Union and he spoke six hours one day and six the next.

He played opera. Once he was invited to the Metropolitan by a president of the Assembly. He reported sick when he found a person not friendly to his government would be in the party. That person later could not attend and Vishinsky recovered miraculously—and enjoyed the whole performance.

He went to church at least once that is known. With other delegates he attended a Mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York in the early days of the U.N. It is not known whether he was a churchgoing man, but in speeches he often quoted Scripture.

Educator Dies

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Nov. 24 (AP)—H. Laban White, 71-year-old retired West Virginia educator, died following an operation in a Fairmont hospital where he had been a patient since Sunday.

Afghanistan has no railroads. Virginia built the first rail road in the United States in 1756.

of the old apartment-block mansions of Park Avenue's heyday began to thin out early in the day as the police steadily turned away streams of people who thought anyone remained outside the building except a group of reporters and photographers and a handful of police. Visiting dignitaries rolled up in limousines, paid their respects and went silently away again, all within a matter of a few minutes.

Philadelphia Scrapple Heading Westward

By RUSSELL LANDSTROM

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24 (AP)—Consolation tip to Minneapolis: Your baseball buddy, Kansas City, got the Athletics, but something else from Philadelphia is drifting westward, straight to you.

It will be the piquant—some say ineffable—aroma of scrapple, gently sputtering on the griddle of a master chef.

Brother, is that something!

What haggis is to Scotland, boss-kous to North Africa, corn pone to the South, and turkey to Thanksgiving, scrapple is to Philadelphia.

If its subtleties of flavor have been somewhat slow in spreading to the rest of the world, that's because devotees have been a bit snobbish about sharing the delight.

How then did Minneapolis get a break? It was like this:

To Philadelphia—and to the august Union League in particular—came Danish-born Jorgen Viltoft, food and drink specialist at the Radisson Hotel, Minneapolis. Next June he will entertain the American Institute of Architects. And the architects want a scrapple party, just as they've had every year since 1950.

At the instigation of Edwin Bateman Morris, a native of Philadelphia and now vice president of the Tile Manufacturers Assn. in New York, the architects first waded into scrapple at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington. The scrapple breakfast has been a hit ever since.

Viltoft said that when the subject was first mentioned to him, he hadn't the foggiest notion whether scrapple was a popular word game or a form of virus.

Last night he got together in the Union League kitchen with Morris and chef Peter Grassi, a scrapple virtuoso if there ever was one. They admitted no one else but the league's manager, Daniel Layman, It was not the moment for amateur gumbling.

Viltoft: Is that scrapple? Why, I thought it would be pink. This is a funny green. Like penicillin mold.

Grassi (pityingly, all the while scattering flour with a lavish hand): Just wait. This is only the start, the warming, the pre-gramble.

Viltoft: That sounds like the Declaration of Independence. Or the Constitution. What about the scrapple? Does it change later—down about the Bill of Rights?

Grassi (politely but witheringly): "Just wait till you see the crispy brown little in a few moments. Scrapple won't look like faded seaweed to you then."

Sure enough, when the ritual was over, and everybody had had several rounds of the stuff, Viltoft said: "You can put me down as a convert. It's like nothing I've tasted before."

VA To Pay Out Policies Dividends

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Veterans Administration has announced it will pay a 22% million dollar insurance dividend to veterans next year.

Holders of approximately five million participating term and permanent plan policies under the World War II National Service Life Insurance program will receive 200 million dollars.

The remaining 26 million will go to holders of approximately 330,000 permanent plan policies under the U. S. Government Life Insurance Program of World War I.

Payments will be made shortly after the anniversary date of each policy, beginning in January and ending in December 1955.

Because of recent changes in the mortality and disability experience, VA said changes will be made in various premium and dividend rates for the 1955 payments.

Sheppard To Take Stand

CLEVELAND, Nov. 24 (AP)—Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard definitely will take the witness stand at his murder trial, one of his lawyers, Fred W. Garmone, said.

News Oddities Last Week Had Some Sad Tales

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (AP)—Sad stories were common as pigeons on a courthouse in last week's news.

Hunters had more than their share of troubles.

Near Mt. Pleasant, Mich., Fred Cashen, 18, hit a deer during the first shot of the hunting season. The wounded animal fell, bounced up and charged. A second shot hit the buck in the side. Cashen fled behind a tree as the deer kept charging. As the animal passed, the youth swung his rifle. It broke. For half an hour the chase went on, the angered buck running Cashen from tree to tree. It finally fell from loss of blood. Cashen finished the fight with a tree limb.

Mrs. Ola Cunningham in Paso Robles, Calif., had a 10-pound white hen turkey she had been raising for Thanksgiving. It had different ideas, and escaped to the hills. For four days a small army of searchers—including the dog catcher—chased it. At last report, it still was a gone gobbler.

A stork proved faster than the police of two states in a race through lower Indiana and into Kentucky. An expectant mother, Mrs. Mercedes Thompson, 29, was bundled into her car at Clarksville, Ind., and police gave her a rush escort to the Kentucky line. There Louisville police whizzed the car to the hospital. It was all in vain. A 6-pound, 10-ounce daughter was born in the car at the hospital gate.

A policeman at St. Joseph, Mo., had his troubles, too. The automobiles of detective Austin Beierle and another driver collided. The second man said he was broke, but gave Beierle his car to pay for the damages. The books didn't balance. Beierle's repairs cost $13—he sold the second car for $12.50.

At Fort Worth, Tex., C. F. Colwell became a hero — but he had a rough time doing it.

The 39-year-old painter was talking with his brother outside of the brother's apartment house when the building caught fire. Colwell volunteered to rescue his brother's clothing.

Rushing inside, he grabbed the clothes and then learned the fire department hadn't been called. He dropped his bundle and grabbed a phone.

Then he found one woman still was in the building and rushed upstairs. A tenant rushing down with a mattress hit him headon and sent him sprawling. It was too late to get upstairs, so he ran outside and yelled for the woman to jump.

She appeared at her window, holding a bottle of ketchup and a jar of mayonnaise. He braced himself to catch the woman. She dropped the bottles on his head—and then jumped. The impact knocked him flat. The woman broke her leg.

The clothing belonging to his brother? "Burned up," Colwell said. "I never got back to it."

Vishinsky Was Enjoying Life When Death Struck Him Down

Editor's Note—In the last eight years Francis W. Carpenter of The Associated Press had talked scores of times with Andrei Vishinsky. He knew the Russian perhaps as well as any American could.

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

Carrying out Moscow's directives of limited agreements with the West on some subjects, he was negotiating with Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief American delegate, to achieve a vote on a resolution endorsing President Eisenhower's atoms-for-peace plan. Moscow wants the proposed international agency tied to the Assembly and Security Council. But delegates who had talked with the Russians expected Vishinsky to cast a vote with the United States and the West for the resolution, leaving it to later negotiations to settle the issue of the Security Council. The Russians have a Security Council veto which Vishinsky often used.

Vishinsky played the cello for relaxation.

At social functions he served lavish food and drinks. At one such affair he handed a correspondent a glass of vodka and proposed a toast:

"To your success."

The correspondent drank that toast—though he and Vishinsky had different ideas of what would constitute success.

In 1950 Vishinsky fought the appointment of Secretary General Trygve Lie to an extension of three years in his term. He used harsh words to attack Lie. But at a Soviet anniversary party both Lie and Vishinsky performed in the most accepted diplomatic tradition. Vishinsky stuck out his hand and seemed to look a little embarrassed. Lie had been invited before the tirade and he felt he should attend the party since the invitation had not been revoked. He did not remain long and it probably was the last time he entered a Soviet mansion.

Vishinsky was on good terms with Lie's successor, Dag Hammarskjold. They had their arguments, but Vishinsky obviously respected Hammarskjold and cooperated with him on matters affecting the Secretariat.

Two weeks ago Monday Vishinsky was host at a party at 680 Park Avenue, New York, only a few steps from the living quarters where he died quietly. Dressed in his blue Foreign Office uniform with decorations, with his pepper-and-salt hair at his side, Vishinsky was a smiling host, with a ready word for everyone.

The American delegation boycotted that party in protest against the shooting down that weekend of an American plane off Japan. But some Americans went in various capacities and Vishinsky gave no notice of the official cold-shoulder.

Vishinsky loved to quote proverbs and to trip people who tried to trip him with Russian proverbs. Among his favorites:

"A promise is like a chair—you sit on it a while and then you get up."

Once Selwyn Lloyd of Britain said Vishinsky reminded him of the Russian proverb that a hawling cow gives little milk. Vishinsky argued that was really a Polish saying.

Vishinsky took English lessons during his stay at the U.N. but he never felt easy in using the language. Rarely was his interpreter absent. But at a dinner in 1953, given by Charles A. Malik of Lebanon, a correspondent asked Vishinsky if he intended making a long speech the next day during a debate on disarmament. In slow English, he replied he did not plan to make a long speech but would discuss the subject. He spoke for two hours. He has said his longest speech took 12 hours. That was in his days as prosecutor in the Soviet Union and he spoke six hours one day and six the next.

He played chess. Once he was invited to the Metropolitan by a president of the Assembly. He reported sick when he found a person not friendly to his government would be in the party. That person later could not attend and Vishinsky recovered miraculously—and enjoyed the whole performance.

He went to church at least once that is known. With other delegates he attended a Mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York in the early days of the U.N. It is not known whether he was a churchgoing man, but in speeches he often quoted Scripture.

Educator Dies

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Nov. 24 (AP)—H. Lahun White, 71-year-old retired West Virginia educator, died following an operation in a Fairmont hospital where he had been a patient since Sunday.

Vishinsky Lay

of the old apartment-block mansions of Park Avenue's heyday began to thin out early in the day as the police steadily turned away curious people who thought the body would be on view to the general public. By 11 a.m., scarcely anyone remained outside the building except a group of reporters and photographers and a handful of police. Visiting dignitaries rolled up in limousines, paid their respects and went silently away again, all within a matter of a few minutes.

Philadelphia Scrapple Heading Westward

By RUSSELL LANDSTROM

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24 (AP)—Consolation tip to Minneapolis: Your baseball buddy, Kansas City, got the Athletics, but something else from Philadelphia is waftng westward, straight to you.

That will be the piquant—some say ineffable—aroma of scrapple, gently sputtering on the griddle of a master chef.

Brother, is that something!

What haggis is to Scotland, couscous to North Africa, corn pone to the South, and turkey to Thanksgiving, scrapple is to Philadelphia.

If its subtleties of flavor have been somewhat slow in spreading to the rest of the world, that's because devotees have been a bit snobbish about sharing the delight.

To Philadelphia—and to the august Union League in particular—came Danish-born Jorgen Viltoft, food and drink specialist at the Radisson Hotel, Minneapolis. Next June he will entertain the American Institute of Architects. And the architects want a scrapple party, just as they've had every year since 1950.

At the instigation of Edwin Bateman Morris, a native of Philadelphia and now vice president of the Tile Manufacturers Assn. in New York, the architects first waded into scrapple at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington. The scrapple breakfast has been a hit ever since.

Viltoft said that when the subject was first mentioned to him he hadn't the foggiest notion whether scrapple was a popular word game or a form of virus.

Last night he got together in the Union League kitchen with Morris and chef Peter Grassi, a scrapple virtuoso if there ever was one. They admitted no one else but the league's manager, Daniel Layman, It was not the moment for amateur gawping.

Viltoft: Is that scrapple? Why, I thought it would be pink. This is a funny green. Like penicillin, maybe?

Grassi (grimly), all the while scattering flour with a lavish hand: "Just wait. This is only the start, the warmup, the raw preamble."

Viltoft: "That sounds like the Declaration of Independence. Or the Constitution. What about the scrapple? Does it change later—down about the Bill of Rights?"

Grassi (politely but witheringly): "Just wait till you see the crispy brown tints in a few moments. Scrapple won't look like faded seaweed to you then."

Sure enough, when the ritual was over, and everybody had had several rounds of the stuff, Viltoft said: "You can put me down as a convert. It's like nothing I've tasted before."

VA To Pay Out Policies Dividends

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Veterans Administration has announced it will pay a $26 million dollar insurance dividend to veterans next year.

Holders of approximately five million participating term and permanent plan policies under the World War II National Service Life Insurance program will receive 200 million dollars.

The remaining 26 million will go to holders of approximately $80,000 permanent plan policies under the U. S. Government Life Insurance Program of World War I.

Payments will be made shortly after the anniversary date of each policy, beginning in January and ending in December, 1955.

Because of recent changes in the mortality and disability experience, VA said changes will be made in various individual dividend rates for the 1955 payments.

Sheppard To Take Stand

Smith-Lee Wedding Party To Be Entertained Tomorrow

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Smith will entertain with an informal rehearsal party for their son, Ronald A. Smith, and his fiancee, Miss Virginia Louise Lee, their bridal party and out-of-town guests.

It will be held tonight at their home National Highway, in LaVale. The bridal motif will be carried out in the decorations of the refreshment table, with a centerpiece of white flowers and candelabra of white tapers at either end.

Miss Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Lee, Route 1, Ridgeley, is to become the bride of Mr. Smith, Saturday. The wedding ceremony will be solemnized at 4 p.m. in Cresaptown Methodist Church, with Rev. Raymond Crowe officiating.

Miss Janis Lee will be her sister's maid of honor; Charlene Lee, another sister, junior bridesmaid, and Judy Dickerhoof, flower girl. Warren Smith, cousin of the bridegroom, will be ring bearer. John Whally will serve as Mr. Smith's best man and Glen Leydig, David Smith and Carl Vandegrift, uncles of the bridegroom, are the ushers.

A program of nuptial music is being presented by Mrs. Martin Johnson, who also will accompany Miss Judith Johnson, vocalist.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee will entertain with a wedding reception, honoring their daughter and her bridal party, following the ceremony. It is being held in the church social hall.

Cresaptown MYF To Present Play

The Cresaptown Methodist Youth Fellowship will hold a one-act play tomorrow evening in the Cresaptown Methodist Church. Entitled "Turkey Gobblers," it will begin at 8 o'clock.

There also will be specialty numbers by some of the MYF group.

A bake sale is to be held concluding the evening.

Art Hobbies Collections Feature Show

Creative arts hobbies and collections will feature the second annual Hobby Show, sponsored by Cumberland Business and Professional Women's Club. The show will be at the public library December 7-10 from 2-5 and 7-9 p.m. Popular vote on the first three days will determine the winning displays. Ribbons will be attached Friday.

Recent registrations include paintings, Mrs. May Minghini; a stole, Miss Mildred Beck; ceramics, Mrs. Irene Critzman; handmade furniture, R. D. Benjamin; hand weaving, Dr. Hilda Jane Walters; handmade jewelry, Mrs. Letta Evans; handwork, Mrs. H. S. Leonard; old manuscripts, Miss Maude Bean; a handmade counterpane made in 1839, Miss Edna Seifert; china, Miss Louise Zihlman; hot mats and pot holders, Miss Irene Lapp.

Mrs. Karl Perry requests participants to bring their displays to the library on December 6 from 2-5 o'clock. No registration fee is required for admission of hobbies. A silver offering will be collected.

Guild's 5-10 Supper To Be Served Dec. 8

December 8 has been selected as the date for the annual "5 and 10 Supper" of the Women's Guild of Holy Cross Episcopal Chapel. It will be held in the parish hall from 5 until 7 o'clock.

At a meeting of the Guild recently Mrs. Kenneth Sibley was elected chairman of the Supper committee.

Mrs. John Gerdeman was elected chairman of the Altar Guild, a branch of the Women's Guild. A set of altar linens was presented by the Guild of St. George's Episcopal Church, Mt. Savage. Mrs. Clarence Brant was elected Devotional chairman.

Following the elections there was a group discussion covering community needs and responsibilities as well as the problems of spiritual revival and missionary visiting. Mrs. Harry Edmiston, Mrs. George Furstenburg, Mrs. Gerdeman and Mrs. Sibley served refreshments. The meeting opened and closed with prayers by Rev. David Streett, vicar.

Organization Of Nurses Is Stressed

The necessity for prompt organization of the Private Duty Nurses Section was stressed by Mrs. Gladys Brooks at the meeting of District No. 1, Maryland State Nurses Association, held Tuesday evening at Memorial Hospital Nurses Home. Miss Christine J. Williams presided.

Resignation of Miss Dorothy Rickenberg, as chairman for the General Duty Section, was accepted. A new chairman will be appointed by Miss Williams and approved by the board in the near future.

Reports on the Maryland State Nurses Association convention in conjunction with the Maryland League for Nursing and the Student Nurses Council were given by Miss Williams, Mrs. Mary Bartlett and Miss Betty Whetzel, student nurse of Memorial Hospital.

Miss Williams reported on matters of Legislation and proposed amendments. Reviewing a talk by Marion W. Sheahan, director of the Division of Nursing Services for the National League for Nursing, Miss Williams repeated the reasons for the increased demand for nursing services. She said that the population which has doubled over the last half-century, the increased life span of the population and more and better hospital facilities have added to the need for nursing services.

"Infant death rate has declined," Miss Sheahan said, "as has the maternal death rate. These facts, combined with greater technological advances and the social acceptance of nursing, have made for an increased demand for our services. In addition to her major contribution toward developing and maintaining the highest potential level of health and efficiency for all members of the industrial organization, her work should improve employe-management relations; increase production; lower absenteeism and in general, improve the company's relationship with the entire community."

Standards of practice and employment of the Private Duty Nurse were given by Mrs. Bartlett.

Miss Whetzel gave an account of the demonstration given in regards to the rehabilitation of amputees. Col. Maurice Fletcher of Walter Reed Hospital, demonstrated a plastic arm and hand on a veteran of the Korean War. She explained that the artificial limb is movable and realistic, made of plastic material. It shows all the features of a human hand, including lines, pores, nails and cuticle. The patient is able to dress himself completely, to the extent of buttons and tying his own tie. To make this possible the patient is educated to make use of chest and shoulder muscles. These artificial limbs, Miss Whetzel said, are available to the general public. Information may be obtained from Walter Reed Laboratories.

Miss Williams attended the meeting of the committee on Legislation of the state group, held yesterday in Baltimore.

The next District 1 meeting will be held January 26 in the nurses home of Sacred Heart Hospital, at which time a slate for nominating officers for 1955 will be drawn up.

C. E. Hinkle is reported improving at his home, 30 Virginia Avenue.

Mrs. G. Franklin Onion To Be Honor Guest, GOP Women

A Christmas musical program and bringing of Christmas gifts for distribution at the County Home, Sylvan Retreat and County Infirmary, will feature the Christmas party of the Women's Republican Club, which will be held December 2.

Mrs. G. Franklin Onion, Baltimore, will be honor guest. Supervisor of Music and Dramatics for the Baltimore Bureau of Recreation and chairman of Music in Recreation and Industry, National Federation of Music Clubs, Mrs. Onion will direct the group singing of Christmas carols, with solo parts sung by various members of the club.

The program also includes selections by a string trio and vocal soloist. The trio is composed of Mrs. Claudis VanMeter, violin; Mrs. Howard W. Irvin, cello; and Mrs. William B. Ludman, piano. Mrs. Harry F. Butler, contralto, will be soloist.

The party will be held at the Ali Ghan City Club, beginning at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Paul Fletcher is presiding at the short business session. Mrs. Lucile Roeder, club Program chairman, will present Mrs. Frank Stuart Rowe, who has charge of the Christmas music and program for the evening.

Each member is requested to bring a gift for either a man or woman, wrapped for Christmas giving at the County Home, Sylvan Retreat and Infirmary.

Mrs. J. Albert Nichols and Mrs. Alva W. Davis are cochairmen for the party. Their committee coasists of Mrs. Harry Anderson, Mrs. William Strickler, Mrs. James Morris, Mrs. Eunice Niland, Mrs. Lester B. Reed, Mrs. Herbert Richards, Mrs. Nell Stinnett, Mrs. Jennie Furstenburg, Mrs. Stephen Rowan and Mrs. Earl Conn.

Women Of Moose Plan Open Session

Chapter 914, Women of the Moose will hold an open session tomorrow evening, with William Carscaden as guest speaker. Mrs. Mary Humbertson, senior regent, will preside.

Mr. Carscaden will speak on the regular activities of the Moose, with special emphasis on Mooseheaven, for the aged, and Mooseheart, for the children.

The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock at the Moose Home. Chapters from Oakland, Romney, Piedmont, Keyser and Frostburg have been invited. They will exemplify the ritual work.

Concluding the evening there will be entertainment by pupils of the Star Dance Studio, after which refreshments will be served.

Reservations for the Bedford Road Homemakers Party, December 7 are to be made with Mrs. Joseph Challinor by Saturday.

First Presbyterian Junior Fellowship will hold a semi-formal Harvest Moon dance tomorrow from 7:30 until 11:30 in the fellowship hall.

Hospitalized Children To Receive Gifts

Instead of exchanging the usual jingle gifts at the club Christmas party, members of the Pleasant Grove Homemakers Club have been asked to bring a Christmas gift suitable for a child in the hospital. These gifts are to be given to the pediatric ward of Memorial Hospital.

Plans were formulated at the meeting of the club, Tuesday in the Pleasant Grove Church. Mrs. Samuel Clark and Mrs. Paul Crowe were cohostesses.

The Christmas program and birthday party is to be held at the December meeting, which will be at the home of Mrs. Leslie Hinkle, Baltimore Pike, with Mrs. Harry Wilson as cohostess. Mrs. Robert Shubert, Mrs. Rhoda Clingerman, Mrs. Harold Bean and Mrs. Calvin Layton were named in charge of arrangements.

A report on the Western Maryland Safety Council luncheon meeting was given by Mrs. H. Fuller Burchard. Mrs. James Michaels was elected vice president and Miss Dorothy Northcraft, secretary. Mrs. Ray Minke, Mrs. Shubert and Mrs. Adolph Norris were appointed to draw up a new constitution and by-laws for the club.

Plans for the club to tour the Welsh Gardens were announced by Mrs. Marjory Chambers. Mrs. Clingerman gave the devotionals, using the Homemakers collect as her subject.

Show To Be Given

The Columbia Street School PTA will sponsor a vaudeville show December 2 and 3. It will be given at 8 p. m. in the auditorium, with 13 acts.

Smith-Lee Wedding Party To Be Entertained Tomorrow

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Smith will entertain with an informal rehearsal party for their son, Ronald A. Smith, and his fiancee, Miss Virginia Louise Lee, their bridal party and out-of-town guests.

It will be held tonight at their home National Highway, in LaVale. The bridal motif will be carried out in the decorations of the refreshment table, with a centerpiece of white flowers and candelabra of white tapers at either end.

Miss Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Lee, Route 1, Ridgeley, is to become the bride of Mr. Smith, Saturday. The wedding ceremony will be solemnized at 4 p.m. in Cresaptown Methodist Church, with Rev. Raymond Crowe officiating.

Miss Janis Lee will be her sister's maid of honor; Charlene Lee, another sister, junior bridesmaid, and Judy Dickerhoof, flower girl. Warren Smith, cousin of the bridegroom, will be ring bearer. John Whally will serve as Mr. Smith's best man and Glen Leydig, David Smith and Carl Vandegrift, uncles of the bridegroom, are the ushers.

A program of nuptial music is being presented by Mrs. Martin Johnson, who also will accompany Miss Judith Johnson, vocalist.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee will entertain with a wedding reception, honoring their daughter and her bridal party, following the ceremony. It is being held in the church social hall.

Cresaptown MYF To Present Play

The Cresaptown Methodist Youth Fellowship will hold a one-act play tomorrow evening in the Cresaptown Methodist Church. Entitled "Turkey Gobblers," it will begin at 8 o'clock.

There also will be specialty numbers by some of the MYF group.

A bake sale is to be held concluding the evening.

Art Hobbies Collections Feature Show

Creative arts hobbies and collections will feature the second annual Hobby Show, sponsored by Cumberland Business and Professional Women's Club. The show will be at the public library December 7-10 from 2-5 and 7-9 p.m. Popular vote on the first three days will determine the winning displays. Ribbons will be attached Friday.

Recent registrations include paintings, Mrs. May Minghini; a stole, Miss Mildred Beck; ceramics, Mrs. Irene Critzman; handmade furniture, R. D. Benjamin; hand weaving, Dr. Hilda Jane Walters; handmade jewelry, Mrs. Letta Evans; handwork, Mrs. H. S. Leonard; old manuscripts, Miss Maude Bean; a handmade counterpane made in 1839, Miss Edna Seifert; china, Miss Louise Zihlman; hot mats and pot holders, Miss Irene Lapp.

Mrs. Karl Perry requests participants to bring their displays to the library on December 6 from 2-5 o'clock. No registration fee is required for admission of hobbies. A silver offering will be collected.

Guild's 5-10 Supper To Be Served Dec. 8

December 8 has been selected as the date for the annual "5 and 10 Supper" of the Women's Guild of Holy Cross Episcopal Chapel. It will be held in the parish hall from 5 until 7 o'clock.

At a meeting of the Guild recently Mrs. Kenneth Sibley was elected chairman of the Supper committee.

Mrs. John Gerdeman was elected chairman of the Altar Guild, a branch of the Women's Guild. A set of altar linens was presented by the Guild of St. George's Episcopal Church, Mt. Savage. Mrs. Clarence Brant was elected Devotional chairman.

Following the elections there was a group discussion covering community needs and responsibilities as well as the problems of spiritual revival and missionary visiting. Mrs. Harry Edmiston, Mrs. George Furstenburg, Mrs. Gerdeman and Mrs. Sibley served refreshments. The meeting opened and closed with prayers by Rev. David Streett, vicar.

Organization Of Nurses Is Stressed

The necessity for prompt organization of the Private Duty Nurses Section was stressed by Mrs. Gladys Brooks at the meeting of District No. 1, Maryland State Nurses Association, held Tuesday evening at Memorial Hospital Nurses Home. Miss Christine J. Williams presided.

Resignation of Miss Dorothy Rickenberg, as chairman for the General Duty Section, was accepted. A new chairman will be appointed by Miss Williams and approved by the board in the near future.

Reports on the Maryland State Nurses Association convention in conjunction with the Maryland League for Nursing and the Student Nurses Council were given by Miss Williams, Mrs. Mary Bartlett and Miss Betty Whetzel, student nurse of Memorial Hospital.

Miss Williams reported on matters of Legislation and proposed amendments. Reviewing a talk by Marion W. Sheahan, director of the Division of Nursing Services for the National League for Nursing, Miss Williams repeated the reasons for the increased demand for nursing services. She said that the population which has doubled over the last half-century, the increased life span of the population and more and better hospital facilities have added to the need for nursing services.

"Infant death rate has declined," Miss Sheahan said, "as has the maternal death rate. These facts, combined with greater technological advances and the social acceptance of nursing, have made for an increased demand for our services. In addition to her major contribution toward developing and maintaining the highest potential level of health and efficiency for all members of the industrial organization, her work should improve employe-management relations; increase production; lower absenteeism and in general, improve the company's relationship with the entire community."

Standards of practice and employment of the Private Duty Nurse were given by Mrs. Bartlett.

Miss Whetzel gave an account of the demonstration given in regards to the rehabilitation of amputees, Col. Maurice Fletcher of Walter Reed Hospital, demonstrated a plastic arm and hand on a veteran of the Korean War. She explained that the artificial limb is movable and realistic, made of plastic material. It shows all the features of a human hand, including lines, pores, nails and cuticle. The patient is able to dress himself completely, to the extent of buttons and tying his own tie. To make this possible the patient is educated to make use of chest and shoulder muscles. These artificial limbs, Miss Whetzel said, are available to the general public. Information may be obtained from Walter Reed Laboratories.

Miss Williams attended the meeting of the committee on Legislation of the state group, held yesterday in Baltimore.

The next District 1 meeting will be held January 26 in the nurses home of Sacred Heart Hospital, at which time a slate for nominating officers for 1955 will be drawn up.

C. E. Hinkle is reported improving at his home, 30 Virginia Avenue.

Mrs. G. Franklin Onion To Be Honor Guest, GOP Women

A Christmas musical program and bringing of Christmas gifts for distribution at the County Home, Sylvan Retreat and County Infirmary, will feature the Christmas party of the Women's Republican Club, which will be held December 2.

Mrs. G. Franklin Onion, Baltimore, will be honor guest. Supervisor of Music and Dramatics for the Baltimore Bureau of Recreation and chairman of Music in Recreation and Industry, National Federation of Music Clubs, Mrs. Onion will direct the group singing of Christmas carols, with solo parts sung by various members of the club.

The program also includes selections by a string trio and vocal soloist. The trio is composed of Mrs. Claudis VanMeter, violin; Mrs. Howard W. Irvin, cello; and Mrs. William B. Ludman, piano. Mrs. Harry F. Butler, contralto, will be soloist.

The party will be held at the Ali Ghan City Club, beginning at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Paul Fletcher is presiding at the short business session. Mrs. Lucile Roeder, club Program chairman, will present Mrs. Frank Stuart Rowe, who has charge of the Christmas music and program for the evening.

Each member is requested to bring a gift for either a man or woman, wrapped for Christmas giving at the County Home, Slyvan Retreat and Infirmary.

Mrs. J. Albert Nichols and Mrs. Alva W. Davis are cochairmen for the party. Their committee coasists of Mrs. Harry Anderson, Mrs. William Strickler, Mrs. James Morris, Mrs. Eunice Niland, Mrs. Lester B. Reed, Mrs. Herbert Richards, Mrs. Nell Stinnett, Mrs. Jennie Furstenburg, Mrs. Stephen Rowan and Mrs. Earl Conn.

Women Of Moose Plan Open Session

Chapter 914, Women of the Moose will hold an open session tomorrow evening, with William Carscaden as guest speaker. Mrs. Mary Humbertson, senior regent, will preside.

Mr. Carscaden will speak on the regular activities of the Moose, with special emphasis on Mooseheaven, for the aged, and Mooseheart, for the children.

The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock at the Moose Home. Chapters from Oakland, Romney, Piedmont, Keyser and Frostburg have been invited. They will exemplify the ritual work.

Concluding the evening there will be entertainment by pupils of the Star Dance Studio, after which refreshments will be served.

Greek Shipping Magnate Finds Trouble In U.S.

By FRANCIS STILLEY

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (AP)—Aristotle Socrates Onassis, a Greek shipping magnate who recently has found international waters hot in many places, sailed into a new storm on U. S. shores today.

The 49-year-old operator of the world's largest private fleet—who bought the Riviera's famed Monte Carlo gambling casino two years ago just to get office space—was sued for 20 million dollars.

The U. S. government brought the suit. It claims Onassis and several associates illegally purchased 16 surplus vessels from this country after World War II.

Since then, the suit said, the Onassis group has made profits of 20 millions or more which should be returned to the U. S. Treasury. Three associates and six firms were named co-defendants.

Onassis' attorney termed the charges "completely unfounded" and said they would be fought in the courts.

The government's action, instituted in federal court here, also asks that title to the 16 vessels be returned to the United States.

Thirteen of them already have been seized by the government as they put into American ports in the last 15 months.

Five other ships—all whaling vessels—were seized by Peruvian warships last week on the grounds they were fishing inside the 200-mile area which Peru claims as territorial waters.

But that isn't all the trouble faced by Onassis, who now is a citizen of Argentina and a fabulously rich man who maintains lavish homes in New York, South America, Paris and the Riviera.

He was indicted in Washington, D. C., earlier this year on charges of conspiring to defraud the government.

This indictment also is based on the allegation that corporations controlled by Onassis bought U. S. surplus ships by falsely claiming the companies were owned by American citizens.

In Paris last Friday, a fellow Greek, ship broker Spiridon Catapodis, filed suit against Onassis for more than half a million dollars.

He charged Onassis with failing to pay him for services in getting Onassis the right to carry Saudi-Arabian oil.

He also charged he had a contract with Onassis, but the shipowner had signed it in disappearing ink and the signature was fading away.

America Marks • Thanksgiving

Let us enjoy, as individual Americans and as infinitesimal units in a Master Plan, this Thanksgiving.

Let us, at our own firesides and in the intimacy of family gatherings, renew if we can that glow of excitement which this traditional holiday evoked in us as children.

Let us shut out of our minds, for this brief space of a day, the threatening shadows that lie against our lives and those of our loved ones in every part of the world.

Let us close our eyes, for this one day, to the fact that justice and freedom, which we expended a million casualties just yesterday to guarantee to a brave new world are today as elusive and as nonexistent for millions of human beings as they were before the war.

Let us take this little holiday and enjoy it.

Yes, and let us thank God for our blessings because, no matter under what threat tomorrow lies, we do, as a people, have more to be grateful to Providence for than any other on the face of the globe.

We have left most of our freedom—more than any other people on earth.

We have more of this world's goods.

We have a greater opportunity.

Let us thank God for these blessings and at the same time pray for enough intelligence and strength of character to keep them.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Thanksgiving 1954

All our holidays have somehow become festivals, days of gaiety and fun. Even Christmas and Easter have for many lost their strictly religious content. Thanksgiving means, to most, little more than a long weekend that begins with a heavy-laden table and ends in weariness over the remains of turkey and cranberries no longer cooked whole but taken out of a can, jellied and thickened with pectin.

Nevertheless, Thanksgiving Day is, in the American story, strictly a religious holiday and more than any other day, it reminds us of the religious origin of the American society. The roots of America were not steeped in the bile of rigid secularism.

The North American continent remained outside the main stream of the various civilizations of man until the 16th Century. Here was, in effect, an island, lying between two great oceans, altogether remote, as unknown to Charlemagne as to Hammurabi, to Henry the Navigator as to Genghis Khan. Even in the days of Columbus and Amerigo Vespucci, it was a dream world that ought to be somewhere, and which when first found by Italians in the employ of Spain and Portugual, was favored for its gold which soon turned to dross and helped to wreck an empire. In the reign of Elizabeth, North America came to life to the Western European, although Spain had already moved upon it in Florida.

From the very beginning, it was a place of refuge. The colonists who came for golden loot disappeared, but the religious exiles, Pilgrim and Puritan, Moravian and Mennonite, Catholic, Huguenot and Jew settled and remained. Protestants who fled from Mary and Catholics who feared Elizabeth found upon this soil a sanctuary to worship God, each according to his light.

"Lead, kindly Light, amid the encircling gloom,
Lead Thou me on;
The night is dark, and I am far from home . . .
Keep Thou my feet; I do not ask to see

It was in this spirit that the American continent was peopled from the days of the Separatists, who came upon the Mayflower in 1620, to the refugees from Hitler in the 1940s. They were all frightened people who had to run away. The American population over a period of three centuries has been composed principally of refugees, of various races of man who pulled themselves away from the graveyards of their ancestors and came into all this strangeness to find a new life on a new continent. And here they found liberty for those essentials of life which make for human dignity. It is so difficult for those who are native to a country to grasp how hard life is for those who speak an alien tongue or who were reared in alien manners and customs.

Thus, Thanksgiving Day became an institution among Americans to commemorate not only the bounty which makes for physical survival but also liberty which makes for spiritual survival. And both are the gift of a Divine Providence which Americans have always accepted as the Author of their blessings.

This, in essence, is the story of Thanksgiving and why it is among us not only a feast but a day of prayer. I heard Norman Vincent Peale and Dale Evans say on television that this day should be dedicated to retarded children whose misfortunes are not of their own making. This appeal to charity ought not to be disregarded as it blesses him who gives even more than those who benefit thereby. It should not be lost in the welter of small news which in recent weeks have gained our attention but it is never too late to recall that there are many children who can be saved from the slowness of wit which is their sad lot. And whatever we can do for them, we ought to do on a day when we can count our blessings which are so numerous if only we do count them.

The richness of American life is not in its high standard of living which, while adding physical comforts and freeing us from brutal toil, does not build a great society. The richness of American life is in personal liberty. For that blessing this land was created.

We'd All Like To Hear It Again

Red China Strikes A Blow At 'Peaceful Co-Existence'

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — "Peaceful co-existence" has just been given a punch in the eye by Communist China with the announcement that the Peiping government has decided to imprison 15 American airmen, with sentences ranging from four years to life.

This means that the truce agreement adopted at Panmunjom — which set forth specifically that all prisoners captured during the Korean War were to be returned — has been flagrantly violated.

In the face of such a conspicuous disregard of a written pledge, it will be asked how anyone in Great Britain or in any other country can seriously recommend that Red China be admitted into the United Nations.

The episode underlines clearly that it is the failure of the Red China government to show herself capable of honoring her obligations, rather than her de facto control of any particular territory, which has caused both the Democratic and Republican members of Congress to unite almost to a man to oppose recognition of Red China or its admission to the United Nations.

Kept For Bargaining

Just how many more American prisoners who fell into the hands of the Communists in the Korean War are still alive and being held for ransom can only be conjectured, but undoubtedly the news will increase the agony of many of those parents who have been told their sons are "missing and presumed dead." For there is no way of telling how many more American boys the Communists hold and how many they will bring forth from time to time in an effort to blackmail America into favoring admission to the United Nations. Some of the Americans who have already been repatriated say they had heard about prisoners being kept for bargaining purposes. Now this report is being verified by the action of the Peiping government.

It is more than a coincidence that on the same day the news came about the sentencing of the American airmen the President of the United States was expressing his skepticism about "peaceful co-existence" in very much the same vein as did Senator Knowland of California, Republican leader of the Senate, a few days ago.

Whether Mr. Eisenhower knew beforehand the facts concerning the Chinese decision to hold the 15 airmen has not been disclosed, but the newspapermen who interrogated him at his press conference did not know about it because the dispatches concerning the affair had not been received over the news tickers when the correspondents assembled at the White House.

The President, however, was quite pointed in what he did say about Russia. He declared that, while, of course, the Russians lately have been talking in a different tone than they have in the past, every study he had ever seen about communism reveals that there is one underlying, unchanging motive—world revolution and dominance by a centrally controlled Communist world state. Mr. Eisenhower added that Communist methods and tactics retreat and advance but the free world cannot lose sight of their basic objective.

Adjective Of Many Connotations

But even more significant was the President's handling of the phrase "peaceful co-existence." He said "co-existence" itself has a relatively simple meaning and implies that you co-exist so long as you are not trying to destroy someone else. But he emphasized that the word "peaceful" is an adjective which has many connotations and that, if we are talking about those words in the sense of lulling ourselves into complacency while the other fellow is not friendly or peaceful, then it is something to watch very closely.

Mr. Eisenhower was particularly forceful as he discussed a question propounded to him by The Christian Century correspondent, who read the objectives recently stated by the World Council of Churches which met at Evanston, Ill. Those objectives concerned "universal enforceable disarmament," the prohibition of atomic weapons, and the conviction that "it is possible for nations and peoples to live together in a divided world."

The President thought these ideals were all right as goals, but he pointed out that the world is also made up of a lot of selfish and greedy people of ignoble qualifications and qualities. He said peoples were of a dual nature and that, if anybody thinks the United States can be in a better position in the pursuit of peace by being weak, he must disagree 100 per cent. He said he couldn't say it too emphatically, but he hoped we wouldn't try again to find peace in the world by disarming ourselves and being weak and unready.

Mr. Eisenhower might have added that nowhere in the most respected books on Christian ethics is there to be found any doctrine which condones the suicide of the individual or the suicide of the state.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

You can hook up the first Tuesday and the last Thursday this month in celebratory echelon. Except that Thanksgiving is unanimous.

The turkey shoots are getting more personal and there is a ground swell in the mashed potatoes. But we see no reason why the Democrats and Republicans shouldn't shake hands and be friends until sundown.

Outside of the 12 years of Prohibition Thanksgiving has been a legal holiday since 1864. The Pilgrims started it in 1621 while making Cape Cod safe for Greenwich Village.

We don't know who put the brandy in the plum pudding but that's the real reason Jack Horner sucked his thumb. We don't know about table manners but we know you lose a lot eating it with a fork.

While the Pilgrims were hanging their hats up on arrows they saw the national out-size squab scratching gravel in the sticks. They loaded up their blunderbusses with more scrap iron than we sold Japan in 1936.

The 16-pounder was too much for two people. That's when Priscilla said to Miles, "Why don't you ask John?"

That was 333 years ago and no crow ever flew like that turkey went. The Pilgrims gave thanks to heaven. And from that time nobody ever saw a Pilgrim with a wrinkle in his vest.

Since then this has been a land flowing with milk and honey. And we don't want nobody to plug the leak.

So we give thanks today in a world confused with bickering and stirred with encroachment. The only double-dealing we know over here is that second helping of turkey.

This writer's first Thanksgiving dinner in New York was off a pushcart in Paddy's market on 10th Avenue. Curb service has changed since that day in 1915. A frankfurter is all neck but you don't have to pick the feathers off it. Forty years later we will be eating one at the football game.

Thanksgiving: A Day For Americans To Be Grateful

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Americans always have had much to be thankful for. When the French gourmet, Brillat-Savarin, visited the United States in 1794, he was impressed with the Connecticut farm of Monsieur Bulow. They hunted turkeys and partridges, drank cider, and ate game. On parting, Bulow made a few remarks that Brillat-Savarin included in his book "The Physiology of Taste." These paragraphs show some reasons why we were grateful.

"You see in me, my dear sir, a happy man, if such there be on earth: Everything around you and all that you have so far observed is a product of what I own. These stockings I wear were knitted by my daughters; my shoes and my clothes came from my own sheep; they help also with my gardens and barnyards, to furnish me with simple, nourishing food, and what makes our government so admirable is that here in Connecticut there are thousands of farmers just as happy as I am and whose doors, like mine, are never bolted.

"Taxes here are almost nothing, and as long as they are paid we can sleep in peace. Congress does everything in its power to help our newborn industry; agents come from every direction to buy up whatever we have to sell, and I have cash on hand for a long time, for I have just sold for $24 a barrel the wheat I usually get $8 for.

"All this is the result of the liberty which we have fought for and founded on good laws. I am the master in my own house and you will not be astonished to know that we never hear the sound of the drum here nor, except for the Fourth of July, the glorious anniversary of our independence, do we ever see soldiers, uniforms, or bayonets."

While all this is in marked contrast to the situation today, still we can count our blessings.

Our Thanksgivings are patterned after the age old custom of celebrating a feast day. These holidays frequently were religious in character but included emphasis on rest, recreation, and feasting.

The first Thanksgiving lasted several days and cemented friendships between settlers and Indians. The Pilgrim fathers were thankful to be alive, even though they had no more than the bare necessities of life. The individual who thinks he has nothing to be thankful for may learn a lesson from the attitude of our early colonists.

Our inherited strong religious faith deserves recognition on this festive day. Let us follow in the footsteps of our Pilgrim fathers by giving thanks for the opportunity to worship God as we choose.

TOMORROW: The use of drugs is ancient history.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

In Hollywood, Mike Connolly's column in "The Reporter" is read avidly every morning—particularly by other columnists. In one week, Mike told of the customer in the MGM barbershop who warned, "Just a shave—I haven't got time to listen to a haircut"; the three-year-old daughter of Margaret Whiting who demurred at appearing on mommy's TV show because "They make you wear pancakes on your face;" the actor who insisted, "You bet he's a top-flight psychiatrist. In three weeks he cured me of $750," and Bob Hope's definition of L. A.'s smog: a nasty rumor started by tourists who insist on breathing. Mike asked Cecil B. De Mille why he made so many biblical pictures. "Why," chuckled De Mille, "let 2000 years of publicity go to waste?"

Senator Welker Let Cat Out Of Bag About Joe McCarthy's Bad Elbow

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Despite impressive medical bulletins, many senators are privately suspicious of the sore elbow that has suspended Senate proceedings for 10 days.

The elbow, of course, belongs to Sen. Joe McCarthy who, for such a husky fellow, has had an unusual record of illnesses—most of them politically convenient. What makes senators suspicious is that Joe's pal, GOP Sen. Herman Welker of Idaho, correctly prophesied several weeks in advance that McCarthy would go to the hospital before the censure vote.

This amazing prediction was made on the return flight from the late Sen. Pat McCarran's funeral in Reno. Welker had stayed up all night after the funeral playing blackjack in the gambling joints. On the way back, he insisted on discussing Republican strategy very loudly with pro tem Senate President Styles Bridges of New Hampshire who happened to be sitting in the middle of a group of Democrats, including Harley Kilgore of West Virginia, Jim Eastland of Mississippi and Johns Stennis of Mississippi.

Bridges did his best to shush up Welker who went right on discussing secret GOP strategy in front of the Democrats. He also gave away McCarthy's plan to delay the censure vote while his friends tried to stir up national sentiment for him.

In fact, Welker became so loose-lipped that another of Joe's cronies, Sen. Bill Jenner of Indiana, broke in with the warning: "You better watch out! Joe will censure you!"

But the real tip-off was a crack by Welker that Joe was "a sick man" and probably wouldn't last through the censure debate. Welker predicted flatly that McCarthy would have to go to the hospital.

Of course, the Idaho senator didn't mention a bunged-up elbow. Rather, he spoke of Joe's troubles with his sinus and a throat condition. These are old medical alibis, however, that have sent McCarthy scurrying to the hospital nearly a dozen times.

Well-Timed Illnesses

It may be only a remarkable coincidence, but these hospital visits always seemed to come at a politically convenient time for McCarthy.

For example, he turned up at the hospital just before he was scheduled to make a series of speeches in the last congressional campaign. He thus avoided an embarrasing showdown with the Republican National Committee, which wanted him to stay out of the campaign.

At the height of his own 1952 re-election campaign, McCarthy again rushed to the hospital. This won him public sympathy, which he captalized on to the fullest. At the eleventh hour, he left his sickbed and made a dramatic appeal for votes.

The Army-McCarthy hearings were also delayed because Joe was out West "recovering from a throat infection." And after the hearings, the McCarthy Committee couldn't meet to fire counsel Roy Cohen, because Joe was off recuperating again.

McCarthy also came down with a convenient "sinus attack" during the uproar over his charges against the State Department in 1950.

As for the condition of his elbow, Navy doctors described it impressively as "traumatic bursitis" — which means nothing more than a sore elbow.

"Handshakingitis"—Not Bursitis

In any case, it's well known that senators can write their own diagnosis as far as the public is concerned.

It's true that Dr. George Calver, the congressional physician, confirmed the diagnosis. But he didn't bother to remove the dressing to examine the "infection" and took McCarthy's word that the pain ran down to his fingers.

McCarthy's office explained that he hurt his elbow shaking hands too vigorously with an admirer. But the Associated Press checked all the guests at the reception where it was supposed to have happened. The AP not only couldn't find the anonymous admirer who caused the accident, but couldn't find anyone who witnessed it.

Senators also recall that McCarthy made political capital out of a phony war injury. Joe hurt his leg on a shipboard ladder during hazing ceremonies while crossing the Equator. Afterward, he promoted this innocent accident into a battlefield injury, claiming at one time that he packed 10 pounds of shrapnel around in the leg.

Running for the Senate in Wisconsin after the war, McCarthy limped noticeably. But those who knew him admitted the limp was politically, rather than medically, inspired.

Radiological Hazard: 2

By Joseph And Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

It is now possible to build a hydrogen bomb so monstrously powerful that it will pass "the limit of blow-out." Such a bomb, if it is ever built, will be the true ultimate weapon — a weapon so powerful that no more powerful weapon can be built.

For the limit of blow-out is that point beyond which any increase in the power of the bomb is dissipated in the upper atmosphere. Beyond this point, because of air resistance to lateral blast, there is no increase whatsoever in lateral destruction. The physicists estimate the limit of blow-out at around 50 mega-tons, meaning a bomb with about 25,000 times the power of the bomb that destroyed Hiroshima.

There is now, in the inner circles of the government, continuing and anxious debate about whether the "super-super," as the bomb capable of passing the limit of blow-out is known, ought to be built and tested. For the plain fact is that no one can be really certain what such a terrible weapon might do.

Surprised And Astonished

President Eisenhower has said that the scientists responsible were "surprised and astonished" by the results of the great bomb tested at Eniwetok last spring. The scientists were surprised and astonished above all by the radiological side-effect of that bomb. Since that experience, they are cautious. They fear that the "super-super," with several times the power of the Eniwetok bomb, might have unpredictably far-reaching radiological side-effects, perhaps endangering life in parts of this country as well as other countries, like Japan.

This is the simple reason why the wisdom of testing the super-super is being so anxiously debated. But the debate is not, for obvious and logical reasons, limited to the super-super.

For if the explosion of one hydrogen bomb half a world away might endanger this country, how about the explosion of 500 such bombs—or 5000, all within a short space of time? This is what the strategy of "massive retaliation" involves. May we not, therefore, be placing too much reliance on a weapon with a suicidal backlash, a weapon which, used in quantity, might destroy ourselves as well as the enemy?

The seriousness with which this matter of the radiological hazard is being taken may be simply illustrated. In high level discussions, genuine concern has been expressed that the Soviets, without going to war, might explode large numbers of the type of hydrogen bomb in series, along the Siberian coast.

The prevailing winds, which are from west to east, would then carry the noxious radio-active by-product characteristic of these bombs over the United States. This may seem fanciful. But it is pointed out that these same prevailing winds gave the Allies a decisive advantage when the Germans introduced poison gas in the first World War.

Hazard Put Under Wraps

There is obviously nothing properly secret about this radiological hazard—the Russians, after all, were the first to explode the new type of bomb. Moreover, at least twice since the Eniwetok tests, British Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill has more than hinted that hydrogen bombs may never be used in war, since an "undue number" would have "very serious effects" on the whole world.

Dr. Egdar Adrian, a British Nobel Prize winner, recently said that " a long war between powers well armed with bombs would certainly produce an order of radio-active contamination which involve us all, victors as well as vanquished." This, he added, might "end the human race."

There have been other such statements, from equally qualified sources. But the official policy here is still to put the radiological hazard under classification wraps—or else to imply blandly, as Atomic Energy Chairman Lewis L. Strauss has done, that it does not exist.

One result of this secrecy policy can be seen in the civil defense problem. Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson has been one of a minority of officials urging a policy of telling the American people what is already known to the Russians. The reason is obvious. Unless the basic facts of radio-active fall-out are officially acknowledged, Civil Defense cannot even begin to make sense.

Instrument Of Suicide

The fact is that the noxious radiological side-effects of the new type of hydrogen bomb have transformed the very nature of the weapon, and in so doing have transformed our own strategic situation. The phenomenon of local fall-out, for example, makes the bomb in effect an instrument of chemical warfare. Its other radiological side-effects—unless Churchill and others of almost equal authority are talking through their hats—may transform it from an instrument of offense to an instrument of race suicide.

Indeed, as will be shown in a final report on this unpleasant subject, the terrible nature of the weapon has already begun deeply to effect the thinking of President Eisenhower and the policy of the United States. But in this democracy, any policy must have the support of the people. And the people are not apt to give much support to a policy if the facts on which it is based, and which are well known to the Soviets, are hidden from them.

America Marks • Thanksgiving

Let us enjoy, as individual Americans and as infinitesimal units in a Master Plan, this Thanksgiving.

Let us, at our own firesides and in the intimacy of family gatherings, renew if we can that glow of excitement which this traditional holiday evoked in us as children.

Let us shut out of our minds, for this brief space of a day, the threatening shadows that lie against our lives and those of our loved ones in every part of the world.

Let us close our eyes, for this one day, to the fact that justice and freedom, which we expended a million casualties just yesterday to guarantee to a brave new world are today as elusive and as nonexistent for millions of human beings as they were before the war.

Let us take this little holiday and enjoy it.

Yes, and let us thank God for our blessings because, no matter under what threat tomorrow lies, we do, as a people, have more to be grateful to Providence for than any other on the face of the globe.

We have left most of our freedom—more than any other people on earth.

We have more of this world's goods.

We have a greater opportunity.

Let us thank God for these blessings and at the same time pray for enough intelligence and strength of character to keep them.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Thanksgiving 1954

All our holidays have somehow become festivals, days of gaiety and fun. Even Christmas and Easter have for many lost their strictly religious content. Thanksgiving means, to most, little more than a long weekend that begins with a heavy-laden table and ends in weariness over the remains of turkey and cranberries no longer cooked whole but taken out of a can, jellied and thickened with pectin.

Nevertheless, Thanksgiving Day is, in the American story, strictly a religious holiday and more than any other day, it reminds us of the religious origin of the American society. The roots of America were not steeped in the bile of rigid secularism.

The North American continent remained outside the main stream of the various civilizations of man until the 16th Century. Here was, in effect, an island, lying between two great oceans, altogether remote, as unknown to Charlemagne as to Hammurabi, to Henry the Navigator as to Genghis Khan. Even in the days of Columbus and Amerigo Vespucci, it was a dream world that ought to be somewhere, and which when first found by Italians in the employ of Spain and Portugual, was favored for its gold which soon turned to dross and helped to wreck an empire. In the reign of Elizabeth, North America came to life to the Western European, although Spain had already moved upon it in Florida.

From the very beginning, it was a place of refuge. The colonists who came for golden loot disappeared, but the religious exiles, Pilgrim and Puritan, Moravian and Mennonite, Catholic, Huguenot and Jew settled and remained. Protestants who fled from Mary and Catholics who feared Elizabeth found upon this soil a sanctuary to worship God, each according to his light.

"Lead, kindly Light, amid the encircling gloom,
Lead Thou me on;
The night is dark, and I am far from home . . .
Keep Thou my feet; I do not ask to see

It was in this spirit that the American continent was peopled from the days of the Separatists, who came upon the Mayflower in 1620, to the refugees from Hitler in the 1940s. They were all frightened people who had to run away. The American population over a period of three centuries has been composed principally of refugees, of various races of man who pulled themselves away from the graveyards of their ancestors and came into all this strangeness to find a new life on a new continent. And here they found liberty for those essentials of life which make for human dignity. It is so difficult for those who are native to a country to grasp how hard life is for those who speak an alien tongue or who were reared in alien manners and customs.

Thus, Thanksgiving Day became an institution among Americans to commemorate not only the bounty which makes for physical survival but also liberty which makes for spiritual survival. And both are the gift of a Divine Providence which Americans have always accepted as the Author of their blessings.

This, in essence, is the story of Thanksgiving and why it is among us not only a feast but a day of prayer. I heard Norman Vincent Peale and Dale Evans say on television that this day should be dedicated to retarded children whose misfortunes are not of their own making. This appeal to charity ought not to be disregarded as it blesses him who gives even more than those who benefit thereby. It should not be lost in the welter of small news which in recent weeks have gained our attention but it is never too late to recall that there are many children who can be saved from the slowness of wit which is their sad lot. And whatever we can do for them, we ought to do on a day when we can count our blessings which are so numerous if only we do count them.

The richness of American life is not in its high standard of living which, while adding physical comforts and freeing us from brutal toil, does not build a great society. The richness of American life is in personal liberty. For that blessing this land was created.

We'd All Like To Hear It Again

Red China Strikes A Blow At 'Peaceful Co-Existence'

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — "Peaceful coexistence" has just been given a punch in the eye by Communist China with the announcement that the Peiping government has decided to imprison 15 American airmen, with sentences ranging from four years to life.

This means that the truce agreement adopted at Panmunjom — which set forth specifically that all prisoners captured during the Korean War were to be returned — has been flagrantly violated.

In the face of such a conspicuous disregard of a written pledge, it will be asked how anyone in Great Britain or in any other country can seriously recommend that Red China be admitted into the United Nations.

The episode underlines clearly that it is the failure of the Red China government to show herself capable of honoring her obligations, rather than her de facto control of any particular territory, which has caused both the Democratic and Republican members of Congress to unite almost to a man to oppose recognition of Red China or its admission to the United Nations.

Kept For Bargaining

Just how many more American prisoners who fell into the hands of the Communists in the Korean War are still alive and being held for ransom can only be conjectured, but undoubtedly the news will increase the agony of many of those parents who have been told their sons are "missing and presumed dead." For there is no way of telling how many more American boys the Communists hold and how many they will bring forth from time to time in an effort to blackmail America into favoring admission to the United Nations. Some of the Americans who have already been repatriated say they had heard about prisoners being kept for bargaining purposes. Now this report is being verified by the action of the Peiping government.

It is more than a coincidence that on the same day the news came about the sentencing of the American airmen the President of the United States was expressing his skepticism about "peaceful coexistence" in very much the same vein as did Senator Knowland of California, Republican leader of the Senate, a few days ago.

Whether Mr. Eisenhower knew beforehand the facts concerning the Chinese decision to hold the 15 airmen has not been disclosed, but the newspapermen who interrogated him at his press conference did not know about it because the dispatches concerning the affair had not been received over the news tickers when the correspondents assembled at the White House.

The President, however, was quite pointed in what he did say about Russia. He declared that, while, of course, the Russians lately have been talking in a different tone than they have in the past, every study he had ever seen about communism reveals that there is one underlying, unchanging motive—world revolution and dominance by a centrally controlled Communist world state. Mr. Eisenhower added that Communist methods and tactics retreat and advance but the free world cannot lose sight of their basic objective.

Adjective Of Many Connotations

But even more significant was the President's handling of the phrase "peaceful co-existence." He said "co-existence" itself has a relatively simple meaning and implies that you co-exist so long as you are not trying to destroy someone else. But he emphasized that the word "peaceful" is an adjective which has many connotations and that, if we are talking about those words in the sense of lulling ourselves into complacency while the other fellow is not friendly or peaceful, then it is something to watch very closely.

Mr. Eisenhower was particularly forceful as he discussed a question propounded to him by The Christian Century correspondent, who read the objectives recently stated by the World Council of Churches which met at Evanston, Ill. Those objectives concerned "universal enforceable disarmament," the prohibition of atomic weapons, and the conviction that "it is possible for nations and peoples to live together in a divided world."

The President thought these ideals were all right as goals, but he pointed out that the world is also made up of a lot of selfish and greedy people of ignoble qualifications and qualities. He said peoples were of a dual nature and that, if anybody thinks the United States can be in a better position in the pursuit of peace by being weak, he must disagree 100 per cent. He said he couldn't say it too emphatically, but he hoped we wouldn't try again to find peace in the world by disarming ourselves and being weak and unready.

Mr. Eisenhower might have added that nowhere in the most respected books on Christian ethics is there to be found any doctrine which condones the suicide of the individual or the suicide of the state.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

You can hook up the first Tuesday and the last Thursday this month in celebratory echelon. Except that Thanksgiving is unanimous.

The turkey shoots are getting more personal and there is a ground swell in the mashed potatoes. But we see no reason why the Democrats and Republicans shouldn't shake hands and be friends until sundown.

Outside of the 12 years of Prohibition Thanksgiving has been a legal holiday since 1864. The Pilgrims started it in 1621 while making Cape Cod safe for Greenwich Village.

We don't know who put the brandy in the plum pudding but that's the real reason Jack Horner sucked his thumb. We don't know about table manners but we know you lose a lot eating it with a fork.

While the Pilgrims were hanging their hats up on arrows they saw the national out-size squab scratching gravel in the sticks. They loaded up their blunderbusses with more scrap iron than we sold Japan in 1936.

The 16-pounder was too much for two people. That's when Priscilla said to Miles, "Why don't you ask John?"

That was 333 years ago and no crow ever flew like that turkey went. The Pilgrims gave thanks to heaven. And from that time nobody ever saw a Pilgrim with a wrinkle in his vest.

Since then this has been a land flowing with milk and honey. And we don't want nobody to plug the leak.

So we give thanks today in a world confused with bickering and stirred with encroachment. The only double-dealing we know over here is that second helping of turkey.

This writer's first Thanksgiving dinner in New York was off a pushcart in Paddy's market on 10th Avenue. Curb service has changed since that day in 1915. A frankfurter is all neck but you don't have to pick the feathers off it. Forty years later we will be eating one at the football game.

Thanksgiving: A Day For Americans To Be Grateful

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Americans always have had much to be thankful for. When the French gourmet, Brillat-Savarin, visited the United States in 1794, he was impressed with the Connecticut farm of Monsieur Bulow. They hunted turkeys and partridges, drank cider, and ate game. On parting, Bulow made a few remarks that Brillat-Savarin included in his book "The Physiology of Taste." These paragraphs show some reasons why we were grateful.

"You see in me, my dear sir, a happy man, if such there be on earth: Everything around you and all that you have so far observed is a product of what I own. These stockings I wear were knitted by my daughters; my shoes and my clothes came from my own sheep; they help also with my gardens and barnyards, to furnish me with simple, nourishing food, and what makes our government so admirable is that here in Connecticut there are thousands of farmers just as happy as I am and whose doors, like mine, are never bolted.

"Taxes here are almost nothing, and as long as they are paid we can sleep in peace. Congress does everything in its power to help our newborn industry; agents come from every direction to buy up whatever we have to sell, and I have cash on hand for a long time, for I have just sold for $24 a barrel the wheat I usually get $8 for.

"All this is the result of the liberty which we have fought for and founded on good laws. I am the master in my own house and you will not be astonished to know that we never hear the sound of the drum here nor, except for the Fourth of July, the glorious anniversary of our independence, do we ever see soldiers, uniforms, or bayonets."

While all this is in marked contrast to the situation today, still we can count our blessings.

Our Thanksgivings are patterned after the age old custom of celebrating a feast day. These holidays frequently were religious in character but included emphasis on rest, recreation, and feasting.

The first Thanksgiving lasted several days and cemented friendships between settlers and Indians. The Pilgrim fathers were thankful to be alive, even though they had no more than the bare necessities of life. The individual who thinks he has nothing to be thankful for may learn a lesson from the attitude of our early colonists.

Our inherited strong religious faith deserves recognition on this festive day. Let us follow in the footsteps of our Pilgrim fathers by giving thanks for the opportunity to worship God as we choose.

TOMORROW: The use of drugs is ancient history.

Senator Welker Let Cat Out Of Bag About Joe McCarthy's Bad Elbow

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Despite impressive medical bulletins, many senators are privately suspicious of the sore elbow that has suspended Senate proceedings for 10 days.

The elbow, of course, belongs to Sen. Joe McCarthy who, for such a husky fellow, has had an unusual record of illnesses—most of them politically convenient. What makes senators suspicious is that Joe's pal, GOP Sen. Herman Welker of Idaho, correctly prophesied several weeks in advance that McCarthy would go to the hospital before the censure vote.

This amazing prediction was made on the return flight from the late Sen. Pat McCarran's funeral in Reno. Welker had stayed up all night after the funeral playing blackjack in the gambling joints. On the way back, he insisted on discussing Republican strategy very loudly with pro tem Senate President Styles Bridges of New Hampshire who happened to be sitting in the middle of a group of Democrats, including Harley Kilgore of West Virginia, Jim Eastland of Mississippi and Johns Stennis of Mississippi.

Bridges did his best to shush up Welker who went right on discussing secret GOP strategy in front of the Democrats. He also gave away McCarthy's plan to delay the censure vote while his friends tried to stir up national sentiment for him.

In fact, Welker became so loose-lipped that another of Joe's cronies, Sen. Bill Jenner of Indiana, broke in with the warning: "You better watch out! Joe will censure you!"

But the real tip-off was a crack by Welker that Joe was "a sick man" and probably wouldn't last through the censure debate. Welker predicted flatly that McCarthy would have to go to the hospital.

Of course, the Idaho senator didn't mention a bunged-up elbow. Rather, he spoke of Joe's troubles with his sinus and a throat condition. These are old medical alibis, however, that have sent McCarthy scurrying to the hospital nearly a dozen times.

Well-Timed Illnesses

It may be only a remarkable coincidence, but these hospital visits always seemed to come at a politically convenient time for McCarthy.

For example, he turned up at the hospital just before he was scheduled to make a series of speeches in the last congressional campaign. He thus avoided an embarrasing showdown with the Republican National Committee, which wanted him to stay out of the campaign.

At the height of his own 1952 reelection campaign, McCarthy again rushed to the hospital. This won him public sympathy, which he captalized on to the fullest. At the eleventh hour, he left his sickbed and made a dramatic appeal for votes.

The Army-McCarthy hearings were also delayed because Joe was out West "recovering from a throat infection." And after the hearings, the McCarthy Committee couldn't meet to fire counsel Roy Cohen, because Joe was off recuperating again.

McCarthy also came down with a convenient "sinus attack" during the uproar over his charges against the State Department in 1950.

As for the condition of his elbow, Navy doctors described it impressively as "traumatic bursitis" — which means nothing more than a sore elbow.

"Handshakingitis"—Not Bursitis

In any case, it's well known that senators can write their own diagnosis as far as the public is concerned.

It's true that Dr. George Calver, the congressional physician, confirmed the diagnosis. But he didn't bother to remove the dressing to examine the "infection" and took McCarthy's word that the pain ran down to his fingers.

France In Middle Of Milk-Drinking Premier And French Wine Peddlers

By ARTHUR EDSON

Here is its visiting premier, Pierre Mendes-France, swilling milk before you can say "moo." And here again is a French publication, "France Actuelle," which says France can't solve its financial problems unless more wine is peddled.

True, Mendes-France's hope is that Frenchmen will drink less wine. And true, too, that France Actuelle's hope is that other countries, especially the United States, will drink more.

But the news pictures of their Premier, his glass of milk aloft, must have stunned French wine exporters. He looked far more like a lobbyist for the National Milk Producers Assn. than a wine salesman.

"Wine in France," it says, "is a national institution. It provides employment, pleasure and profit."

One out of every seven Frenchmen is in the wine business. The average Frenchman puts away 40 gallons of the stuff each year.

In this country we're used to bragging about how things get bigger and better. But take a look at the French wine industry. Long ago the French were exporting wine.

As far back as 1350 the equivalent of a million cases was shipped from the port of Bordeaux. By 1790, six million cases were exported. By 1949, the exports dropped to 2½ million cases, not too great an improvement over what it was 600 years ago.

Argentina and Russia have been the chief countries to cut off wine imports, with Great Britain, Belgium, Denmark, Germany, Holland, Sweden and Switzerland remaining the chief customers.

Fellow named Edouard Kressman, a grower and exporter, has been trying to whip up more U.S. interest in French wines.

In some ways Kressman looks like an American businessman. He's mechanized his place, and he's adopted a scheme that should endear him to Mendes-France. It has been customary in Bordeaux to give winery employes all the wine they want to drink. Kressman has cut that out, and is passing on the savings to his employes. He says it's now a happier, as well as soberer, place.

Businessman or no, Kressman can get lyrically French.

"Wine is a part of French life," he told the Actuelle reporter. "Here in France, it is not 'deluxe merchandising.' De luxe! A beverage that all Frenchmen consume and which so many are engaged in producing?

"No, wine is a grand distribution of France which must be joyfully shared with the other civilized nations of the world."

What Kressman said when he saw Mendes-France's milk toast picture isn't known, but may be just as well. It probably was too hot to print anyway.

France In Middle Of Milk-Drinking Premier And French Wine Peddlers

By ARTHUR EDSON

Here is its visiting premier, Pierre Mendes-France, swilling milk before you can say "moo." And here again is a French publication, "France Actuelle," which says France can't solve its financial problems unless more wine is peddled.

True, Mendes-France's hope is that Frenchmen will drink less wine. And true, too, that France Actuelle's hope is that other countries, especially the United States, will drink more.

But the news pictures of their Premier, his glass of milk aloft, must have stunned French wine exporters. He looked far more like a lobbyist for the National Milk Producers Assn. than a wine salesman.

"Wine in France," it says, "is a national institution. It provides employment, pleasure and profit."

Administration Considers New Foreign Economic Program

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—Administration officials are reported to be considering a big new foreign economic program which may lead to the investment of billions of dollars in under-developed countries of the world, notably in non-Communist Asia.

The project is regarded here as activating, in effect, a new front in the struggle with the Communist powers for lands threatened by subversion and political aggression.

Some basic recommendations for operations in the new field may come before Christmas from Joseph M. Dodge, former budget director, Detroit banker and government adviser on various economic and financial problems over many years.

Dodge has been assigned by President Eisenhower to study the government's overall economic policies and come up with some recommendation for action. It was learned reliably that the problem is under active consideration in other departments of the government.

One fact reportedly emerging in the studies is that there is great opportunity and, from the political and military point of view in the cold war, great need for a new era of economic progress in South and Southeast Asia.

This progress, it is felt by some authorities here, can only be made by substantial American capital investment in power dams, factories and farm and other developments which add up to industrial progress and higher standards of living for people.

How rapidly the program can be developed and presented to President Eisenhower for consideration is not yet clear.

The present overall estimate bearing upon the United States position in the conflict with Russia, it was learned, comes down to two major points:

1. American and Soviet rivalries in atomic armaments have reached a point where there is such a balance of destructive forces that they virtually cancel each other out. Hence the prospect for the future is that rivalry between the Soviet bloc and the Free World will be primarily in the economic field, with neither side taking a serious risk of a great war.

2. On the political and military fronts of the cold war, the United States and its Allies have, with a conclusion of the Western European union agreement to rearm West Germany, established sound positions in the conflict with Russia. There is considerable discontent here, however, with the effectiveness of economic competition in huge areas of the world, and particularly the threatened lands of South Asia.

Administration Considers New Foreign Economic Program

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—Administration officials are reported to be considering a big new foreign economic program which may lead to the investment of billions of dollars in under-developed countries of the world, notably in non-Communist Asia.

The project is regarded here as activating, in effect, a new front in the struggle with the Communist powers for lands threatened by subversion and political aggression.

Some basic recommendations for operations in the new field may come before Christmas from Joseph M. Dodge, former budget director, Detroit banker and government adviser on various economic and financial problems over many years.

Dodge has been assigned by President Eisenhower to study the government's overall economic policies and come up with some recommendation for action. It was learned reliably that the problem is under active consideration in other departments of the government.

One fact reportedly emerging in the studies is that there is great opportunity and, from the political and military point of view in the cold war, great need for a new era of economic progress in South and Southeast Asia.

This progress, it is felt by some authorities here, can only be made by substantial American capital investment in power dams, factories and farm and other developments which add up to industrial progress and higher standards of living for people.

How rapidly the program can be developed and presented to President Eisenhower for consideration is not yet clear.

The present overall estimate bearing upon the United States position in the conflict with Russia, it was learned, comes down to two major points:

1. American and Soviet rivalries in atomic armaments have reached a point where there is such a balance of destructive forces that they virtually cancel each other out. Hence the prospect for the future is that rivalry between the Soviet bloc and the Free World will be primarily in the economic field, with neither side taking a serious risk of a great war.

2. On the political and military fronts of the cold war, the United States and its Allies have, with a conclusion of the Western European union agreement to rearm West Germany, established sound positions in the conflict with Russia. There is considerable discontent here, however, with the effectiveness of economic competition in huge areas of the world, and particularly the threatened land of South Asia.

Worry of FALSE TEETH Slipping or Irritating?

Don't be embarrassed by loose false teeth slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, talk or laugh. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. This pleasant powder gives a remarkable sense of added comfort and security by holding plates more firmly. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. It's alkaline (non-acid). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Mendes-France Shines, Cools In Sincerity

By J. M. ROBERTS

French Premier Mendes-France came to the United States last week under a cloud, by the weekend he had begun to shine as few visiting diplomats have in recent years, and then Monday he went into another partial eclipse.

The first big thing he did was to allay widespread fears about his sincerity in connection with the rearmament of West Germany under the Western European Union. The Russians are not going to stop it this time by offers of empty negotiations, he said.

To emphasize it, he and Secretary Dulles worked out a postconference communique which, when the Russians offered on Saturday to postpone their proposed conference if the West would postpone WEU, had their negative answer all ready.

Then on Monday Mendes-France made two statements before the United Nations which sounded all right but faded quickly under close scrutiny.

He said France would be willing to take the lead for a four-power conference on European settlements in May, after WEU had been finally ratified.

And, in pointing out that WEU takes an important step toward arms limitations by providing controls for one large group of nations, he said France would not look askance if Russia wanted to do the same thing in her sphere provided the limitations principle was the same.

After initial approval of a postratification parley, officials began to realize that May would be too soon.

It would put the Allies into negotiations in a fashion which they had just said they would not permit — before their new position of strength was truly established.

Ratification of Western European Union is one thing. Until implemented, it is a theoretical thing. The fact of German rearmament, which cannot even begin until after that, is another thing. It, not paper agreements, will present the Russians with a situation the Allies have always hoped would bring them to realistic negotiations instead of meetings for propaganda purposes.

A conference in May would present the Kremlin with the same thing it seeks today — an opportunity to throw new monkey wrenches before rearmament is actually a fact. The United States is prepared to start moving in arms quickly. But mobilization from scratch is another thing.

As for an Eastern European Union providing the same arms limitations as WEU, and its approval by France or any other western countries, it wouldn't mean a thing except legalization of what already exists, an armed bloc operating under a single and, in this case, centrally located authority. Even an arms limitation treaty between two such blocs would mean even less than such treaties have meant before, because of the Communist record of breaking agreements.

Former British Ambassador States McCarthy Ruining U.S. Reputation

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON, Nov. 24 (AP)—Sir Oliver Franks said that Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) has damaged the reputation of the United States throughout the world and it is a tragedy that so many Americans are unaware of this.

The former British ambassador to the United States told Britons in a radio speech McCarthy has made millions of people in Europe and Asia change their minds about the United States and lose confidence in the future of American democracy.

"He has made it easier to lump the Soviet Union and the United States together as the two great threats to the peaceful progress of mankind," he said.

Franks asked the British public not to judge the United States solely by Sen. McCarthy, saying there has never been any evidence that he might dominate America "and, in the past few months, signs have accumulated that his star has passed the zenith."

The former ambassador, whose wife is an American, said the greatest source of difficulty between Britain and the United States is a widespread fear that the Americans will get the United Kingdom and others into a third world war.

"I am not going to argue that this fear is baseless," he added. "I have far too much respect for the instinct of the British People."

But he referred to what he termed two critical periods—when the U. S. forces suffered setbacks in Korea in the winter of 1950-51, and when the French were defeated in Indochina last summer.

"On each occasion," he said, "distinguished members of the U. S. government and of the American armed forces publicly advocated the extension of the fighting by sea blockade and bombing from the air."

Yet on neither occasion did extreme policies prevail, he said.

Franks said U. S. foreign policy through two administrations has had a remarkable consistency.

"Furthermore," he said, "in spite of the vigor with which sudden changes and extreme solutions have often been urged, it has been cautious and responsible."

The American people, he said, want peace.

Optimistic Outlook For Business In 1955 Voiced By GM President

FLINT, Mich., Nov. 24 (AP)—An optimistic appraisal of business prospects for the year ahead was made here by Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors Corp.

Celebrating production of the 50 millionth car built by GM in the United States, Curtice predicted next year's car demand will require production of 5,800,000 passenger units "for the domestic market." That would be an increase of about 10 per cent over this year's indicated volume.

Curtice also said the national economy is "showing renewed strength" and that he is "optimistic about business in general for the next calendar year."

He spoke before 1,200 Flint and Detroit civic and business leaders participating in the local observance of the completion of the milestone vehicle, the 50 millionth.

Curtice foresaw a future of greater employment and a rising standard of living.

His talk was carried by special television and telephone hookups to civic luncheons in 65 cities across the nation which also participated in the observance. Besides these meetings, GM also held open house in 125 of its plants in some 70 communities.

The 50 millionth vehicle was assembled in the Flint Chevrolet plant. Its body was gold painted and most of its hardware was gold plated. Here in Flint, where more than 75,000 persons are employed by GM, an hour-long parade was part of the day's celebration.

In his talk Curtice reported General Motors employment throughout the United States now totals 475,000 and "will be substantially increased between now and Jan. 1." The combination of a growing opulation and an expanding technology in the United States, he said, "means mounting employment and a rising standard of living."

Curtice noted it took 46 years to build GM's first 50 million cars. He said he expected completion of the 100 millionth car will be celebrated within the next 14 to 15 years. "I find it difficult" he said, "to place a ceiling on our possible achievements."

"Hard Core" Of Communists In Malayan Jungle Still Fight British

By LARRY ALLEN

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya, Nov. 24 (AP)—A "hard core" of approximately 5,000 Communists deep in Malaya's jungles are still giving a tough time to British troops and Malayan security forces who outnumber the Reds by more than 50 to 1.

Malaya has been under a state of emergency for six years and authorities say progress is being made in the fight against Communist terrorists. More and more areas are becoming free of Communists as they are forced deeper into the jungle, but the end is not in sight.

There are 260,000 men trying to wipe out the Communists, who carry on their activities in guerrilla style. The Reds specialize in ambush of British troops, Malayan security forces and rubber estate men.

British authorities say there is no evidence that Reds are getting supplies or arms from Russia or Red China, but what they have from the days of World War II and what they manage to capture or steal will keep them fighting for some time to come.

The hard core of 5,000 Communists is about the same number as was in Malaya in 1951. The federal government says well over 5,000 Reds have been killed since the state of emergency was proclaimed on June 1, 1948, but new recruits take their place.

The Reds have killed 2,336 civilians, wounded 1,312 others and 705 are missing since the state of emergency was proclaimed. They have wiped out 1,250 regular, special and auxiliary police and about 800 British troops.

Up to Nov. 1 terrorists killed totaled 5,330, of which more than 4,900 were identified as Chinese.

Surgeon Proposes More Aid For Medical Schools Should Come From Government

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Nov. 24 (AP)—A world-famed surgeon proposed a large transfusion of federal financial aid for the nation's debt-sick medical schools.

Dr. Alfred Blalock said medical schools need more money now "in order to survive and to continue the day to day operation." That money, he added, should come from the government in "unrestricted funds."

Blalock said such aid could not be called "socialized medicine."

"I am not fearful of additional properly documented federal support for medical education," he said. "It is my belief that the federal government would not attempt to dictate the choice of faculty and students, the problems to be investigated or the subjects to be taught."

"Medical schools have insufficient funds to maintain the level of excellence they have reached in recent years," he said in his prepared speech. They are short of money because "expenses have increased out of all proportion to income."

He placed the annual deficit of the nation's 79 medical schools at 10 million dollars.

Boosting student tuition fees is not the way to get more money, he said, inasmuch as there are already too many "worthwhile" men and women "who simply cannot afford to go to medical school."

But "what is now needed is unrestricted funds," he said.

Blalock suggested three ways the government could lend a helping hand to medical schools:

1. It could "supply building and equipment support."

2. It could "furnish the money" to pay the "salaries of those senior teachers and investigators who are engaged in research sponsored by governmental agencies."

3. It could "pay for medical services rendered" to poverty-stricken patients treated at university hospitals.

Optimistic Outlook For Business In 1955 Voiced By GM President

FLINT, Mich., Nov. 24 (AP)—An optimistic appraisal of business prospects for the year ahead was made here by Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors Corp.

Celebrating production of the 50 millionth car built by GM in the United States, Curtice predicted next year's car demand will require production of 5,800,000 passenger units "for the domestic market." That would be an increase of about 10 per cent over this year's indicated volume.

Curtice also said the national economy is "showing renewed strength" and that he is "optimistic about business in general for the next calendar year."

He spoke before 1,200 Flint and Detroit civic and business leaders participating in the local observance of the completion of the milestone vehicle, the 50 millionth.

Curtice foresaw a future of greater employment and a rising standard of living.

His talk was carried by special television and telephone hookups to civic luncheons in 65 cities across the nation which also participated in the observance. Besides these meetings, GM also held open house in 125 of its plants in some 70 communities.

The 50 millionth vehicle was assembled in the Flint Chevrolet plant. Its body was gold painted and most of its hardware was gold plated. Here in Flint, where more than 75,000 persons are employed by GM, an hour-long parade was part of the day's celebration.

In his talk Curtice reported General Motors employment throughout the United States now totals 475,000 and "will be substantially increased between now and Jan. 1." The combination of a growing opulation and an expanding technology in the United States, he said, "means mounting employment and a rising standard of living."

Curtice noted it took 46 years to build GM's first 50 million cars. He said he expected completion of the 100 millionth car will be celebrated within the next 14 to 15 years. "I find it difficult" he said, "to place a ceiling on our possible achievements."

"Hard Core" Of Communists In Malayan Jungle Still Fight British

By LARRY ALLEN

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya, Nov. 24 (AP)—A "hard core" of approximately 5,000 Communists deep in Malaya's jungles are still giving a tough time to British troops and Malayan security forces who outnumber the Reds by more than 50 to 1.

Malaya has been under a state of emergency for six years and authorities say progress is being made in the fight against Communist terrorists. More and more areas are becoming free of Communists as they are forced deeper into the jungle, but the end is not in sight.

There are 260,000 men trying to wipe out the Communists, who carry on their activities in guerrilla style. The Reds specialize in ambush of British troops, Malayan security forces and rubber estate men.

British authorities say there is no evidence that Reds are getting supplies or arms from Russia or Red China, but what they have from the days of World War II and what they manage to capture or steal will keep them fighting for some time to come.

The hard core of 5,000 Communists is about the same number as was in Malaya in 1951. The federal government says well over 5,000 Reds have been killed since the state of emergency was proclaimed on June 1, 1948, but new recruits take their place.

The Reds have killed 2,336 civilians, wounded 1,312 others and 705 are missing since the state of emergency was proclaimed. They have wiped out 1,250 regular, special and auxiliary police and about 800 British troops.

Up to Nov. 1 terrorists killed totaled 5,330, of which more than 4,900 were identified as Chinese.

Surgeon Proposes More Aid For Medical Schools Should Come From Government

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Nov. 24 (AP)—A world-famed surgeon proposed a large transfusion of federal financial aid for the nation's debt-sick medical schools.

Dr. Alfred Blalock said medical schools need more money now "in order to survive and to continue the day to day operation." That money, he added, should come from the government in "unrestricted funds."

Blalock said such aid could not be called "socialized medicine."

"I am not fearful of additional properly documented federal support for medical education," he said. "It is my belief that the federal government would not attempt to dictate the choice of faculty and students, the problems to be investigated or the subjects to be taught."

"Medical schools have insufficient funds to maintain the level of excellence they have reached in recent years," he said in his prepared speech. They are short of money because "expenses have increased out of all proportion to income."

He placed the annual deficit of the nation's 79 medical schools at 10 million dollars.

Boosting student tuition fees is not the way to get more money, he said, inasmuch as there are already too many "worthwhile" men and women "who simply cannot afford to go to medical school."

But "what is now needed is unrestricted funds," he said.

Blalock suggested three ways the government could lend a helping hand to medical schools:

1. It could "supply building and equipment support."

2. It could "furnish the money" to pay the "salaries of those senior teachers and investigators who are engaged in research sponsored by governmental agencies."

3. It could "pay for medical services rendered" to poverty-stricken patients treated at university hospitals.

Four Presidents' Swords In Exhibition

By DAVID A. HELLER
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Dating back to the earliest days of the Bronze Age, the sword is man's oldest weapon of warfare which has survived to the present day. In ancient times, through the Middle Ages, and right up to the present day, the sword has remained a symbol of military rank and authority.

Even today, in our era of jet fighters and atomic bombs, when a grateful people want to pay tribute to a victorious general they can think of no more appropriate way to do so than to have a special sword forged in his honor. That's what the City of London did for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in recognition of his services in the last war in a tradition that dates back to the Roman conquerors and before.

General Eisenhower's sword (presented to him before he became President) is only one of four belonging to Presidents of the United States which are on exhibition at a special display called "The Sword in America."

* * *

THIS EXHIBITION, the only one of its kind ever held in this country, is now showing at the Corcoran Gallery of Art, a famous old landmark in the nation's capital which has served as the scene of many presidential receptions, inaugural balls and the like in days gone by.

Besides the great Crusader sword given to General Eisenhower, the collection of 400 swords contains weapons used by Gen. George Washington in the French and Indian and Revolutionary wars.

A ceremonial sword given to Gen. Ulysses S. Grant by the officers of his victorious Army of the Tennessee following the Union victory at Vicksburg which split the Confederacy in half and opened the Mississippi river to Union forces is also included.

A rapier carried by Teddy Roosevelt when he led his Rough Riders up San Juan hill in the Spanish-American war also draws a good deal of interest.

* * *

AMONG the most celebrated swords in American history is in the collection. It was carried by Gen. Robert E. Lee, the commander-in-chief of the Confederate forces and is the famous weapon which, according to legend, Grant declined to accept when Lee surrendered his forces to him.

The most ornate sword in the collection is an enormously elaborate weapon Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman received by Act of Congress following his services in the Civil war. Made by Tiffany's, the jewelers, it has Sherman's initials, WTS, beautifully inscribed on the handle—in diamonds.

* * *

THE SWORD of Capt. Miles Standish, the bluff old warrior who asked John Alden to woo Priscilla for him, and the ceremonial sword given to Commodore Stephen Decatur, one of America's greatest naval heroes, by the city of Philadelphia in 1813, are other outstanding items in the collection.

The sword that was the companion of Gen. George Washington is a colichemarde, a three-bladed weapon, with a solid silver hilt.

A favorite among the swords is that given to Lt. Presley O'Bannon, however. A great feat of heroism earned the weapon for the young lieutenant 'way back in 1801.

O'Bannon led a small force of about 100 men against the dreaded Barbary pirates, North African corsairs who had been looking the vessels of civilized nations for many years.

Making a forced march of more than 500 miles across the scorching sands of the Libyan desert from Alexandria, Egypt, to Derma, Tripoli, the fearless Marine lieutenant and his handful of men attacked a vastly superior force, stormed the citadel of the pasha, and conquered it and him. Running up the Stars and Stripes, O'Bannon squelched the pirates.

Congress was so impressed by O'Bannon's exploits, it ordered a special sword forged for Lieutenant O'Bannon. On its hilt, the sword has a picture of him running up the American flag over the citadels of Tripoli. To this day, Marine Corps officers' swords are modeled after the curved saber of Lieutenant O'Bannon.

Nancy Miller displays swords of two Presidents. In the case is the Crusader sword presented to the then Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1945 by the City of London. Nancy holds George Washington's sword, which he carried for many years.

Don't squeeze, scrub or overwash argyle socks. Instead, soak them from 15 to 30 minutes in a wash basin filled with lukewarm water and a tablespoon of controlled suds detergent. Swish them around a few times, and rinse once under running water.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

CLEVELAND, Nov. 24 (INS) — For a fellow who has been under questioning, under guard, under cover and under-minded since last July, Dr. Les Hoversten was given precious little opportunity to sound off in public when he finally got to the stand in the Sheppard case.

It was like holding your ears for an H-bomb detonation and hearing a sneeze.

Hoversten was on and off the witness chair as if he had accidentally lowered his comfortable bulk on a carelessly placed hot rivet. Neither side wanted to keep him on the premises. The timid direct examination of him quickly got the prosecution into trouble; the cross examination ended abruptly. Fred Garmone, who planned to be very cross in his cross examination, stopped the questioning like a dice shooter who, after making three passes with a case deuce riding on the line, says to himself, "Quit while you're ahead."

For the aid of those fresh up the rope ladder from the abandoned lead mine they entered last July 4, Dr. Hoverstein has never been lower than No. 2 billing as a prosecution witness in Ohio's firm effort to remove Sam Sheppard from society, via electricity.

He was a house guest — natch — of the Sheppards from July 1 to July 3, at which time he seems to have gotten a better offer and gone on to Kent, O., to spend the night with another friend and to play golf the next day. He once lived with the Sheppards for six months, after which he went to live over Dr. Sam's office. Both Sam and his brother Stephen suggested to police that Hoversten was one of the poor murdered woman's "spurned potential lovers."

Which sounds wanly redundant, somehow.

Sam and Les were schoolmates, pals and close enough to talk about their marriages. They double-dated when the girls weren't around. Sam was Les's best man, and often his host. Les felt close enough to him to barge in on him for a few days in July, en route to Glendale, Calif., with so much luggage that it spilled over into the next room to his bedroom and partly filled the garage.

But Sam put the finger on him, even after saying that Marilyn's murderer and his own assailant was a "bushy-haired" monster. Dr. Hoversten, who looks quite a bit like an unhappy Red Skelton, has pale, thin, slicked-down hair with a part like a razor wound.

Be that as it may, Hoversten came to the stand and over and beyond a few routine jabs at Sam, which he delivered in a forgiving and understanding voice, he said that Sam was a fine man, kind to wife and child, even-tempered, eager to help in the search for the murderer, grief-stricken over the loss of his wife, true blue, truly injured by the assailant, etc. etc. etc.

When the unhappy prosecution tried to turn him off, before he became a character witness, the best it could think to ask was something about the light switch which turned on the light in the hall upstairs. Sam says all was dark when he mounted the stairs in answer to his wife's screams. Did Hoversten, as a chronic house guest, ever recall Sam's flipping on the lights before mounting the stairs? Yes, yes, Hoversten remembered easily. Many a time the flipped-on light interrupted his sack time — especially on hot nights when he had the door of his bedroom open.

But, he quickly volunteered, that was 'way back in 1952. The Sheppards had had a fire since then, so the whole wiring system might have been changed.

As we say, Dr. Hoversten has never been rated less than No. 2. No. 1, still to be heard from, is Susan Hayes. The state has had her on ice for months, content that when it calls her she'll swear she and Sam played house for keeps on the side, and the state then will go on to say that's why Sam beat his ever-lovin' dead.

But if Hoversten is an example of the state's varsity witnesses, look for Susan Hayes to testify that the only thing she and Dr. Sam had in common was a keen interest in numismatics and the weekkly tea of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Guppies.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The center of attention in any crowd is likely to be the woman with the brightest eyes and the warmest smile. Years ago it was considered fashionable to face the world without expression . . . affected boredom was a symbol of sophistication. The idea is as outdated as great aunt Jenny's bustle, and don't you forget it!

Obvious boredom is neither attractive nor attracting. No one enjoys conversing with a blank. A bored expression is sure to turn away people who might, with encouragement, become friends.

Your face, like your voice, should have animation. With the most extensive vocabulary of words and topics in mind, you'll lose the opportunity to bring them forth unless you have a "come-talk-with-me" look.

The worst of it is that you can't appear bored without feeling bored. Once you allow yourself to fall into this unfortunate habit, you'll sit in a corner all alone. Of course, you may sometimes be bored and with good reason. But you should learn to take the dull and routine in stride as graciously as you react to entertaining things and witty people. That's a sure mark of poise and charm!

If boredom has become chronic, you'd better exercise some serious self-analysis. Are your friends at fault, or are you? Perhaps you're not making the effort that sociability requires. Perhaps your interests are too narrowly channeled inward.

It's always advisable to broaden your social horizons with new interests, but don't discard current companions until you're sure your own appeal isn't slipping for lack of expression. It will, if your immobile face declares to one and all: "You bore me, you tire me, and I hope you will leave soon." Such a look literally kills any spontaneous, interested feeling others might have for you — and in progression, your feeling for them.

Whether speaking or listening, let your face reflect sparkle within. While you needn't resort to the absurd, overdone expressions of old silent movies. You can't wear a bored, deadpan expression and ever expect to be interesting to anybody.

Setting-up exercises do just what they profess; set you up with a feeling of aliveness and exhilaration that flows through your whole body. Their purpose is to coordinate your movements in the manner of modern dance, slenderizing and relaxing at the same time.

Devote a consistent 15 or 20 minutes a day to all-over exercise, and you'll see results in all-over beauty — in posture, poise, and grace. Start this very day, with this sequence suggested by my physical education department, to shape your figure by rhythmically smoothing the kinks out of every muscle.

Stand erect, arms at your sides, feet together. Stretch your arms upward with a steady 1-2-3-4 count. Now drop your fingers toward your toes (can you touch them?) with the same steady count, and repeat. Quicken your up-and-down movements to a 1-2 count, and repeat.

Again standing tall, this time with feet astride, bring your arms up to shoulder level at the sides. Twisting from the waist, cross the right arm over to touch the left toe as the other arm goes backward and up. Arms in starting position again, alternate. Bend slowly the first time, then more rapidly — but smoothly, always.

Standing with feet together once more, rest your finger tips on your shoulders, and throw your head back. Rotate your elbows in a leisurely circle: forward, up, back, and around to resting position. Complete a dozen or so rotations.

Next, balance on one foot, clasping your hands over the opposite knee to bring it as close to your body as possible. Pull up as you count "one" and relax on "two." Alternate legs. This is effective for flattening the stomach!

Ready for floor work? Sit with legs out straight, and close together; point your toes. Stretch arms slowly upward over your head, then relax by reaching toward your toes. Faster the second time, for the sake of midriff, legs, and posture.

This one is harder. Lie flat on your back, arms at your sides; lift the legs about three inches from the floor. Raise one leg, then the other, so they pass in mid-air. Ten or 12 lifts with each leg is enough for the first day, as you'll feel a pull in your stomach muscles. That's why the exercise is such a fine one for flattening where you're likely to need it.

Bids Sought For Work On Route 135

The goal of a modern highway from Cumberland to Oakland by way of McCoole, Westernport and Swanton advanced a step yesterday as the State Roads Commission announced it wants bids on another section of State Route 135, one of the connecting links on the route.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the SRC, said bids will be received until noon December 14 for the modernizing State Route 135 from the intersection of Mountain Lake Park Road and Deer Park Road northeasterly toward Bloomington.

The distance is 2.85 miles and will include relocation work and the bypassing of Deer Park.

One of the remaining contracts on the project will be the link down Savage Mountain into Bloomington.

This will connect the 7.75 miles completed or being constructed from Swanton east toward Bloomington, Chaires reported.

The district engineer said the work on the stretch into Bloomington will no doubt be advertised in the spring.

He said present plans call for Route 135 to be bridged over the B&O Railroad at Bloomington.

Motorists traveling between Cumberland and Oakland by way of Route 40 and Route 219 have to go 57 miles.

Those using Route 220 between Cumberland, McCoole and 135 from McCoole into Oakland only have to travel 48 miles.

The big drawback on the short route has always been the narrow, crown road up Savage Mountain from Bloomington into Swanton.

For the past several years there has been much work done on Route 220 between Cumberland and McCoole until today most of it is modern highway.

Under contract is the modernization, which includes widening and some relocation, of Route 135 between McCoole and Westernport.

Chaires also announced another contract was opened for work in his district which is comprised of Allegany, Washington and Garrett counties.

The M. J. Grove Lime Company of Frederick was low bidder with $454,526 for modernizing 3.2 miles of Route 64 between Hagerstown north to Cavetown. This is the Hagerstown - Waynesboro, Pa., route. Chewsville will be bypassed, he said.

GRADUATE NURSE — Miss Betty Grady, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Grady, 520 Broadway Circle, has graduated from the Baltimore City Hospital School of Nursing where she was vice president of her class. A graduate of Fort Hill High School, she plans to further studies in the veterinary field.

WILLIAM L. DRUMMOND

William L. Drummond, 35, of Buckhannon, W. Va., a former resident, died Sunday in Martinsburg.

Mr. Drummond was stricken ill while visiting friends there and was pronounced dead on arrival at King's Daughters Hospital. He had been employed by the Great American Tea Company here until November 12.

A native of Buckhannon, he was a son of G. Ernest Drummond, a patient in the Masonic Home, Parkersburg, W. Va., and the late Blanche (Kiddy) Drummond.

Services and interment took place yesterday morning at Buckhannon.

MRS. FLORA C. CRABTREE

Mrs. Flora C. Crabtree, 74, Oldtown, died yesterday morning in Memorial Hospital where she was admitted November 20.

MRS. FLORENCE SHEETZ

CONNELLSVILLE — Mrs. Florence E. Sheetz, 90, died Sunday at her home here.

Born in Grantsville, she was a daughter of the late William and Frances (Layman) Fisher.

Services were conducted yesterday afternoon at the McIntire Funeral Home here by Rev. Richard M. Langsdale and interment was in Union Cemetery, Meyersdale.

MRS. HARRIET E. HALL

Mrs. Harriet Elizabeth Hall, 95, mother of Mrs. Martha Dusic, this city, died Monday in Uniontown at the home of another daughter, Mrs. Lovina Carr.

Services and interment took place Tuesday in Uniontown.

MRS. NANCY M. ROTRUCK

BURLINGTON — Mrs. Nancy Margaret "Maggie" Rotruck, 63, died Tuesday in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, where she had been a patient nine weeks. Mrs. Rotruck had been in failing health a year.

Born in Maysville, a daughter of the late Baker and Hannah (Moreland) Harris, she had resided here 25 years. Her husband, Raymond E. Rotruck, preceded her in death.

Surviving are a daughter, Miss Katherine Rotruck, at home; four sisters, Mrs. Anna B. Brafford, Bruceton Mills; Mrs. Lucy Erwin, Indianapolis; Mrs. Edna Brown, Shaw, and Mrs. Martha Bridigun, Somerset, Pa., and a brother, Lossie Harris, Spencer.

The body will remain at the Rogers Funeral Home, Keyser, until 1 p.m. tomorrow when it will be taken to the Knobley Church of the Brethren for services at 2 p. m. Rev. Benjamin Reed, pastor of Burlington Presbyterian Church, will officiate and interment will be in Knobley Cemetery.

LOY B. STULTZ

MATHIAS, W. Va. — Loy B. Stultz, 59, a life resident of the Mathias community, died Monday at Fort Howard Hospital, Sparrows Point, Md., where he has been a patient for several months.

Born on July 2, 1895, he was a son of the late Jesse and Martha (Lowry) Stultz. He was united in marriage to Miss Sadie Dispanet who survives. He was a well known farmer of the Mathias section and for many years a member of St. John's Lutheran Church.

Besides his wife, he is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Fulton Wintermoyer, Charles Town; Mrs. Cletus Jenkins, Mathias, and Mrs. Edwood Branner, Timberville, Va.; two sons, O. G. Stultz and R. B. Stultz, Mathias, one sister, Mrs. George Mathias, Moorefield, and seven grandchildren.

Services will be conducted today at 2 p.m. in the St. John's Lutheran Church, Broadway, Va., with the pastor, Rev. H. B. Drum, officiating. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Myrtle (Wamsley) Zacot; two sons, William Zacot, Keyser, and John Zacot, Baltimore; four daughters, Mrs. Virginia Foltz and Miss Louise Zacot, both at home; Mrs. Rachel Cropue, Washington, Pa., and Mrs. Rebecca Markle, Madera, Calif.; a sister, Mrs. Lucy Mulligan, Pinesville, Pa., and 14 grandchildren.

Woodward Assumes Position At ABL

J. W. Woodard has assumed maintenance engineer duties at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory.

He succeeds E. E. Lomax who was transferred to Wilmington, Del.

Woodard has been employed at ABL since November, 1950. Prior to his new assignment, he was assistant plant engineer for two years.

Army Lowers Enlistment Requirements

The United States Army has lowered its requirements for enlistments, where dependents and police records are concerned.

M/Sgt. George J. Wells, local Army recruiter said yesterday the Army will now accept married men for volunteer service. For some months past, only men without dependents were being enlisted.

Men with one dependent may now enlist in grade E-1 if physical and mental examinations are satisfactory.

Prior service men may enlist in grades E-1 through E-3, with not more than two dependents.

Prior service men may volunteer in grade E-4 or higher without regard to the number of dependents, Wells stated.

In some instances where applicants do not meet these dependency requirements, major commands may grant waivers, the recruiter explained. These waivers are granted, however, only in especially meritorious cases of personnel with long periods of honorable active service, six years or more.

Liberalizing its regulations on police records, the Army now has announced that minor traffic violations, drunkenness, vagrancy, truancy, peace disturbance and other minor offenses charged by civil authority, will no longer be a bar against enlistment, provided evidence is produced that the applicant is rehabilitated, and civil restraint no longer exists.

Wells said he has been receiving more and more inquiries from family men and older men than had been noted here for some period of time.

January Surplus Food Registration Will Begin Monday

The Red Cross will begin registrations for surplus food commodities on Monday, continuing Tuesday and Wednesday.

As in preceding months, this registration is for the next succeeding month, after registrations close, or for January.

Citadel Begins Work On Yule Program

Practice for a Christmas play to be presented by the Young People's Department of the Salvation Army Citadel is getting under way this week.

The musical play will be directed by Mrs. Capt. Daniel K. Biggs and Lt. John Ray, assistant in charge of youth activities.

The program will feature the narration of the Christmas story, along with Biblical scenes and the singing of Christmas carols.

Needy Families Get Thanksgiving Baskets

The Associated Charities yesterday distributed 43 boxes of food which was donated by a number of organizations to provide Thanksgiving cheer to needy families.

Both food supplies and cash were supplied by drives conducted by the Girls Tri-Hi-Y Clubs of both Fort Hill and Allegany High Schools, Girl Scout Troop 39 and the alumni association of Alpha Sigma Alpha.

Miss Jeannette Bonig, executive director of the Associated Charities, said the food boxes and baskets were distributed yesterday afternoon by the Cumberland Street Department.

Army Lowers Enlistment Requirements

The United States Army has lowered its requirements for enlistments, where dependents and police records are concerned.

M/Sgt. George J. Wells, local Army recruiter said yesterday the Army will now accept married men for volunteer service. For some months past, only men without dependents were being enlisted.

Men with one dependent may now enlist in grade E-1 if physical and mental examinations are satisfactory.

Prior service men may enlist in grades E-1 through E-3, with not more than two dependents.

Prior service men may volunteer in grade E-4 or higher without regard to the number of dependents, Wells stated.

In some instances where applicants do not meet these dependency requirements, major commands may grant waivers, the recruiter explained. These waivers are granted, however, only in especially meritorious cases of personnel with long periods of honorable active service, six years or more.

Liberalizing its regulations on police records, the Army now has announced that minor traffic violations, drunkenness, vagrancy, truancy, peace disturbance and other minor offenses charged by civil authority, will no longer be a bar against enlistment, provided evidence is produced that the applicant is rehabilitated, and civil restraint no longer exists.

Wells said he has been receiving more and more inquiries from family men and older men than had been noted here for some period of time.

January Surplus Food Registration Will Begin Monday

The Red Cross will begin registrations for surplus food commodities on Monday, continuing Tuesday and Wednesday.

As in preceding months, this registration is for the next succeeding month, after registrations close, or for January.

Citadel Begins Work On Yule Program

Practice for a Christmas play to be presented by the Young People's Department of the Salvation Army Citadel is getting under way this week.

The musical play will be directed by Mrs. Capt. Daniel K. Biggs and Lt. John Ray, assistant in charge of youth activities.

The program will feature the narration of the Christmas story, along with Biblical scenes and the singing of Christmas carols.

Needy Families Get Thanksgiving Baskets

The Associated Charities yesterday distributed 43 boxes of food which was donated by a number of organizations to provide Thanksgiving cheer to needy families.

Both food supplies and cash were supplied by drives conducted by the Girls Tri-Hi-Y Clubs of both Fort Hill and Allegany High Schools, Girl Scout Troop 39 and the alumni association of Alpha Sigma Alpha.

Miss Jeannette Bonig, executive director of the Associated Charities, said the food boxes and baskets were distributed yesterday afternoon by the Cumberland Street Department.

Chinese Children To Visit City For Christmas Holidays

Cumberland is one of the 1,500 "Friendly Towns" in 13 states in the east where youngsters from the teeming tenements of New York City are entertained for summer and Christmas vacations, the parent-Teacher Association of SS. Peter and Paul School was told at its meeting Sunday.

She supplied a background for the philanthropic endeavor that allows nearly 8,000 children a chance to get out in the fresh air of the smaller municipalities during the summer.

Coming For Christmas

In addition to the summer trips, a number of them can be sent to their summer hosts upon invitations for a Christmas holiday, Miss Bigelow pointed out.

In fact, 15 of those Chinese-American children entertained in homes of members of the SS. Peter and Paul PTA last summer will be in Cumberland for a Christmas vacation from December 16 to December 29, she added.

Forty-eight children from New York's Chinatown were guests of PTA members last summer. They were from the parish of Rev. John Moore, who is a native of this city.

Others May Assist

Miss Bigelow pointed out that any organization or denomination may sponsor these children through the Fresh Air Fund and she invited Cumberland groups to participate.

Miss Bigelow explained that the Fresh Air Fund was started in 1877 by a Presbyterian minister and the move was taken over by the Herald-Tribune.

There are 19,000 contributors to give the program financial backing and, in fact there are a number of former Fresh Air children who are donors, she added.

The children sent to the Friendly towns are carefully screened by social workers of the fund. They are, among other things, given physical examinations before they are sent into the homes of their hosts.

From Crowded Areas

The children are taken from the most crowded, teeming districts of New York who have no way of getting a summer vacation away from the city, she said.

Not all children come from needy backgrounds, but are from broken homes or are orphans, Miss Bigelow added.

The fund also sponsors six modern camps for those children who would not fit in homes, she added.

Miss Bigelow expressed her thanks to SS. Peter and Paul PTA for its efforts in conjunction with father Moore.

John Wolfhope, president, announced the Christmas program of the children of the First and Second grades will be presented Sunday, December 12, at 3 p. m.

Five Celanese Workers Given Awards

Daniel Williams, Mt. Savage; Kathryn G. Carson, LaVale; Richard B. Anderson Jr., Mexico Farms; Lee S. Cathell, 117 South Smallwood Street; and Bernard G. Hare, 213 Grand Avenue, were presented watches as recognition of 25 years of service at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation. The presentations were made by R. Finley Thompson, manager.

Williams is a foreman in the preparation department of spinning. He is married and the father of two sons, both of whom attend Mt. Savage School. One is a senior and the other is in the Eighth Grade. Hunting and fishing are included among his hobbies as well as Little League baseball. He is a neighborhood commissioner of the Mountain District, Boy Scouts of America.

Anderson is a supervisor in the spinning and textile engineering development department. He was originally employed as a machinist on temporary three-month loan from the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company. Anderson is married, the father of three and grandfather of three. Both of his daughters are married and his son is a senior at Fort Hill. His favorite sports are fishing and deer hunting.

Cathell is an operator of color blenders in the Celaperm block of preparation. At various times he has worked on almost all of the jobs in preparation.

Hare is an electric truck operator in the bobbin stores department of spinning. He is married and the father of a daughter who is a student at St. Mary's and a son who is in the Navy. His hobbies are hunting and fishing.

John Bestwick, superintendent of spinning and auxiliaries, awarded Williams, Cathell and Hare service emblems and engraved certificates. J. Kenneth Morgan, accountant, made a similar award to Mrs. Carson. A. W. Keight awarded Anderson an emblem and certificate.

Hardy County Deer Checking Stations Listed

Nine Hunters Held For Illegal Kills

MOOREFIELD — Barthel Townsend, conservation officer for Hardy County, announced the deer checking stations for the deer season which will open next Monday.

In Moorefield, Keppie's Lunch; up South Fork, Yost's Store; down the Trough, R. E. Saville's home and Sam Clower's Store; Fabius, Crider's Store; Needmore, Black's Store; Post Office at Inkerman; Baker, Ely's Store; Mathias, Raymond Bean's Service Station; Lost River, Larry's Grill; Wardensville, See's Grill; Perry, Ben F. Deitz's residence; Old Fields, Old Field's Grocery and Kimsey's Run, Harry Miller's Store.

Townsend stated that the largest crowd of deer hunters ever to hunt in Hardy County is expected this year, based on the number of inquiries received by the Conservation Commission.

Deer will be checked this year the same as last year. All kills have to be checked but the checking may be done on the last day of the three-day season. Ageing stations are not scheduled for Hardy County this year.

Townsend will be assisted this season by Harvey Baisden.

Townsend also reported three illegal deer kills last week and the arrest of nine hunters. Six of the hunters were fined a total of $550, three were sentenced to jail and three others await trial.

Valley High School Cheerleaders

Long Holiday Given Grant County Students Due To Hunting Season

Schools Reconvene On December 1

PETERSBURG — Grant County schools closed their doors for the Thanksgiving holidays on Wednesday and will not reconvene until Wednesday, December 1, announced A. Neil Frye, county superintendent of Grant County schools.

The prolonged vacation is nothing new to school children of Grant County. For several years, the schools have been observing this traditional vacation and the last few years that deer season has followed, the schools have been dismissing. This closing of schools prevents a rural school child from possible accidents as the woodland of the county is swarming with hunters with powerful rifles, added the superintendent.

All of the days with the exception of Thanksgiving day itself will be made up in the Spring, added the announcement.

Students of all the county schools will be permitted to hunt the first two days of the season since the schools will not be in session, but absence from the classrooms on December 1 will be counted as an unexcused absence. In closing the schools for the two days of the season, county official explain that they are co-operating with the W. Va. Conservation Commission in trying to keep hunting accidents at a minimum. It has been explained that the rural pupils could be in danger as they wait along country roads for their ride to school.

County conservation officer, Harrison Shobe, has emphasized that a shot from the deer rifle can carry for many hundreds of yards and a stray shot or ricochet bullet could be the cause of some innocent school child being shot. Thus to prevent such accidents from happening, the County Board of Education has ordered the closing of all schools for the two days when the woods are apt to be most hunted.

Gibson To Speak To Mt. Savage Episcopal Men

MT. SAVAGE — The Annual Corporate Communion for men will be held at St. George's Episcopal Church on Sunday at 7:30 a. m. with the rector, the Rev. G. Stanley Schwind celebrating. During the service the men will make an act of rededication as they meet to inaugurate the Church's New Year, which is called Advent Sunday.

After the service the group will be entertained at breakfast by the members of St. Margaret's Chapter of the Woman's Auxiliary and an address will be given by Arthur B. Gibson, solicitor for the City of Cumberland.

Colin C. Bowers, chairman of men's work in the parish, will serve as toastmaster and the group will be led in the singing of "Rise Up O Men of God" by Raymond Yutzy.

Shooting Charge Filed Against Turkey Hunter

BERKELEY SPRINGS — West Virginia State Police have filed negligent shooting charges against a hunter who wounded another man Saturday near Orleans Crossroads.

Authorities said Raymond Daniel, of Berkeley Springs, a Fairchild Aircraft Division worker, was held in the accidental shooting of Clarence Robey, 35, of Great Cacapon.

Shot in the back of the head, Robey was admitted to Morgan County War Memorial Hospital in Berkeley Springs.

According to police, he apparently was sitting on a log, calling turkeys, when the "mistaken identity" accident occurred. No date was set for Daniel's trial.

Hardy County Deer Checking Stations Listed

Nine Hunters Held For Illegal Kills

MOOREFIELD — Barthel Townsend, conservation officer for Hardy County, announced the deer checking stations for the deer season which will open next Monday.

In Moorefield, Keppie's Lunch; up South Fork, Yost's Store; down the Trough, R. E. Saville's home and Sam Clower's Store; Fabjus, Crider's Store; Needmore, Black's Store; Post Office at Inkerman; Baker, Ely's Store; Mathias, Raymond Bean's Service Station; Lost River, Larry's Grill; Wardensville, See's Grill; Perry, Ben F. Deitz's residence; Old Fields, Old Field's Grocery and Kimsey's Run, Harry Miller's Store.

Townsend stated that the largest crowd of deer hunters ever to hunt in Hardy County is expected this year, based on the number of inquiries received by the Conservation Commission.

Deer will be checked this year the same as last year. All kills have to be checked but the checking may be done on the last day of the three-day season. Ageing stations are not scheduled for Hardy County this year.

Townsend will be assisted this season by Harvey Baisden.

Townsend also reported three illegal deer kills last week and the arrest of nine hunters. Six of the hunters were fined a total of $550, three were sentenced to jail and three others await trial.

On December 14, Valley will play at Piedmont. James Cross is in charge of the Junior Varsity team this year at Valley, which plays at 7 p. m. prior to the main games. The temporary squad for J.V.'s was announced yesterday. On the team are John Johnson, Ronald Young, Jack Duckworth, James Craze, John Mummert, David Hobel, Mike Muir, Billy Dye, Kenneth Metz, James Moffatt, Gerald Llewellyn, Melvin Klipstein, Gordon Green, George Lauder, Richard Duckworth, David Cook, and Walter McKenzie.

Long Holiday Given Grant County Students Due To Hunting Season

Schools Reconvene On December 1

PETERSBURG — Grant County schools closed their doors for the Thanksgiving holidays on Wednesday and will not reconvene until Wednesday, December 1, announced A. Neil Frye, county superintendent of Grant County schools.

The prolonged vacation is nothing new to school children of Grant County. For several years, the schools have been observing this traditional vacation and the last few years that deer season has followed, the schools have been dismissing. This closing of schools prevents a rural school child from possible accidents as the woodland of the county is swarming with hunters with powerful rifles, added the superintendent.

All of the days with the exception of Thanksgiving day itself will be made up in the Spring, added the announcement.

Students of all the county schools will be permitted to hunt the first two days of the season since the schools will not be in session, but absence from the classrooms on December 1 will be counted as an unexcused absence. In closing the schools for the two days of the season, county official explain that they are co-operating with the W. Va. Conservation Commission in trying to keep hunting accidents at a minimum. It has been explained that the rural pupils could be in danger as they wait along country roads for their ride to school.

County conservation officer, Harrison Shobe, has emphasized that a shot from the deer rifle can carry for many hundreds of yards and a stray shot or ricochet bullet could be the cause of some innocent school child being shot. Thus to prevent such accidents from happening, the County Board of Education has ordered the closing of all schools for the two days when the woods are apt to be most hunted.

West Virginia Reports On Toll Of Auto Mishaps

1953 Loss Estimated At Fifty Millions

KEYSER — According to a report from the Financial Responsibility Division of the West Virginia Department of Motor Vehicles for 1953, 22,167 accidents occurred on highways. Of this number, 15,881 were investigated by the police departments of West Virginia.

Fatal accidents in West Virginia last year numbered 378, in which 446 persons were killed, and of this number there were 159 car operators, 181 passengers, 102 pedestrians and four bicyclists.

The injury toll for the year was 5,844 persons in 3,758 accidents that were investigated by all police departments in the state.

Property damage during the year was accountable to 11,745 accidents, investigated by all police departments. This accounted only for property damage, exclusive of deaths and injuries.

The economic loss in West Virginia, alone, totalled $50 million.

During the year 1953, West Virginia had a half million registered vehicles, and according to the president's Materials Policy Commission, it is estimated there will be three quarters of a million vehicles registered in West Virginia in 1975.

On "Safe Driving" day in 1953, the State Police investigated 26 accidents. There was one fatal accident in which two persons were killed. There were seven injury accidents in which 14 persons were injured. Accidents of property damage only, totalled 18. There were 50 vehicles and 84 persons involved. Two of 15 drivers were drinking, and 20 of the accidents occurred during the daylight hours. The prevailing cause was vehicles on the wrong side of the road.

HIGH HOPES — Mary Kosloski, 5, of Collierville, Tenn., polio victim chosen as the 1955 March of Dimes poster girl, enjoys a swing in New York City. She was stricken by polio when she was five months old, and has never walked without braces and crutches provided by the March of Dimes.

BISHOP William C. Martin (above), president of the National Council of Churches, will preside at the Third General Assembly to be held in Boston, Nov. 28 to Dec. 3. More than 2,000 leaders of 30 Protestant and Eastern Orthodox communions will represent more than 35,000,000 members during the conferences. (International)

Moorefield Presbyterians Plan Building Fund Drive

MOOREFIELD — Members of the Moorefield Presbyterian Church are launching a fund raising campaign for the purpose of expanding the facilities of the church.

A loyalty dinner will be held in the Fire Hall Thursday evening, December 2, at 6 p. m. for all members of the congregation.

Guy Wimmer of Palo Alto, Calif., a member of the Wells Organization of Chicago, is in Moorefield for the purpose of directing the campaign. The Wells Organization makes it their business to assist local churches in fund raising campaigns.

Rev. Ricahrd Morgan, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, urges all the members of the church to be present at this dinner. At this time there will be no solicitation of funds and no pledges will be accepted. It is a fellowship dinner for the purpose of again explaining the need of the church and the plans made. All members are also urged to send in their reservation cards so members of the Fire Company Auxiliary, who will serve the meal, will be able to make their plans.

Moorefield Stores Agree On Holidays

Closing Hour List For Year Compiled

MOOREFIELD — Moorefield merchants will start staying open in the evenings until 8 p.m. beginning Wednesday, December 15, for the benefit of the Christmas shoppers. This decision was made at a joint meeting held at the Masonic Hall, Thursday morning.

The closing hours for Friday night, Christmas Eve, will also be 8 o'clock, observed by the clothing stores, the jewelry stores, the furniture stores and grocery stores. The hardware stores expect to close at 6 p.m. and the feed stores will close at 3 p.m.

Closing hours on New Year's Eve will be 5 p.m. with the grocery stores staying open one hour later so that store clerks may buy supplies for the long weekend.

The merchants agreed to observe closing on Good Friday, April 8, from 12 noon until 2 p.m.

Other holidays to be observed for closing during the year are Monday, May 30, Decoration Day. Monday, July 4; Monday, September 5, Labor Day; Friday, November 11, Veterans Day; all stores but grocery stores, Thursday, November 24, Thanksgiving Day and Monday, December 26 as Christmas comes on Sunday.

Students Tour VHS

VHS Students Hear Sermon On Thanksgiving

LONACONING — Rev. Ellwood Carey, pastor of the Barton Presbyterian Church, gave the Thanksgiving sermon to the Valley High school assembly yesterday at 10 a.m. in the school auditorium.

He stressed to the student body the importance of "being thankful for our indebtedness, not only on Thanksgiving Day but for the 365 days of the year, and being mindful of the many ways we should be thankful."

Principal Jack A. Petry extended a Thanksgiving message for the holiday vacation from school, stating school will resume next Monday at 9 a.m. "Come, Ye Thankful People", and "Prayer of Thanksgiving" were hymns sung.

Panel Discusses Possible Evil Of Comic Books

South Branch DAR Meets At Moorefield

Chapter Considers Summer Sessions

MOOREFIELD — The South Branch Valley Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held a luncheon meeting at Hotel McNeill.

The program, presented by Mrs. S. A. McCoy, consisted of a book review by Miss Molelle Kuykendall and a solo by Miss Nancy Love. Miss Love, accompanied by Mrs. Raymond Sindy, sang "I Believe." The book reviewed by Miss Kuykendall was "Miracle in the Hills" by Dr. Mary Martin Sloop and was the story of the beginnings of the Crossmore School in North Carolina, one of the schools supported by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

After the flag salute and ritual, the regent, Mrs. R. C. Love, read a request from the Tamassee School in Georgia, asking for contributions toward a herd of Hereford cattle. Members decided to table this request until various dues had been paid.

It was decided to send a contribution to the National Art Museum fund, to the Student Loan Fund, and to St. Mary's School, a high school for Indian Girls in Springfield, N. D. A box of clothing was sent to the Kate Duncan Smith School immediately after the meeting. It was also decided that the chapter would give one Landmark book to each graded school in the towns of Franklin, Petersburg, Moorefield and Romney.

Mrs. R. S. Kuykendall gave a Civil Defense report and Mrs. McCoy gave the President General's message.

The members were asked to purchase or sell Godey cards for the benefit of the chapter.

Police Officer Says Church Holds Key To Delinquency Problem

PETERSBURG — The Grant County Classroom Teacher's Association met in the Mt. Storm Grade School last week in a routine business meeting, which was highlighted by a panel discussion of the effect and use of comic books upon the school child.

Four leading citizens of Grant County served as panel members to discuss and answer questions on this interesting topic. Those serving on the panel were Robert Wither, pastor of the Petersburg Baptist Parish; Don Adams, a member of the Petersburg detachment of the West Virginia State Police; Lloyd Snyder, a teacher and parent who has been active in the county more than two decades and Keller Reid, a member of the Petersburg Grade School faculty for many years.

The members of the association heard the panel members discuss their personal views, as well as present views from national publications, on various types of comic books found on the magazine stands of Grant County.

It was pointed out that the comic books are generally published in five different categories, namely: horror, crime, violence, war and sex. Also, it was noted that many of the minature or pocket books editions found on the newsstands of the county are of a lewd nature and weren't considered good reading.

In the open discussion of the types of comic books, it was agreed that there are good comics that are funny, as well as education in the fields of history, science, and literature.

Cpl. Don Adams, of the State Police made this comment, "I have never found a delinquent where we could trace it back to the reading of comic books." On the otherhand it was his personal view that "Behind every delinquent child is a delinquent parent." Adams further added that a good cure for the many evils of the present day would be a more regular attendance by the parent and child at some church service every week.

Robert Withers, who serves the Baptist churches in this area, pointed out to the large delegation present that there are five indirect evils which may not be seen at a first glance at the comic book, but which are devastating to the minds of those who read such literature.

Evils stressed by Withers were (a) Doped minds (reader's mind becomes one-sided and cultivates a mania for certain thrills such as horror, murder, sex, etc.) (b) Destroys initiative (any pastime when carried to extremes will destroy creative initiative). (c) Low literary values (comic books are made to sell and thus the literature is far below average. This applies to the so-called classic comics as well.) (d) Prejudices minds (those depicting war play upon prejudices of the reader. Thus the reader is taught to hate certain nationalities) (e) Society of conflict (all comics that include the above direct and indirect evils also presuppose that society is inevitably divided into conflicting groups. Conflict and hate are presented as natural—brotherhood and love unnatural.)

The other members of the panel joined in the agreement that legislation against such publications would drive them underground and wouldn't curb the problem.

A code of ethics for the distributors needs to be established on a nationwide scale, but appeals should be made to local agencies to refuse to sell harmful books. The basic standard still rests in the home and a more careful parental outlook on the type of literature purchased would help remedy the local situation. Another idea introduced in the discussion was the substitution of better magazines and books to these children, the panel suggested.

1953 Loss Estimated At Fifty Millions

KEYSER — According to a report from the Financial Responsibility Division of the West Virginia Department of Motor Vehicles for 1953, 22,167 accidents occurred on highways. Of this number, 15,881 were investigated by the police departments of West Virginia.

Fatal accidents in West Virginia last year numbered 378, in which 446 persons were killed, and of this number there were 159 car operators, 181 passengers, 102 pedestrians and four bicyclists.

The injury toll for the year was 5,844 persons in 3,758 accidents that were investigated by all police departments in the state.

Property damage during the year was accountable to 11,745 accidents, investigated by all police departments. This accounted only for property damage, exclusive of deaths and injuries.

The economic loss in West Virginia, alone, totalled $50 million.

During the year 1953, West Virginia had a half million registered vehicles, and according to the president's Materials Policy Commission, it is estimated there will be three quarters of a million vehicles registered in West Virginia in 1975.

On "Safe Driving" day in 1953, the State Police investigated 26 accidents. There was one fatal accident in which two persons were killed. There were seven injury accidents in which 14 persons were injured. Accidents of property damage only, totalled 18. There were 50 vehicles and 84 persons involved. Two of 15 drivers were drinking, and 20 of the accidents occurred during the daylight hours. The prevailing cause was vehicles on the wrong side of the road.

HIGH HOPES — Mary Kosloski, 5, of Collierville, Tenn., polio victim chosen as the 1955 March of Dimes poster girl, enjoys a swing in New York City. She was stricken by polio when she was five months old, and has never walked without braces and crutches provided by the March of Dimes.

BISHOP William C. Martin (above), president of the National Council of Churches, will preside at the Third General Assembly to be held in Boston, Nov. 28 to Dec. 3. More than 2,000 leaders of 30 Protestant and Eastern Orthodox communions will represent more than 35,000,000 members during the conferences. (International)

Moorefield Presbyterians Plan Building Fund Drive

MOOREFIELD — Members of the Moorefield Presbyterian Church are launching a fund raising campaign for the purpose of expanding the facilities of the church.

A loyalty dinner will be held in the Fire Hall Thursday evening, December 2, at 6 p. m. for all members of the congregation.

Guy Wimmer of Palo Alto, Calif., a member of the Wells Organization of Chicago, is in Moorefield for the purpose of directing the campaign. The Wells Organization makes it their business to assist local churches in fund raising campaigns.

Rev. Ricahrd Morgan, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, urges all the members of the church to be present at this dinner. At this time there will be no solicitation of funds and no pledges will be accepted. It is a fellowship dinner for the purpose of again explaining the need of the church and the plans made. All members are also urged to send in their reservation cards so members of the Fire Company Auxiliary, who will serve the meal, will be able to make their plans.

Moorefield Stores Agree On Holidays

Closing Hour List For Year Compiled

MOOREFIELD — Moorefield merchants will start staying open in the evenings until 8 p.m. beginning Wednesday, December 15, for the benefit of the Christmas shoppers. This decision was made at a joint meeting held at the Masonic Hall, Thursday morning.

The closing hours for Friday night, Christmas Eve, will also be 8 o'clock, observed by the clothing stores, the jewelry stores, the furniture stores and grocery stores. The hardware stores expect to close at 6 p.m. and the feed stores will close at 3 p.m.

Closing hours on New Year's Eve will be 5 p.m. with the grocery stores staying open one hour later so that store clerks may buy supplies for the long weekend.

The merchants agreed to observe closing on Good Friday, April 8, from 12 noon until 2 p.m.

Other holidays to be observed for closing during the year are Monday, May 30, Decoration Day. Monday, July 4; Monday, September 5, Labor Day; Friday, November 11, Veterans Day; all stores but grocery stores, Thursday, November 24, Thanksgiving Day and Monday, December 26 as Christmas comes on Sunday.

Students Tour VHS

VHS Students Hear Sermon On Thanksgiving

LONACONING — Rev. Ellwood Carey, pastor of the Barton Presbyterian Church, gave the Thanksgiving sermon to the Valley High school assembly yesterday at 10 a.m. in the school auditorium.

He stressed to the student body the importance of "being thankful for our indebtedness, not only on Thanksgiving Day but for the 365 days of the year, and being mindful of the many ways we should be thankful."

Principal Jack A. Petry extended a Thanksgiving message for the holiday vacation from school, stating school will resume next Monday at 9 a.m. "Come, Ye Thankful People", and "Prayer of Thanksgiving" were hymns sung.

Panel Discusses Possible Evil Of Comic Books

South Branch DAR Meets At Moorefield

Chapter Considers Summer Sessions

MOOREFIELD — The South Branch Valley Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held a luncheon meeting at Hotel McNeill.

The program, presented by Mrs. S. A. McCoy, consisted of a book review by Miss Molelle Kuykendall and a solo by Miss Nancy Love. Miss Love, accompanied by Mrs. Raymond Sindy, sang "I Believe." The book reviewed by Miss Kuykendall was "Miracle in the Hills" by Dr. Mary Martin Sloop and was the story of the beginnings of the Crossmore School in North Carolina, one of the schools supported by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

After the flag salute and ritual, the regent, Mrs. R. C. Love, read a request from the Tamassee School in Georgia, asking for contributions toward a herd of Hereford cattle. Members decided to table this request until various dues had been paid.

It was decided to send a contribution to the National Art Museum fund, to the Student Loan Fund, and to St. Mary's School, a high school for Indian Girls in Springfield, N. D. A box of clothing was sent to the Kate Duncan Smith School immediately after the meeting. It was also decided that the chapter would give one Landmark book to each graded school in the towns of Franklin, Petersburg, Moorefield and Romney.

Mrs. R. S. Kuykendall gave a Civil Defense report and Mrs. McCoy gave the President General's message.

The members were asked to purchase or sell Godey cards for the benefit of the chapter.

Police Officer Says Church Holds Key To Delinquency Problem

PETERSBURG — The Grant County Classroom Teacher's Association met in the Mt. Storm Grade School last week in a routine business meeting, which was highlighted by a panel discussion of the effect and use of comic books upon the school child.

Four leading citizens of Grant County served as panel members to discuss and answer questions on this interesting topic. Those serving on the panel were Robert Wither, pastor of the Petersburg Baptist Parish; Don Adams, a member of the Petersburg detachment of the West Virginia State Police; Lloyd Snyder, a teacher and parent who has been active in the county more than two decades and Keller Reid, a member of the Petersburg Grade School faculty for many years.

The members of the association heard the panel members discuss their personal views, as well as present views from national publications, on various types of comic books found on the magazine stands of Grant County.

It was pointed out that the comic books are generally published in five different categories, namely: horror, crime, violence, war and sex. Also, it was noted that many of the minature or pocket books editions found on the newsstands of the county are of a lewd nature and weren't considered good reading.

In the open discussion of the types of comic books, it was agreed that there are good comics that are funny, as well as education in the fields of history, science, and literature.

Cpl. Don Adams, of the State Police made this comment, "I have never found a delinquent where we could trace it back to the reading of comic books." On the otherhand it was his personal view that "Behind every delinquent child is a delinquent parent." Adams further added that a good cure for the many evils of the present day would be a more regular attendance by the parent and child at some church service every week.

Robert Withers, who serves the Baptist churches in this area, pointed out to the large delegation present that there are five indirect evils which may not be seen at a first glance at the comic book, but which are devastating to the minds of those who read such literature.

Evils stressed by Withers were (a) Doped minds (reader's mind becomes one-sided and cultivates a mania for certain thrills such as horror, murder, sex, etc.) (b) Destroys initiative (any pastime when carried to extremes will destroy creative initiative). (c) Low literary values (comic books are made to sell and thus the literature is far below average. This applies to the so-called classic comics as well.) (d) Prejudices minds (those depicting war play upon prejudices of the reader. Thus the reader is taught to hate certain nationalities) (e) Society of conflict (all comics that include the above direct and indirect evils also presuppose that society is inevitably divided into conflicting groups. Conflict and hate are presented as natural—brotherhood and love unnatural.)

The other members of the panel joined in the agreement that legislation against such publications would drive them underground and wouldn't curb the problem.

A code of ethics for the distributors needs to be established on a nationwide scale, but appeals should be made to local agencies to refuse to sell harmful books. The basic standard still rests in the home and a more careful parental outlook on the type of literature purchased would help remedy the local situation. Another idea introduced in the discussion was the substitution of better magazines and books to these children, the panel suggested.

Stock Market Goes Upward To Another New High Mark

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (AP) — The Stock Market surged upward to another new high since 1929 today, and it accomplished its feat on the heaviest volume in nearly four years.

The gain today was not so pronounced as that of yesterday. Rising stocks dominated the list with excellent leadership in oils, steels, and railroads, together with many individual issues affected by corporate developments.

Business amounted to 3,990,000 shares, greatest since Dec. 18, 1950, when 4,490,000 shares changed hands.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks today advanced 40 cents at $146.30, a new high since Oct. 14, 1929. Yesterday it was up $1.00 at a new high since that date. The industrial component of the average was up 30 cents at $200.40, railroads gained 80 cents at $111.40, and utilities were up 10 cents at $66.30, all new highs.

The market was exceptionally broad with 1,268 individual issues traded, only 3 under the all-time high mark established yesterday.

Alleghany Corp., holding company for the Robert R. Young interests, was the day's most active issue up 5/8 at 5 1/8 on 93,800 shares, including several blocks as large as 10,000 shares.

Curtiss-Wright was second up 7/8 at 13 3/4. The company declared an extra of 20 cents as well as a regular for 25 cents.

New York Central was third up 3/4 at 24 3/4. The road reported a good net income for October as against a loss for 10 months.

Sunray Oil, yesterday's most active stock, was fourth total up 1/2 at 21 5/8.

Standard Oil (NJ) gained a point at 104 7/8 as the 12th most active issue on top of its rise of 3 1/2 as yesterday's second most active stock. The company disclosed plans to use atomic energy in making its petro-chemicals.

Among others gaining were U.S. Steel up 1/2, Chrysler 3/8, Georgia Pacific Plywood 1 3/4, American Telephone 3/8, Baltimore & Ohio 1 3/8, Amerada Petroleum 3, Schenley Industries 5/8, Union Pacific 2 1/4 and International Nickel 2 1/4.

Among losers were General Motors off 1/4, Douglas Aircraft 1 5/8, Radio Corp. 3/8, International Telephone 1/4, International Paper 1 3/8, U.S. Gypsum 3 1/2, and Admiral Corp. 3/8.

Stock Market Goes Upward To Another New High Mark

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (AP) — The Stock Market surged upward to another new high since 1929 today, and it accomplished its feat on the heaviest volume in nearly four years.

The gain today was not so pronounced as that of yesterday. Rising stocks dominated the list with excellent leadership in oils, steels, and railroads, together with many individual issues affected by corporate developments.

Business amounted to 3,990,000 shares, greatest since Dec. 18, 1950, when 4,490,000 shares changed hands.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks today advanced 40 cents at $146.30, a new high since Oct. 14, 1929. Yesterday it was up $1.00 at a new high since that date. The industrial component of the average was up 30 cents at $200.40, railroads gained 80 cents at $111.40, and utilities were up 10 cents at $66.30, all new highs.

The market was exceptionally broad with 1,268 individual issues traded, only 3 under the all-time high mark established yesterday.

Alleghany Corp., holding company for the Robert R. Young interests, was the day's most active issue up 5/8 at 5 1/8 on 93,800 shares, including several blocks as large as 10,000 shares.

Curtiss-Wright was second up 7/8 at 13 3/4. The company declared an extra of 20 cents as well as a regular for 25 cents.

New York Central was third up 3/4 at 24 3/4. The road reported a good net income for October as against a loss for 10 months.

Sunray Oil, yesterday's most active stock, was fourth total up 1/2 at 21 5/8.

Standard Oil (NJ) gained a point at 104 7/8 as the 12th most active issue on top of its rise of 3 1/2 as yesterday's second most active stock. The company disclosed plans to use atomic energy in making its petro-chemicals.

Among others gaining were U.S. Steel up 1/2, Chrysler 3/8, Georgia Pacific Plywood 1 3/4, American Telephone 3/8, Baltimore & Ohio 1 3/8, Amerada Petroleum 3, Schenley Industries 5/8, Union Pacific 2 1/4 and International Nickel 2 1/4.

Among losers were General Motors off 1/4, Douglas Aircraft 1 5/8, Radio Corp. 3/8, International Telephone 1/4, International Paper 1 3/8, U.S. Gypsum 3 1/2, and Admiral Corp. 3/8.

Fort Hill And LaSalle Favored In Holiday Grid Battles

Sentinels Need Victory Or Tie To Annex City Football Title

City Race To End In Triple Tie If Campers Triumph

Fort Hill rules a two-touchdown favorite over the Campers of Allegany High as the city schools mark time for their annuel Thanksgiving Day football contest today at 2 o'clock at the local stadium.

Allegany has not beaten its city rival from Greenway Avenue since 1945 and could provide a real upset by taking today's game. Twice since 1945 the Campers have battled the Sentinels to a draw, including the 1953 contest which ended 7-7 to net both elevens a share of the city title. The other deadlock was in 1948.

Sentinels Lost Close Ones

Both of Fort Hill's defeats this season came at the hands of teams that are still unbeaten, Handley of Winchester, 7-6, and Martinsburg, 12-6. Two of the three setbacks suffered by Allegany also were administered by undefeated teams, namely, Montgomery Blair, of Silver Spring, 34-7, and Martinsburg 20-0. LaSalle dealt out the other loss in a 7-6 squeaker.

Fort Hill is conceded the edge, however, because the Sentinels loom as a much better team than the Campobello eleven both offensively and defensively. For example, Coach William P. Hahn's aggregation belted Hagerstown, 30-0, while the Hubs held Allegany to a 13-13 draw. Fort Hill lost by the margin of a touchdown to Martinsburg and the Bulldogs hung it on Allegany by three touchdowns. The Sentinels whipped LaSalle, 27-7, and the Explorers bumped off the Campers, 7-6. While there are some exceptions, comparative scores usually are a good measuring stick in football.

Could End In Triple Tie

To win the city championship outright this year Fort Hill must win or get a tie out of this game. A victory for Allegany would wind-up the campaign in a triple tie at 1-1-1.

It is estimated that 7,000 will view the game at which Allegany High will play host this year. Four West Virginia officials will handle the contest, namely, Arthur Goldschien, referee; Noah Anderson, umpire; Newton Anderson, head linesman, and Fred "Chick" Weihl, field judge.

72 Players Eligible

A total of 72 players are eligible for today's contest, 39 from Fort Hill and 33 from Allegany. It will be the final game for 12 Fort Hill and nine Allegany seniors.

The Knights of Columbus Selection Committee will pick the season's final back-of-the-week and the lineman-of-the-week from this game. Six Allegany and five Fort Hill players already have been nominated for the Player Of the Year Award.

There will be the customary halftime ceremonies with the bands of both schools putting on the show and also the usual jam beneath the grandstand by the consumers of hot dogs, coffee and other liquids.

Bowie To Stage $15,000 Race Today

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 24 (AP) — Two-year-olds receive their second major test of the week at Bowie tomorrow in the mile and a sixteenth $15,000 added Bowie Endurance Gold Cup Stakes which highlights the Thanksgiving Day program.

A field of 19 juveniles was named for the 30th running of the feature.

Two stakes winners, C. Lamar Creswell's Mister C. L. and Montepelier's Saratoga, are among the overnight candidates. Mister C. L. will be seeking his second stakes victory in four days, having won the Bowie Breeders' Stakes on opening day.

LaSalle High School will be striving to hang up a record winning streak and Fullback Harold Hudson hopes to put the clincher on the city scoring title for the second straight season when the Explorers invade Frostburg today to battle it out with the Beall High Mountaineers in the ninth consecutive Thanksgiving Day game between the schools.

The opening kickoff is scheduled for 2 o'clock at Beall Stadium. Officials will be Jim Gaffney, John Shelton, Bob Pence and John Blough.

Seek 6th Straight

A victory would give the cohorts of Coach Norman F. Geatz, Jr., six straight for the season, the longest unbroken string in the 27-year history of football at the North Centre Street School. In their last five outings, the Explorers have scalped Parsons, Keyser, Allegany, Ridgeley and Altoona Catholic, and now own a respectable 7-2 record. If LaSalle bags its eighth win it will be the first time since 1930 when Denny Shay's Explorers bagged eight and tied one.

Hudson has scored 97 points to date and should go above the 100 mark today. He looks like a shoo-in now with a 23-point lead over Bob Andrews, of Fort Hill, his closest competitor, and only one game to go for each player. The LaSalle backfield ace won city honors last year with 54 tallies.

Need Win For .500

Beall will be striving to upset the high-flying Explorers as a victory would give Coach Ray Hull's team a .500 record for the season. The Mountaineers have won four and lost five and their last two outings were wins over Moorefield, 15-12, and James Wood of Winchester, Va., 28-0.

Twenty-four seniors will play their final high school game — 13 from Beall and 11 from LaSalle. They are Joe Conroy, Harold Hudson, Ken Lowery, Ed Fagan, John Blake, Gary Smith, Ed Grass, "Rickey" Harris, Dennis Drumm, Bill Dove and Phil Geatz of LaSalle, and Glenn Blank, Dallas Chaney, Bill Eichhorn, Tom Emmart, Mike Finn, John Hansel, William Hawkins, James Kergan, Henry Lloyd, Mike Passarell, Ronnie Plummer, James Rank and James Sigler of Beall.

LaSalle rules a favorite in this Turkey Day affair. In six of the past eight games, LaSalle was the victor. Beall won once and one game ended in a tie.

Tatum Is Slated To Coach Redskins

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (INS) — Harry Wismer, sportscaster and International News Service football expert, said today he has learned authoritatively that Jim Tatum of the University of Maryland will coach the Washington Redskins next year.

Wismer said Tatum is expected to resign his Maryland post at the end of the present season and replace Joe Kuharich as coach of the Redskins, who have won only two of their nine National Football League games this season.

Ironically, Tatum is recognized as a split-T expert. Both Kuharich and Redskins' president George Preston Marshall recently blasted the Split-T as a "lazy man's" formation that is "ruining" football.

The first telephone installed in the White House came during the administration of President Rutherford B. Hayes.

Fort Hill And LaSalle Favored In Holiday Grid Battles

City Race To End In Triple Tie If Campers Triumph

Fort Hill rules a two-touchdown favorite over the Campers of Allegany High as the city schools mark time for their annuel Thanksgiving Day football contest today at 2 o'clock at the local stadium.

Allegany has not beaten its city rival from Greenway Avenue since 1945 and could provide a real upset by taking today's game. Twice since 1945 the Campers have battled the Sentinels to a draw, including the 1953 contest which ended 7-7 to net both elevens a share of the city title. The other deadlock was in 1948.

Sentinels Lost Close Ones

Both of Fort Hill's defeats this season came at the hands of teams that are still unbeaten, Handley of Winchester, 7-6, and Martinsburg, 12-6. Two of the three setbacks suffered by Allegany also were administered by undefeated teams, namely, Montgomery Blair, of Silver Spring, 34-7, and Martinsburg 20-0. LaSalle dealt out the other loss in a 7-6 squeaker.

Fort Hill is conceded the edge, however, because the Sentinels loom as a much better team than the Campobello eleven both offensively and defensively. For example, Coach William P. Hahn's aggregation belted Hagerstown, 30-0, while the Hubs held Allegany to a 13-13 draw. Fort Hill lost by the margin of a touchdown to Martinsburg and the Bulldogs hung it on Allegany by three touchdowns. The Sentinels whipped LaSalle, 27-7, and the Explorers bumped off the Campers, 7-6. While there are some exceptions, comparative scores usually are a good measuring stick in football.

Could End In Triple Tie

To win the city championship outright this year Fort Hill must win or get a tie out of this game. A victory for Allegany would wind-up the campaign in a triple tie at 1-1-1.

It is estimated that 7,000 will view the game at which Allegany High will play host this year. Four West Virginia officials will handle the contest, namely, Arthur Goldschien, referee; Noah Anderson, umpire; Newton Anderson, head linesman, and Fred "Chick" Weihl, field judge.

72 Players Eligible

A total of 72 players are eligible for today's contest, 39 from Fort Hill and 33 from Allegany. It will be the final game for 12 Fort Hill and nine Allegany seniors.

The Knights of Columbus Selection Committee will pick the season's final back-of-the-week and the lineman-of-the-week from this game. Six Allegany and five Fort Hill players already have been nominated for the Player Of the Year Award.

There will be the customary half-time ceremonies with the bands of both schools putting on the show and also the usual jam beneath the grandstand by the consumers of hot dogs, coffee and other liquids.

Bowie To Stage $15,000 Race Today

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 24 (AP) — Two-year-olds receive their second major test of the week at Bowie tomorrow in the mile and a sixteenth $15,000 added Bowie Endurance Gold Cup Stakes which highlights the Thanksgiving Day program.

A field of 19 juveniles was named for the 30th running of the feature.

Two stakes winners, C. Lamar Creswell's Mister C. L. and Montepelier's Saratoga, are among the overnight candidates. Mister C. L. will be seeking his second stakes victory in four days, having won the Bowie Breeders' Stakes on opening day.

LaSalle High School will be striving to hang up a record winning streak and Fullback Harold Hudson hopes to put the clincher on the city scoring title for the second straight season when the Explorers invade Frostburg today to battle it out with the Beall High Mountaineers in the ninth consecutive Thanksgiving Day game between the schools.

The opening kickoff is scheduled for 2 o'clock at Beall Stadium. Officials will be Jim Gaffney, John Shelton, Bob Pence and John Blough.

Seek 6th Straight

A victory would give the cohorts of Coach Norman F. Geatz, Jr., six straight for the season, the longest unbroken string in the 27-year history of football at the North Centre Street School. In their last five outings, the Explorers have scalped Parsons, Keyser, Allegany, Ridgeley and Altoona Catholic, and now own a respectable 7-2 record. If LaSalle bags its eighth win it will be the first time since 1930 when Denny Shay's Explorers bagged eight and tied one.

Hudson has scored 97 points to date and should go above the 100 mark today. He looks like a shoo-in now with a 23-point lead over Bob Andrews, of Fort Hill, his closest competitor, and only one game to go for each player. The LaSalle backfield ace won city honors last year with 54 tallies.

Need Win For .500

Beall will be striving to upset the high-flying Explorers as a victory would give Coach Ray Hull's team a .500 record for the season. The Mountaineers have won four and lost five and their last two outings were wins over Moorefield, 15-12, and James Wood of Winchester, Va., 28-0.

Twenty-four seniors will play their final high school game — 13 from Beall and 11 from LaSalle. They are Joe Conroy, Harold Hudson, Ken Lowery, Ed Fagan, John Blake, Gary Smith, Ed Grass, "Rickey" Harris, Dennis Drumm, Bill Dove and Phil Geatz of LaSalle, and Glenn Blank, Dallas Chaney, Bill Eichhorn, Tom Emmart, Mike Finn, John Hansel, William Hawkins, James Kergan, Henry Lloyd, Mike Passarell, Ronnie Plummer, James Rank and James Sigler of Beall.

LaSalle rules a favorite in this Turkey Day affair. In six of the past eight games, LaSalle was the victor. Beall won once and one game ended in a tie.

Tatum Is Slated To Coach Redskins

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (INS) — Harry Wismer, sportscaster and International News Service football expert, said today he has learned authoritatively that Jim Tatum of the University of Maryland will coach the Washington Redskins next year.

Wismer said Tatum is expected to resign his Maryland post at the end of the present season and replace Joe Kuharich as coach of the Redskins, who have won only two of their nine National Football League games this season.

Ironically, Tatum is recognized as a split-T expert. Both Kuharich and Redskins' president George Preston Marshall recently blasted the Split-T as a "lazy man's" formation that is "ruining" football.

TV Fans To See Terps, Missouri Gridders Clash

Cornell Faces Penn, Colgate Tests Brown

[By The Associated Press]

The Thanksgiving holiday college football pickin's will be mighty slim today, as several old traditional rivals and a scattering of other games make up the gridiron fare.

Tradition hovers such games as Cornell and Pennsylvania at Philadelphia, Texas A&M and Texas at Austin, Utah and Utah State at Salt Lake City, Colgate and Brown at Providence, and Virginia Tech and Virginia Military at Roanoke, Va.

However, the national college television game of the day (ABC) will be Missouri against Maryland at College Park, Md., starting at 1:55 p. m., EST. The competition here goes only back to 1950, and the Missourians have yet to win in four meetings with the Terrapins.

Service Tilt Saturday

Most of the major fireworks will be reserved for Saturday, with the Army-Navy service spectacle scheduled for a sellout crowd of some 100,000 at Philadelphia.

Southern California, the Pacific Coast's representative in the Jan. 1 Rose Bowl, plays at Notre Dame, Duke is at North Carolina Mississippi State at Mississippi, and Rice at Baylor in other Saturday contests.

A Cornell victory over Pennsylvania will give the Big Red a tie with Yale for the Ivy League championship. The game goes on ABC radio at 1:15 p. m., EST. Virginia Military, with only a 7-7 tie with William and Mary marring its record, may be headed for a bowl game if it gets past VMI.

Seek Bowl Contest

Maryland, hoping to convince Atlantic Coast Conference fathers it should go to the Orange Bowl again, must make a red hot showing against Missouri. Even that may not be enough, for Duke could get the Miami nod by scoring a decisive victory, Saturday over North Carolina, which hasn't beaten the Blue Devils since 1949.

East—Holy Cross at Boston College, Villanova at Fordham.

Furman Grid Staff Resigns

GREENVILLE, S. C., Nov 24 (AP)—The four-man Furman University football coaching staff resigned today after the administration reportedly told head Coach William A. Young he would not be retained in 1955.

Young, who said he has no immediate plans, had no comment on the announcement.

Dr. Julian H. Scarborough, administrative director of the Southern Conference school, confirmed the resignations. "The football program will be continued at Furman without interruption," he added.

Colts Fullback Will Retire For Season

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24 (AP)—John Huzvar, the Baltimore Colts' big fullback, said today he was going on voluntary retirement for what remains of the National Football League season.

Huzvar gave illness as the cause. He is now undergoing a series of physical examinations at Union Memorial Hospital.

He said he expects to be back with the Colts next year.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (AP)—Whitey Ford, one of the New York Yankees' top pitchers, signed his 1955 contract today for what he said was a "pretty good" raise.

Ford's early signing reversed his stand of the last two seasons when he has been one of the club's most stubborn holdouts.

Ford, a lefthander, won 16 and lost 8 in 1954 and posted a 2.82 earned run average, best among the regular Yankee hurlers.

Two other Yankees are under contract for next season—Yogi Berra, who like Ford has preferred to haggle over terms in the past, and Tommy Byrne.

DALLAS, Nov. 24 (AP) — Pewee football teams from Dallas and Fort Worth meet tomorrow morning at the Cotton Bowl, and portions of the game will be televised over NBC's "Today" show.

Heavies To Fight

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Nov. 24 (AP)—A heavyweight fight between Nino Valdes of Cuba and Jimmy Walls of New York, scheduled for Dec. 3, was postponed today when Valdes reported he is sick.

The Cuban champion said he has the flu and accepted Dec. 11 as a tentative date.

Moses To Coach Phils

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29 (AP)—Wally Moses, American League outfielder for 17 years and coach of the old Philadelphia Athletics for the past three seasons, today was signed by the Philadelphia Phillies of the National League as batting coach.

Moses, 44, may be used as third base coach during the season.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24—(INS)—With hundreds of players to draw from, the 16 major league clubs have drafted only a handful.

How come?

As Frank Lane, the out-spoken boss of the Chicago White Sox, put it:

"I'm surely surprised there were so few. I would have thought some of those tail-enders could have helped themselves, no matter whom they selected. As it stands now, at least a couple of major league outfits would be lucky to win a pennant in the American Association or the International League."

Lane said he told Lou Boudreau, newly named manager of the Kansas City Athletics, that "if he wanted to get anywhere he would have to make a deal like the Yarks and Orioles made."

The White Sox general manager said the A's have two players, pitcher Arnold Portocarrero and infielder Jim Finigan, to use as trade bait. He added:

"Boudreau could get virtually a whole new ball club for those two. It's a cinch that two alone are not going to win a pennant for him. And who knows? In a deal he might come up with another Finigan who, you will recall, was just a throw-in on a deal with the Yanks.

"I told him to forget about the Indians and Yanks and White Sox. He's not going to challenge those clubs. But I think he could win a lot more games if he would go out and trade Portocarrero and Finigan."

Lane defended the trade made by his ex-manager, Paul Richards, which brought the Orioles nine players from the Yankees in exchange for three stars. He said:

"I see criticism of Paul Richards for trading off Bob Turley and Don Larsen. Okay, so they figure to win a lot for the Yanks? But would the Orioles be any better off if they had kept them?

"As it is, they get two Yankee pitchers—Harry Byrd an' Jim McDonald—who may win just as many games as Turley and Larsen did last year and they get some much-needed punch in the line-up. You can't win many games without runs.

"The Yanks, like every other contending club, are shooting for an immediate pennant. The Orioles are trying to build up their club into a contender and you don't do that by sitting back and hoping somehow you'll come up with a half dozen new stars."

One reason for the reluctance to draft may be the fact that the majors have so many prospective stars out of the armed services.

The Pirates, for instance, have a raft of players due out soon. Many of these had only a year or so professional experience before being grabbed by Uncle Sam.

Cornell Faces Penn, Colgate Tests Brown

[By The Associated Press]

The Thanksgiving holiday college football pickin's will be mighty slim today, as several old traditional rivals and a scattering of other games make up the gridiron fare.

Tradition hovers such games as Cornell and Pennsylvania at Philadelphia, Texas A&M and Texas at Austin, Utah and Utah State at Salt Lake City, Colgate and Brown at Providence, and Virginia Tech and Virginia Military at Roanoke, Va.

However, the national college television game of the day (ABC) will be Missouri against Maryland at College Park, Md., starting at 1:55 p. m., EST. The competition here goes only back to 1950, and the Missourians have yet to win in four meetings with the Terrapins.

Service Tilt Saturday

Most of the major fireworks will be reserved for Saturday, with the Army-Navy service spectacle scheduled for a sellout crowd of some 100,000 at Philadelphia.

Southern California, the Pacific Coast's representative in the Jan. 1 Rose Bowl, plays at Notre Dame, Duke is at North Carolina Mississippi State at Mississippi, and Rice at Baylor in other Saturday contests.

A Cornell victory over Pennsylvania will give the Big Red a tie with Yale for the Ivy League championship. The game goes on ABC radio at 1:15 p. m., EST. Virginia Military, with only a 7-7 tie with William and Mary marring its record, may be headed for a bowl game if it gets past VMI.

Seek Bowl Contest

Maryland, hoping to convince Atlantic Coast Conference fathers it should go to the Orange Bowl again, must make a red hot showing against Missouri. Even that may not be enough, for Duke could get the Miami nod by scoring a decisive victory, Saturday over North Carolina, which hasn't beaten the Blue Devils since 1949.

Other games include today William & Mary at Richmond.

East—Holy Cross at Boston College, Villanova at Fordham.

Furman Grid Staff Resigns

GREENVILLE, S. C., Nov 24 (AP)—The four-man Furman University football coaching staff resigned today after the administration reportedly told head Coach William A. Young he would not be retained in 1955.

Young, who said he has no immediate plans, had no comment on the announcement.

Dr. Julian H. Scarborough, administrative director of the Southern Conference school, confirmed the resignations. "The football program will be continued at Furman without interruption," he added.

THE STAR THEY CANNOT IMITATE

SHE'S ELEANOR PARKER, A GIRL WHO PREFERS TO BE AN ACTRESS RATHER THAN A 'CHARACTER'

By ARMAND ARCHERD
Central Press Correspondent

In other words, the advisors want their charges to be different, unique—want them to always be themselves in each role. They want night club imitators quickly to be able to pick identifiable characteristics. Want them to become famous for some trait always present no matter what role is played.

It helps achieve success in movies. Check the list of top stars—and you'll note that whatever film they are in, they always play themselves!

Exception to the rule is one of Hollywood's top stars—both in reputation and in pay check. She is rarely the same. She is rarely recognized by name, rather by performance. Even further, she is often not even recognized by Hollywood!

She is Eleanor Parker.

• • •

THIS VERY TRAIT may help Eleanor escape a fate which usually befalls players who play the title roles in film biographies. She probably will continue on with even greater film success. In the past, actors known for their biographical film roles have usually found it difficult to continue with other convincing performances!

Now, Miss Parker is portraying famed opera singer Marjorie Lawrence in Interrupted Melody. In this film she will appear in eight wigs of varying hue and design for the eight operatic sequences. In addition, she'll "age" from a teener to the successful adult opera star.

When she walked into the studio commissary the day she was brunet-wigged and gowned for the Carmen sequence in the film, she caught the eye of every guy in the cafe. She was recognized by only a few—even top directors and producers couldn't "quite place the face."

• • •

ELEANOR has hidden her lovely face under various coiffures and hues in her career: blond in Detective Story, red and high-plumed for Scaramouche, shaved in Caged, titian-tressed in Valley of the Kings.

Even William Wyler, who directed her in Detective Story (for which she received an Academy Award nomination) failed to recognize her at a party—until after he had done a perfect double-take and returned to apologize for failing to greet his close friend and cohort!

ELEANOR kindly accepted his apology as a tribute to her acting ability—proof that she is different—for each role she plays.

However, aside from that, Eleanor is the most "same" actress in Hollywood. She is probably the least temperamental and most even-tempered of the grease paint brigade. She is also one of the most beautiful—artist Paul Clemens has painted five portraits of her! She is green-eyed, ash-blond and very fair-skinned.

Unlike most performers who use this profession as a complete "out" for emotions, she has always approached it as a profession—and as a very secure means of earning a living!

Security has always meant a lot to Eleanor. Today, divorced, the mother of three, perhaps this fact means even more—this in spite of the fact she earns about $200,000 a year!

Eleanor, who looks and acts "different," also is different in that she is a rare Hollywood night clubber. "I don't like them," she honestly admits. "I've always felt most of the people who flock to parties where the guest list numbers dozens are basically unhappy."

Because of her "different" backlog of films, Eleanor looks forward never to being typed (considered a blessing in this industry)!

However, she hopes her kids will also get used to momma's constant changes. She returned home with Madame Butterfly make-up on, in the hopes of saving time by cleaning up at home. The youngsters shrieked to their grandmother, "There's a strange lady downstairs! She looks awful crazy!"

Easy, children, it is only your mother—she is an actress, you know.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 24—(INS)—This is the most exciting Thanksgiving in the life of Mrs. James Stewart and her popular husband. Gloria tells me that she and Jimmy are sailing for Yokohama on Jan. 12 with their friends Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Johnson of Texas. They'll visit Tokyo, Hong Hong and other points in the Far East, stopping at Honolulu on their way home.

Gloria said, "we're getting ready to go East for Pop's (Alexander Stewart, Jimmy's father) wedding on Dec. 11—and I'm busy shopping."

This trip to the Orient, I might add, is not all pleasure. I suspect no one had to talk Jimmy into the trip because he'll plug three of his pictures, "Rear Window," "Air Command" and "Far Country." He owns a big percentage of each film.

If you don't appreciate your blessings tomorrow (and all of us should in this great country of ours) take a lesson from Sammy Davis Jr., who lost an eye in an automobile accident at the height of his career.

Sammy isn't letting his accident get him down. He did an interview on tape with Disc Jockey Joe Adams which will be released tomorrow. In the interview Sammy sends a message to his mother saying, "don't worry about me, Mom. I'll be better than new."

All the important stars and artists are rallying around Sammy to give him their devotion and friendship. Frank Sinatra was a visitor at his bedside today and Jeff Chandler has been to San Bernardino to see Sammy several times.

About the time I received the announcement that Mike Todd intended to film "80 Days Around The World" in Todd-AO, I heard that Mary Anita Loos and Richard Sale had completed this same script for Alex Korda and that Fernandel, the French actor, has already been signed by them.

Putting two and two together, it looks as if Mike bought the sale version from Korda, because he saw a lot of Mary and Richard when he was in London.

At the Modern Screen Magazine party Paul Brinkman was telling me that Jeanne Crain can't be home for Christmas.

"So," he said, "we're going to her. I am taking all four children and flying Dec. 17 to meet her. Then we'll go on to Switzerland to spend Christmas with Janie and Tex Feldman.

"Jeanne has been gone so long and she writes that she's homesick, and the children certainly miss her. 'Gentlemen Marry Brunettes' is a long time getting on the screen. Jane Russell is still in Europe, too," said Paul.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Tomorrow is Judy Goetz' wedding day. She and Richard Allen Shepard, MCA executive, are being married at the Hotel Pierre in New York. Her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. William Goetz, Claudette Colbert and Dr. Joel Pressman are in New York for the quiet ceremony.

Tab Hunter and Lori Nelson resuming their romance by dining at the Saratoga one night and the Luau the next. Tab is just back from Honolulu. This may be the next engagement announcement in our town.

The whole studio was looking for Harry Cohn on Tuesday. Harry was at the White House, believe it or not—not to give President Eisenhower advice, but to show him "The Long Grey Line." There's no doubt he got a good reception because Ike has a warm spot in his heart for West Point, his alma mater.

Greer Garson is having the family of her cook and butler, who have been with her for many years, as well as the families of her entire household. A very nice gesture.

Greta Peck and Stephan Arnsten, Paramount executive, look more and more serious every day. They were at a table for two at the Ready Room, and Greta is getting ready to fight for her rights in her divorce.

Suzan Ball and Dick Long, who were to have opened in Palm Springs, have told the management of the Chi Chi they will open instead on Jan. 19.

That's all today. See you Saturday.

By ARMAND ARCHERD
Central Press Correspondent

In other words, the advisors want their charges to be different, unique—want them to always be themselves in each role. They want night club imitators quickly to be able to pick identifiable characteristics. Want them to become famous for some trait always present no matter what role is played.

It helps achieve success in movies. Check the list of top stars—and you'll note that whatever film they are in, they always play themselves!

Exception to the rule is one of Hollywood's top stars—both in reputation and in pay check. She is rarely the same. She is rarely recognized by name, rather by performance. Even further, she is often not even recognized by Hollywood!

She is Eleanor Parker.

THIS VERY TRAIT may help Eleanor escape a fate which usually befalls players who play the title roles in film biographies. She probably will continue on with even greater film success. In the past, actors known for their biographical film roles have usually found it difficult to continue with other convincing performances!

Now, Miss Parker is portraying famed opera singer Marjorie Lawrence in Interrupted Melody. In this film she will appear in eight wigs of varying hue and design for the eight operatic sequences. In addition, she'll "age" from a teener to the successful adult opera star.

When she walked into the studio commissary the day she was brunet-wigged and gowned for the Carmen sequence in the film, she caught the eye of every guy in the cafe. She was recognized by only a few—even top directors and producers couldn't "quite place the face."

ELEANOR has hidden her lovely face under various coiffures and hues in her career: blond in Detective Story, red and high-plumed for Scaramouche, shaved in Caged, titian-tressed in Valley of the Kings.

Even William Wyler, who directed her in Detective Story (for which she received an Academy Award nomination) failed to recognize her at a party—until after he had done a perfect double-take and returned to apologize for failing to greet his close friend and cohort!

ELEANOR kindly accepted his apology as a tribute to her acting ability—proof that she is different—for each role she plays.

However, aside from that, Eleanor is the most "same" actress in Hollywood. She is probably the least temperamental and most even-tempered of the grease paint brigade. She is also one of the most beautiful—artist Paul Clemens has painted five portraits of her! She is green-eyed, ash-blond and very fair-skinned.

Unlike most performers who use this profession as a complete "out" for emotions, she has always approached it as a profession—and as a very secure means of earning a living!

Security has always meant a lot to Eleanor. Today, divorced, the mother of three, perhaps this fact means even more—this in spite of the fact she earns about $200,000 a year!

Eleanor, who looks and acts "different," also is different in that she is a rare Hollywood night clubber. "I don't like them," she honestly admits. "I've always felt most of the people who flock to parties where the guest list numbers dozens are basically unhappy."

However, she hopes her kids will also get used to momma's constant changes. She returned home with Madame Butterfly make-up on, in the hopes of saving time by cleaning up at home. The youngsters shrieked to their grandmother, "There's a strange lady downstairs! She looks awful crazy!"

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 24—(INS)—This is the most exciting Thanksgiving in the life of Mrs. James Stewart and her popular husband. Gloria tells me that she and Jimmy are sailing for Yokohama on Jan. 12 with their friends Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Johnson of Texas. They'll visit Tokyo, Hong Hong and other points in the Far East, stopping at Honolulu on their way home.

Gloria said, "we're getting ready to go East for Pop's (Alexander Stewart, Jimmy's father) wedding on Dec. 11—and I'm busy shopping."

This trip to the Orient, I might add, is not all pleasure. I suspect no one had to talk Jimmy into the trip because he'll plug three of his pictures, "Rear Window," "Air Command" and "Far Country." He owns a big percentage of each film.

If you don't appreciate your blessings tomorrow (and all of us should in this great country of ours) take a lesson from Sammy Davis Jr., who lost an eye in an automobile accident at the height of his career.

Sammy isn't letting his accident get him down. He did an interview on tape with Disc Jockey Joe Adams which will be released tomorrow. In the interview Sammy sends a message to his mother saying, "don't worry about me, Mom. I'll be better than new."

All the important stars and artists are rallying around Sammy to give him their devotion and friendship. Frank Sinatra was a visitor at his bedside today and Jeff Chandler has been to San Bernardino to see Sammy several times.

About the time I received the announcement that Mike Todd intended to film "80 Days Around The World" in Todd-AO, I heard that Mary Anita Loos and Richard Sale had completed this same script for Alex Korda and that Fernandel, the French actor, has already been signed by them.

Putting two and two together, it looks as if Mike bought the sale version from Korda, because he saw a lot of Mary and Richard when he was in London.

At the Modern Screen Magazine party Paul Brinkman was telling me that Jeanne Crain can't be home for Christmas.

"So," he said, "we're going to her. I am taking all four children and flying Dec. 17 to meet her. Then we'll go on to Switzerland to spend Christmas with Janie and Tex Feldman.

"Jeanne has been gone so long and she writes that she's homesick, and the children certainly miss her. 'Gentlemen Marry Brunettes' is a long time getting on the screen. Jane Russell is still in Europe, too," said Paul.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Tomorrow is Judy Goetz' wedding day. She and Richard Allen Shepard, MCA executive, are being married at the Hotel Pierre in New York. Her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. William Goetz, Claudette Colbert and Dr. Joel Pressman are in New York for the quiet ceremony.

Tab Hunter and Lori Nelson resuming their romance by dining at the Saratoga one night and the Luau the next. Tab is just back from Honolulu. This may be the next engagement announcement in our town.

The whole studio was looking for Harry Cohn on Tuesday. Harry was at the White House, believe it or not—not to give President Eisenhower advice, but to show him "The Long Grey Line." There's no doubt he got a good reception because Ike has a warm spot in his heart for West Point, his alma mater.

Greer Garson is having the family of her cook and butler, who have been with her for many years, as well as the families of her entire household. A very nice gesture.

Greta Peck and Stephan Arnsten, Paramount executive, look more and more serious every day. They were at a table for two at the Ready Room, and Greta is getting ready to fight for her rights in her divorce.

Suzan Ball and Dick Long, who were to have opened in Palm Springs, have told the management of the Chi Chi they will open instead on Jan. 19.

That's all today. See you Saturday.

Daily Bridge Lesson — by Barclay

HE MAY DROP YOUR BID

YOUR partner's response to your takeout double may of course be on an honorless hand. And if he had made a free bid over a call by the next opponent after your double, he may have barely enough strength for his action. In either of these cases he may drop your next bid if it is a minimum. So you should make clear with your own bid that your hand is strong enough for game or slam in event that you have a powerhouse.

South should have known there was grave danger that North would pass a bid of 2-Spades on the second round, which made it seem he had barely enough for his double, in fact that he might have less than the usual minimum for it. Actually he was miles above a minimum.

North was properly astonished on seeing that huge dummy after East led the club K. That card took the only defensive trick, since the diamond finesse worked.

On summing up, North thought of seven better bids South might have made. The best, he said, would have been 2-Hearts, a cue-bid, or perhaps a fancy 3-Clubs. Or he could have called 3-Spades, 4-Spades, 5-Spades as a slam invitation or 6-Spades as a good gamble. Or he might have used the Blackwood 4-No Trumps to inquire if North had an ace.

Seldom will you see a chance for a player to think of seven different bids which he considers better than the one made.

DAILY BRIDGE LESSON — by BARCLAY

DON'T KEEP IT HIDDEN

IF YOUR partner bid 2-No Trumps over your takeout double of a hostile opening suit bid, you of course will show a 5-card suit, especially a major. If he then bids 3-No Trumps, what will you do about another 5-carder in your hand? You are tempted to pass when the suit is a minor. But it is usually better not to keep it hidden, even if you must go as high as the four level to show it. Maybe your partner lacks adequate stoppers for No Trumps in one of the other suits.

(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

| 2 NT | Pass | 3 ♥ | Pass |
| 3 NT | | | |

South had two chances to make mistakes in that auction and utilized both. First, with such a two-suiter, he should not have doubled, but should have shown one suit so that the other could complete his story on the next turn. If he had bid 2-Hearts, North would have called either 2-No Trumps or 3-No Trumps, after either of which South should have shown the diamonds.

Having improperly doubled the first time and having shown only his hearts, when the 3-No Trumps reached him, he would have been wise to bid 4-Diamonds instead of passing. Correct action on his part would have brought a 5-Diamonds contract, against which no tricks could have been taken except the black aces.

As South performed, he gambled that North had ample stoppage of both black suits.

East made the proper lead against the No Trump game, the J of the unbid clubs. This produced five tricks in that suit plus the spade A to set the contract two before North could win a trick.

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

After East bids 1-Spade, South doubles, North 3-Hearts and East passes, what should South do?

Daily Bridge Lesson — by Barclay

HE MAY DROP YOUR BID

YOUR partner's response to your takeout double may of course be on an honorless hand. And if he had made a free bid over a call by the next opponent after your double, he may have barely enough strength for his action. In either of these cases he may drop your next bid if it is a minimum. So you should make clear with your own bid that your hand is strong enough for game or slam in event that you have a powerhouse.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| | ♠ A J 7 4 ♥ K 9 5 ♦ 9 5 3 ♣ 8 4 3 | |
| ♠ 6 ♥ 10 8 7 6 4 3 ♦ 10 8 4 ♣ Q 9 5 | N W E S | ♠ 9 3 ♥ 2 ♦ K 7 6 2 ♣ A K J 10 7 2 |
| | ♠ K Q 10 8 5 2 ♥ A Q J ♦ A Q J ♣ 6 | |

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | 1 ♣ | Dbl. | 1 ♥ |
| 1 ♠ | 2 ♣ | 2 ♠ | |

South should have known there was grave danger that North would pass a bid of 2-Spades on the second round, which made it seem he had barely enough for his double, in fact that he might have less than the usual minimum for it. Actually he was miles above a minimum.

North was properly astonished on seeing that huge dummy after East led the club K. That card took the only defensive trick, since the diamond finesse worked.

On summing up, North thought of seven better bids South might have made. The best, he said, would have been 2-Hearts, a cue-bid, or perhaps a fancy 3-Clubs. Or he could have called 3-Spades, 4-Spades, 5-Spades as a slam invitation or 6-Spades as a good gamble. Or he might have used the Blackwood 4-No Trumps to inquire if North had an ace.

Seldom will you see a chance for a player to think of seven different bids which he considers better than the one made.

(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

DON'T KEEP IT HIDDEN

IF YOUR partner bid 2-No Trumps over your takeout double of a hostile opening suit bid, you of course will show a 5-card suit, especially a major. If he then bids 3-No Trumps, what will you do about another 5-carder in your hand? You are tempted to pass when the suit is a minor. But it is usually better not to keep it hidden, even if you must go as high as the four level to show it. Maybe your partner lacks adequate stoppers for No Trumps in one of the other suits.

|---|---|---|
| | ♠ K Q 10 9 ♥ K J ♦ J 10 7 5 ♣ Q 8 3 | |
| ♠ 5 3 ♥ 9 8 6 2 ♦ 4 2 ♣ K 9 5 4 2 | N W E S | ♠ A J 8 7 2 ♥ 4 3 ♦ Q 8 ♣ A J 10 6 |
| | ♠ 6 4 ♥ A Q 10 7 5 ♦ A K 9 6 3 ♣ 7 | |

(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | 1 ♠ | Dbl. | Pass |
| 2 NT | Pass | 3 ♥ | Pass |
| 3 NT | | | |

South had two chances to make mistakes in that auction and utilized both. First, with such a two-suiter, he should not have doubled, but should have shown one suit so that the other could complete his story on the next turn. If he had bid 2-Hearts, North would have called either 2-No Trumps or 3-No Trumps, after either of which South should have shown the diamonds.

Having improperly doubled the first time and having shown only his hearts, when the 3-No Trumps reached him, he would have been wise to bid 4-Diamonds instead of passing. Correct action on his part would have brought a 5-Diamonds contract, against which no tricks could have been taken except the black aces.

As South performed, he gambled that North had ample stoppage of both black suits.

East made the proper lead against the No Trump game, the J of the unbid clubs. This produced five tricks in that suit plus the spade A to set the contract two before North could win a trick.

| | ♠ A K ♥ Q 8 5 ♦ A Q 10 4 ♣ A J 9 8 | |

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

After East bids 1-Spade, South doubles, North 3-Hearts and East passes, what should South do?

Motorists Urged To Use Caution While Traveling

Cloudy Skies, Wind Predicted For Today

Maryland State Police are urging motorists to use caution while traveling the highways today and over the weekend as snow began falling early last night. Highways were reported wet but clear.

In a pre-Thanksgiving highway fatality, a 26-year-old Rawlings truck driver was killed early yesterday when his loaded tractor-trailer went out of control along Route 40 on Sideling Mountain about six and a half miles west of Hancock.

He was identified by State Police as Robert Lee Whorton, son of Robert E. and Mildred (Barnes) Whorton, Flintstone.

State Police will be patrolling the highways in an effort to cut down on other fatalities which can tragically upset plans for a happy Thanksgiving family get-togethers.

Today should be rather brisk with cloudy skies, windy and cold temperatures including snow in the mountains.

Snow Hit Area

Yesterday afternoon rather heavy showers fell on Cumberland, sending residents scurrying for cover. Snow fell in Frostburg and on Little and Big Savage mountains during the morning in the amount of from one-quarter to a half inch.

More fell last night, but was not sticking on highways.

Travel on the highways was slowed down considerably by fog yesterday morning. However, last night the State Police reported highways clear but wet.

Rain was reported falling in the Romney area yesterday evening and Route 50 east and west of that community were said to be wet.

In yesterday's mishap investigators said the rig, carrying miscellaneous freight to Hagerstown, struck several guardrails, hit an embankment, plunged of the road and rolled some 250 feet down the Washington County maintainside.

Thrown From Cab

Scores of trees were felled by the truck as it went down the steep hill on the east side of the mountain. Whorton was driving a "lease tractor" owned by the Charlton Brothers Transportation Company here.

Preliminary investigation disclosed that the victim evidently fell asleep at the wheel. Following the accident, the body was taken to the Grove Funeral Home in Hancock.

Born in the Baltimore Pike section, Whorton served in the Air Force. Surviving, besides his parents and widow, the former Rebecca Flanagan, are three daughters, Peggy, Margie and Joyce Ann; a brother, William Whorton, Flintstone, and five sisters, Mrs. Grace Marie Baird and Mrs. George Montgomery, Baltimore; Verna, Bonnie and Darlene Whorton, Flintstone.

The body will be brought to the Hafer Funeral Home this afternoon where a service will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. Burial will be in the Brethren Cemetery, Flintstone.

Two Suits Filed Here Seek $6,000

Two separate lawsuits totaling $6,000 were filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Ferman Barton, RD 3, Keyser, is seeking $5,000 damages for injuries incurred in a highway accident on June 14, 1954 east of Pinto on Route 220.

The plaintiff claims that he was driving a tractor south on Route 220, east of Pinto, when an auto driven by Carl Wade Condron, 22 East Street, Keyser, ran into the rear of the tractor, throwing him to the highway and pinning his leg under the tractor.

He claims he was hospitalized for 27 days and incurred expense for medical attention. Attorney for the plaintiff is Edward J. Ryan.

In the other suit, Angus L. Brown, 505 Greenway Avenue, is seeking $1,000 from Prudential Life Insurance Company of America for alleged failure to pay a life insurance policy taken out on his wife, Bertha M. Brown, who died May 9 of this year.

These 10 Allegany County High School students have been selected to represent their schools in the "Voice of Democracy" essay and speech contest sponsored by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce. Also among the finalists are Elizabeth Lee of Carver High School and Sarah Yvonne Taschenberg, 16-year-old Oldtown High School junior (not pictured). Judging will take place Sunday.

Uphole Named For Award To Handicapped

Presentation Slated At Baltimore Meeting

An Amcelle plant employe, Carl D. Uphole, 35, of Baltimore Pike, has been nominated by the Allegany County Committee to promote Employment of the Physically Handicapped as the county's candidate for an award to be given four handicapped persons from Maryland at a luncheon meeting December 14 in Baltimore.

The announcement was made yesterday by David Kauffman, chairman of the local committee. Uphole was recommended following a job study of handicapped persons by Francis E. Kenney, manager of the Department of Employment Security office here, and also a committee member.

Uphole has lived in the Cumberland area nearly his entire life and was an employe at the Amcelle plant prior to his entry in service during World War II.

Uphole has an artificial limb and upon discharge from the service went back to work at the Amcelle plant, although he was transferred to another job due to his handicap. Union and management officials worked out a plan to transfer him to the Central Formula Department, where he is termed "reliable and punctual."

Allegany County is in the western section of the state which also includes Garrett, Washington, Frederick and Carroll counties. The other sections are the Southern Central and Eastern Shore.

Each county nominates a candidate and winners are named for each section. These four persons will be given awards by Governor McKeldin during a Governor's Committee meeting at the Lord Baltimore Hotel, Baltimore, on December 14.

Expected to attend from Allegany County are Kauffman, Kenney and J. Leo Delaney, another member of the local committee.

Street Widening Plan Is Studied

Street Commissioner William H Buchholtz reported yesterday that the Street Department is considering the possibility of widening several blocks of Frederick Street.

He said the area under study runs between Linden Street and the 700 block of Frederick Street, where the street could be widened from 24 to 29 feet if the cost is not too great.

The area which could be used for additional roadway is now planted in grass and trees.

Commissioner Buchholtz said he toured the area this week with C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, and asked him to provide an idea of the cost of the work.

Buchholtz said the area was paved in 1920, that part of the concrete surface was broken to allow the installation of sewer lines, and that the contractor must patch the areas uncovered for the sewer projects.

He said widening of this area is not included in the Frederick Street improvement project which is being built by the S. T. Brotemarkle Company as a joint city-federal project.

Thanksgiving More Than Turkeys, Football Games

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

It's the fourth Thursday in November again and time for the annual Thanksgiving holiday.

Once observed as primarily a day for thanking God for blessings bestowed upon the people, the emphasis has shifted to the turkey dinner and the football games here in Cumberland between Fort Hill and Allegany and in Frostburg between Beall and LaSalle.

In this country the observance of Thanksgiving dates back 333 years, to the day of thanks ordered by Governor Bradford of Plymouth Colony in 1621. Scholars of course point out that days of thanks are Biblical in origin and stem from ancient times.

Beginning some 10 years after 1621, various colonies occasionally set aside a day for prayer and thanks. By 1680 it became a recognized annual holiday. Governors of the colonies appointed the date for thanksgiving.

Added emphasis to Thanksgiving seems to have come in wartime. For instance, the Continental Congress made provision for the days of thanksgiving annually during the Revolution with the exception of 1777.

In 1789 Washington proclaimed a day for offering thanks, and did so again in 1795. Acting upon a resolution of Congress, President Madison set aside a day for thanks after the War of 1812. In 1817 New York State adopted Thanksgiving Day as an annual holiday. By 1858 it was observed in 25 states and two territories.

The first national proclamation of the fourth Thursday in November as Thanksgiving Day was by President Lincoln in 1863. This was done on the urging of Mrs. Sarah J. Hale, co-editor of Godey's Lady's Book.

Some historical researchers have concluded that with the religious aspect to the Thanksgiving holiday there also was much levity on the day in the Plymouth Colony. They certainly ate turkey, which they found wild in the forests, but football had no part in those early observances.

Football as an organized game first appears in history among the Spartans, by whom it was played as early as 500 B.C. under the name of harpaston. The Romans adopted this game, slightly Latinizing its name into harpastum.

However, as the game is known today, it had its beginning 85 years ago. The first intercollegiate football game in the world was played in New Brunswick, N. J., on November 6, 1869. Rutgers defeated Princeton in that first contest, six goals to four.

Locally, football is strictly a development of the current century. The old Allegany County High School on Greene Street started playing the sport in 1908 and up until 1921 Beall High School of Frostburg was the chief opponent.

Football on Thanksgiving has been the vogue in Cumberland only since 1928 when LaSalle and Allegany began playing on that holiday. Then in 1936 Allegany and the new Fort Hill High School began their annual cross-town football rivalry on Thanksgiving Day as it has continued ever since.

No one here would dare suggest that football on Thanksgiving Day be dropped. But some have wondered if more emphasis couldn't be given to the religious aspect of the day. If all of the approximately 8,000 who will attend the Fort Hill-Allegany game here and the 3,000 who will see the Beall-LaSalle game in Frostburg went to church earlier in the day, the churches probably would all be well filled.

But will they?

Football Fans Warned About Drinking At Turkey Day Game

Assistant Chief B. Frank Gaffney said regular patrolmen and auxiliary police will be on duty to maintain order and direct traffic.

Gaffney said persons "flashing bottles" in the stadium will be warned or arrested if the facts warrant such action.

Two Hurt As Truck Runs Off Highway

Two Charlotte, N. C., men were injured yesterday afternoon when the truck in which they were riding ran over an embankment off West Virginia Route 28 near Fort Ashby.

Adrian Elledge was admitted to Memorial Hospital her for observation and X-rays, and Robert Wallace was treated for minor injuries and was discharged. Elledge was in "good" condition last night.

12 To Speak In Jaycee Contest

The Allegany County winner of the Jaycee-sponsored "Voice of Democracy" contest will be selected from a field of 12 high school students Sunday at 2 p. m. at Radio Station WDYK.

Judges will be William H. Eisenberger, manager of the radio station; Charles L. Kopp, retired superintendent of county schools, and Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, former city commissioner.

The winner of the Allegany County contest will be entered in the state contest in December, where one student will be selected to represent the state in the national finals.

The finalists:

Nellie Ann Wilson, Ursuline Academy senior, is the daughter of Mrs. J. Homer Wilson and the late Dr. Wilson, is a member of the Sodality and of the Ursuline Glee Club, and is a member of the staff of the Mirror, school publication.

Jean Stotlemyer of Little Orleans is a student at Flintstone High School, and Willa Royce Smith, Allegany High School senior, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Smith, and is a member of the Girls Athletic Association, ADK, United Nations Club, and Tri-Hi-Y.

First Meetings Are Planned By Legislators

Will Confer With AFL, Friends Aware

Plans for the first of a series of meetings of Allegany County legislators with groups interested in legislation were announced yesterday by Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation to the next General Assembly.

The first meeting will be held December 1 at 8 p.m. with officials of the Allegany Trades Council, central AFL body of Allegany County.

Senator Robert B. Kimble will be present at the conference which has been requested by the AFL group.

The conference will be held in the council chamber of City Hall on Monday, December 6, at 8 p.m.

Delegate See said the conference will deal with plans for aid to the organization which has been doing a splendid job here but needs a specially trained teacher to meet the varied needs of the children.

Officials of the State Department of Education, including Dr. D. W. Zimmerman, assistant superintendent, will attend the conference.

Spokesmen for the Allegany County Delegation said other meetings will be arranged for any citizens or organized groups who wish to confer on legislative matters.

The Delegation has set aside the period of December 1 to 16 for the meetings, and said those interested in such conferences should contact Delegate See, chairman of the delegation, at his home, 508 Forester Avenue.

Stores Open Friday Night

Downtown stores will be open until 9 o'clock tomorrow night as the Christmas shopping season opens after the Thanksgiving holiday.

Beginning Saturday, December 13, stores will be open until 9 every night until Christmas Eve, when the usual 5 p. m. closing hours will be observed.

1 Accident Mars School Bus Record

48 Persons Hurt Throughout State

One local mishap marred the no-accident record for Allegany County school buses during 1953-54, according to a report received by the Board of Education from Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state superintendent of schools.

The accident, according to Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of transportation for county schools, occurred during October last year when a child walked against the side of a bus on Valley Street.

Neighboring Garrett County had seven accidents, although there were no passengers injured. However, estimated property damage to the school buses was $35 and $523.48 to other vehicles.

State-wide, there were a total of 69 accidents during the school year with 46 persons on the school buses injured and two persons in other vehicles injured.

Thus far this year, according to reports sent to Pullen's office in Baltimore, there have been only seven school bus accidents, which is termed a "commendable record."

City Will Plan Yule Activities

Plans for community Christmas activities will be made at a meeting in City Hall Thursday, December 2, at 2 p. m., Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz announced yesterday.

He said the committee will be formally appointed within the next few days, and will include most of last year's Christmas committee.

The Community Tree Lighting ceremony, he added, will be held on the grounds of Emmanuel Episcopal Church due to construction work under way in Riverside Park, traditional site for the ceremony.

Other phases of the program will be decided at the meeting, he added.

New Bridge Slated To Be Opened To Traffic This Year

They said the S. T. Brotemarkle Company is pushing the job as fast as possible.

One of the reasons for speed is to have the approach and roadway completed so a blacktop "wearing course" can be applied before blacktop mixing plants shut down for the winter.

Officials said a few minor jobs, such as painting, may have to be deferred until next spring, but that such work will not interfere with the use of the structure.

Potomac Council Plans Series Of Training Forums

Scouters, Cubbers To Attend Meetings

A series of training meetings will be held throughout Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, next week for Scouters of this area.

Plans for the meetings were prepared by Dean K. S. McKee, Keyser, Potomac Council training chairman, who urged that all adult leaders attend one or more of the sessions.

The meetings for adult scouters, designed to aid scoutmasters and assistants conduct troop meetings, will all feature the showing of a movie on "Patrol Method," and a demonstration troop meeting by an outstanding troop of the district.

The Mountain District meeting will be held Monday, November 29, at 7:30 p. m. in the Methodist Church in Frostburg. It will feature a demonstration by the Mt. Savage Lions Club Troop 50.

Joint Meeting Set

A joint meeting for scouters of New Creek and Tri-Towns districts will be held Tuesday, November 30, at 7:30 p. m. in Potomac State College. Keyser Troop 37, sponsored by the Presbyterian Church there, will give the demonstration.

Cumberland District's training meeting will be held next Wednesday, December 1, at 7:30 p. m. in Centre Street Methodist Church, with Centre Street Methodist Church Troop 4 giving the demonstration.

The Deep Creek District meeting is scheduled next Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the Oakland City Hall, and will include a demonstration by Oakland Lions Club Troop 31.

Cubbers To Meet

The first of a series of Cub Leader Training meetings for Cumberland District will open next Tuesday, November 30, at 8 p. m. at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant.

The meeting will deal with program planning and will feature handicraft and other program ideas for the next three months. All cubmasters, den mothers and cub committees are urged to attend.

Leaders of St. Mary's Catholic Church Cub Pack 8 will outline handicraft ideas on the December theme, "We'll do our best."

Columbia Street School PTA Pack 1 will provide ideas on the January theme, railroading, and John Humbird School PTA Pack 23, the February theme, "Let freedom reign."

Dates for future meetings will also be decided.

Cub leaders training meetings for the Deep Creek District will end at meetings planned this Friday at 8 p. m. and December 10 at 7:30 p. m. in Oakland City Hall.

Young Demos To Stage Annual Political Session

Members of Young Democrat Clubs in Allegany County have been invited to participate in the third annual Conference of Practical Politics, December 4 at Washington College, Chestertown.

The conference, sponsored by the Young Democratic Clubs of Maryland includes a series of non-partisan lectures and forums relative to problems in good civil government. The purpose of the conference is to interest young men and women throughout the state in political activities.

High school and college students, along with other young men and women have indicated an interest in this political school, according to Miss Gene Miller, of Annapolis, publicity chairman. Miss Miller is a former resident of this city and was an active member of the local Democratic clubs.

Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, President of Washington College will give the address of welcome, introduced by Dr. Charles B. Clark, Professor and Head of the Political Science Department of the College at 10 a.m.

Panelists J. Glenn Beall Jr., president of the Young Republican Clubs and Joseph D. Tydings, president of the Young Democratic Clubs, will discuss "The Importance of Youth in Politics." Walter R. Tabler Jr., Baltimore County attorney will be moderator.

"The Practical Aspects of Operating a Political Campaign" will be discussed by Arthur Sherwood, Republican candidate for Congress from the Seventh Congressional District, and James C. Morton Jr., Democratic campaign manager for the Fifth Congressional District, with Tabler as moderator, at 11:15 a.m.

A panel composed of Judge Floyd J. Kintner, Second Judicial Circuit; Attorney General-Elect C. Ferdinand Sybert; and Albert M. Quinn, assistant to the Governor, will open the afternoon session at 1:30 p.m. The panel will have as its subject "Functions of Our Tripartite State Governmental Branches." Hamilton Fox, state's attorney from Wicomico County, will be moderator.

The conference will conclude with a summation by Dr. Malcolm C. Moos, professor in the Political Science Department of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, and closing remarks by Joseph D. Tydings, state president of the Young Democrats.

Gobblers On The Block

Electricians To Meet

Local 307, Electrical Workers Union (AFL), will meet Friday at 7:30 p. m. in the AFL Labor Temple.

Motorists Urged To Use Caution While Traveling

Cloudy Skies, Wind Predicted For Today

Maryland State Police are urging motorists to use caution while traveling the highways today and over the weekend as snow began falling early last night. Highways were reported wet but clear.

In a pre-Thanksgiving highway fatality, a 26-year-old Rawlings truck driver was killed early yesterday when his loaded tractor-trailer went out of control along Route 40 on Sideling Mountain about six and a half miles west of Hancock.

He was identified by State Police as Robert Lee Whorton, son of Robert E. and Mildred (Barnes) Whorton, Flintstone.

State Police will be patrolling the highways in an effort to cut down on other fatalities which can tragically upset plans for a happy Thanksgiving family get-togethers.

Today should be rather brisk with cloudy skies, windy and cold temperatures including snow in the mountains.

Snow Hit Area

Yesterday afternoon rather heavy showers fell on Cumberland, sending residents scurrying for cover. Snow fell in Frostburg and on Little and Big Savage mountains during the morning in the amount of from one-quarter to a half inch.

More fell last night, but was not sticking on highways.

Travel on the highways was slowed down considerably by fog yesterday morning. However, last night the State Police reported highways clear but wet.

Rain was reported falling in the Romney area yesterday evening and Route 50 east and west of that community were said to be wet.

In yesterday's mishap investigators said the rig, carrying miscellaneous freight to Hagerstown, struck several guardrails, hit an embankment, plunged of, the road and rolled some 250 feet down the Washington County maintainside.

Thrown From Cab

Whorton was thrown from the cab and fell under the vehicle. He suffered a skull fracture and apparently died instantly.

Scores of trees were felled by the truck as it went down the steep hill on the east side of the mountain. Whorton was driving a "lease tractor" owned by the Charlton Brothers Transportation Company here.

Preliminary investigation disclosed that the victim evidently fell asleep at the wheel. Following the accident, the body was taken to the Grove Funeral Home in Hancock.

Born in the Baltimore Pike section, Whorton served in the Air Force. Surviving, besides his parents and widow, the former Rebecca Flanagan, are three daughters, Peggy, Margie and Joyce Ann; a brother, William Whorton, Flintstone, and five sisters, Mrs. Grace Marie Baird and Mrs. George Montgomery, Baltimore; Verna, Bonnie and Darlene Whorton, Flintstone.

The body will be brought to the Hafer Funeral Home this afternoon where a service will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. Burial will be in the Brethren Cemetery, Flintstone.

Two Suits Filed Here Seek $6,000

Two separate lawsuits totaling $6,000 were filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Ferman Barton, RD 3, Keyser, is seeking $5,000 damages for injuries incurred in a highway accident on June 14, 1954 east of Pinto on Route 220.

The plaintiff claims that he was driving a tractor south on Route 220, east of Pinto, when an auto driven by Carl Wade Condron, 22 East Street, Keyser, ran into the rear of the tractor, throwing him to the highway and pinning his leg under the tractor.

Barton, according to the suit, sustained a fractured right shoulder, fractured right leg, as well as other cuts and bruises about the body.

He claims he was hospitalized for 27 days and incurred expense for medical attention. Attorney for the plaintiff is Edward J. Ryan.

In the other suit, Angus L. Brown, 505 Greenway Avenue, is seeking $1,000 from Prudential Life Insurance Company of America for alleged failure to pay a life insurance policy taken out on his wife, Bertha M. Brown, who died May 9 of this year.

In 'Democracy' Contest

These 10 Allegany County High School students have been selected to represent their schools in the "Voice of Democracy" essay and speech contest sponsored by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce. Also among the finalists are Elizabeth Lee of Carver High School and Sarah Yvonne Taschenberg, 16-year-old Oldtown High School junior (not pictured). Judging will take place Sunday.

Uphole Named For Award To Handicapped

Presentation Slated At Baltimore Meeting

An Amcelle plant employe, Carl D. Uphole, 35, of Baltimore Pike, has been nominated by the Allegany County Committee to promote Employment of the Physically Handicapped as the county's candidate for an award to be given four handicapped persons from Maryland at a luncheon meeting December 14 in Baltimore.

The announcement was made yesterday by David Kauffman, chairman of the local committee. Uphole was recommended following a job study of handicapped persons by Francis E. Kenney, manager of the Department of Employment Security office here, and also a committee member.

Uphole has lived in the Cumberland area nearly his entire life and was an employe at the Amcelle plant prior to his entry in service during World War II.

He was wounded in action on Anzio Beach when hit by artillery shell fragments, which resulted in the amputation of his right leg near the hip.

Uphole has an artificial limb and upon discharge from the service went back to work at the Amcelle plant, although he was transferred to another job due to his handicap. Union and management officials worked out a plan to transfer him to the Central Formula Department, where he is termed "reliable and punctual."

Allegany County is in the western section of the state which also includes Garrett, Washington, Frederick and Carroll counties. The other sections are the Southern Central and Eastern Shore.

Each county nominates a candidate and winners are named for each section. These four persons will be given awards by Governor McKeldin during a Governor's Committee meeting at the Lord Baltimore Hotel, Baltimore, on December 14.

Expected to attend from Allegany County are Kauffman, Kenney and J. Leo Delaney, another member of the local committee.

Street Widening Plan Is Studied

Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz reported yesterday that the Street Department is considering the possibility of widening several blocks of Frederick Street.

He said the area under study runs between Linden Street and the 700 block of Frederick Street, where the street could be widened from 24 to 29 feet if the cost is not too great.

The area which could be used for additional roadway is now planted in grass and trees.

Commissioner Buchholtz said he toured the area this week with C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, and asked him to provide an idea of the cost of the work.

Buchholtz said the area was paved in 1920, that part of the concrete surface was broken to allow the installation of sewer lines, and that the contractor must patch the areas uncovered for the sewer projects.

He said widening of this area is not included in the Frederick Street improvement project which is being built by the S. T. Brotemarkle Company as a joint city-federal project.

Thanksgiving More Than Turkeys, Football Games

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

It's the fourth Thursday in November again and time for the annual Thanksgiving holiday.

Once observed as primarily a day for thanking God for blessings bestowed upon the people, the emphasis has shifted to the turkey dinner and the football games here in Cumberland between Fort Hill and Allegany and in Frostburg between Beall and LaSalle.

In this country the observance of Thanksgiving dates back 333 years, to the day of thanks ordered by Governor Bradford of Plymouth Colony in 1621. Scholars of course point out that days of thanks are Biblical in origin and stem from ancient times.

Beginning some 10 years after 1621, various colonies occasionally set aside a day for prayer and thanks. By 1680 it became a recognized annual holiday. Governors of the colonies appointed the date for thanksgiving.

Added emphasis to Thanksgiving seems to have come in wartime. For instance, the Continental Congress made provision for the days of thanksgiving annually during the Revolution with the exception of 1777.

In 1789 Washington proclaimed a day for offering thanks, and did so again in 1795. Acting upon a resolution of Congress, President Madison set aside a day for thanks after the War of 1812. In 1817 New York State adopted Thanksgiving Day as an annual holiday. By 1858 it was observed in 25 states and two territories.

The first national proclamation of the fourth Thursday in November as Thanksgiving Day was by President Lincoln in 1863. This was done on the urging of Mrs. Sarah J. Hale, co-editor of Godey's Lady's Book.

Some historical researchers have concluded that with the religious aspect to the Thanksgiving holiday there also was much levity on the day in the Plymouth Colony. They certainly ate turkey, which they found wild in the forests, but football had no part in those early observances.

Football as an organized game first appears in history among the Spartans, by whom it was played as early as 500 B.C. under the name of harpaston. The Romans adopted this game, slightly Latinizing its name into harpastum.

However, as the game is known today, it had its beginning 85 years ago. The first intercollegiate football game in the world was played in New Brunswick, N. J., on November 6, 1869. Rutgers defeated Princeton in that first contest, six goals to four.

Locally, football is strictly a development of the current century. The old Allegany County High School on Greene Street started playing the sport in 1908 and up until 1921 Beall High School of Frostburg was the chief opponent.

Football on Thanksgiving has been the vogue in Cumberland only since 1928 when LaSalle and Allegany began playing on that holiday. Then in 1936 Allegany and the new Fort Hill High School began their annual cross-town football rivalry on Thanksgiving Day as it has continued ever since.

No one here would dare suggest that football on Thanksgiving Day be dropped. But some have wondered if more emphasis couldn't be given to the religious aspect of the day. If all of the approximately 8,000 who will attend the Fort Hill-Allegany game here and the 3,000 who will see the Beall-LaSalle game in Frostburg went to church earlier in the day, the churches probably would all be well filled.

But will they?

Football Fans Warned About Drinking At Turkey Day Game

Assistant Chief B. Frank Gaffney said regular patrolmen and auxiliary police will be on duty to maintain order and direct traffic.

Gaffney said persons "flashing bottles" in the stadium will be warned or arrested if the facts warrant such action.

Two Hurt As Truck Runs Off Highway

Two Charlotte, N. C., men were injured yesterday afternoon when the truck in which they were riding ran over an embankment off West Virginia Route 28 near Fort Ashby.

Adrian Elledge was admitted to Memorial Hospital her for observation and X-rays, and Robert Wallace was treated for minor injuries and was discharged. Elledge was in "good" condition last night.

Electricians To Meet

Local 307, Electrical Workers Union (AFL), will meet Friday at 7:30 p. m. in the AFL Labor Temple.

12 To Speak In Jaycee Contest

The Allegany County winner of the Jaycee-sponsored "Voice of Democracy" contest will be selected from a field of 12 high school students Sunday at 2 p. m. at Radio Station WDYK.

Judges will be William H. Eisenberger, manager of the radio station; Charles L. Kopp, retired superintendent of county schools, and Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, former city commissioner.

The winner of the Allegany County contest will be entered in the state contest in December, where one student will be selected to represent the state in the national finals.

The finalists:

Nellie Ann Wilson, Ursuline Academy senior, is the daughter of Mrs. J. Homer Wilson and the late Dr. Wilson, is a member of the Sodality and of the Ursuline Glee Club, and is a member of the staff of the Mirror, school publication.

Jean Stotlemyer of Little Orleans is a student at Flintstone High School, and Willa Royce Smith, Allegany High School senior, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Smith, and is a member of the Girls Athletic Association, ADK, United Nations Club, and Tri-Hi-Y.

Will Confer With AFL, Friends Aware

Plans for the first of a series of meetings of Allegany County legislators with groups interested in legislation were announced yesterday by Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation to the next General Assembly.

The first meeting will be held December 1 at 8 p.m. with officials of the Allegany Trades Council, central AFL body of Allegany County.

Senator Robert B. Kimble will be present at the conference which has been requested by the AFL group.

The conference will be held in the council chamber of City Hall on Monday, December 6, at 8 p.m.

Delegate See said the conference will deal with plans for aid to the organization which has been doing a splendid job here but needs a specially trained teacher to meet the varied needs of the children.

Officials of the State Department of Education, including Dr. D. W. Zimmerman, assistant superintendent, will attend the conference.

Spokesmen for the Allegany County Delegation said other meetings will be arranged for any citizens or organized groups who wish to confer on legislative matters.

The Delegation has set aside the period of December 1 to 16 for the meetings, and said those interested in such conferences should contact Delegate See, chairman of the delegation, at his home, 508 Forester Avenue.

Gobblers On The Block

Stores Open Friday Night

Downtown stores will be open until 9 o'clock tomorrow night as the Christmas shopping season opens after the Thanksgiving holiday.

Beginning Saturday, December 13, stores will be open until 9 every night until Christmas Eve, when the usual 5 p. m. closing hours will be observed.

1 Accident Mars School Bus Record

48 Persons Hurt Throughout State

One local mishap marred the no-accident record for Allegany County school buses during 1953-54, according to a report received by the Board of Education from Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state superintendent of schools.

The accident, according to Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of transportation for county schools, occurred during October last year when a child walked against the side of a bus on Valley Street.

Neighboring Garrett County had seven accidents, although there were no passengers injured. However, estimated property damage to the school buses was $35 and $523.48 to other vehicles.

State-wide, there were a total of 69 accidents during the school year with 46 persons on the school buses injured and two persons in other vehicles injured.

Thus far this year, according to reports sent to Pullen's office in Baltimore, there have been only seven school bus accidents, which is termed a "commendable record."

City Will Plan Yule Activities

Plans for community Christmas activities will be made at a meeting in City Hall Thursday, December 2, at 2 p. m., Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz announced yesterday.

He said the committee will be formally appointed within the next few days, and will include most of last year's Christmas committee.

The Community Tree Lighting ceremony, he added, will be held on the grounds o Emmanuel Episcopal Church due to construction work under way in Riverside Park, traditional site for the ceremony.

Other phases of the program will be decided at the meeting, he added.

New Bridge Slated To Be Opened To Traffic This Year

City officials reported yesterday that the chances of opening the new Valley Street Bridge to traffic this winter are "definitely good."

They said the S. T. Brotemarkle Company is pushing the job as fast as possible.

One of the reasons for speed is to have the approach and roadway completed so a blacktop "wearing course" can be applied before blacktop mixing plants shut down for the winter.

Officials said a few minor jobs, such as painting, may have to be deferred until next spring, but that such work will not interfere with the use of the structure.

Potomac Council Plans Series Of Training Forums

Scouters, Cubbers To Attend Meetings

A series of training meetings will be held throughout Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, next week for Scouters of this area.

Plans for the meetings were prepared by Dean K. S. McKee, Keyser, Potomac Council training chairman, who urged that all adult leaders attend one or more of the sessions.

The meetings for adult scouters, designed to aid scoutmasters and assistants conduct troop meetings, will all feature the showing of a movie on "Patrol Method," and a demonstration troop meeting by an outstanding troop of the district.

The Mountain District meeting will be held Monday, November 29, at 7:30 p. m. in the Methodist Church in Frostburg. It will feature a demonstration by the Mt. Savage Lions Club Troop 50.

Joint Meeting Set

A joint meeting for scouters of New Creek and Tri-Towns districts will be held Tuesday, November 30, at 7:30 p. m. in Potomac State College. Keyser Troop 37, sponsored by the Presbyterian Church there, will give the demonstration.

Cumberland District's training meeting will be held next Wednesday, December 1, at 7:30 p. m. in Centre Street Methodist Church, with Centre Street Methodist Church Troop 4 giving the demonstration.

The Deep Creek District meeting is scheduled next Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the Oakland City Hall, and will include a demonstration by Oakland Lions Club Troop 31.

Cubbers To Meet

The first of a series of Cub Leader Training meetings for Cumberland District will open next Tuesday, November 30, at 8 p. m. at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant.

The meeting will deal with program planning and will feature handicraft and other program ideas for the next three months. All cubmasters, den mothers and cub committees are urged to attend.

Leaders of St. Mary's Catholic Church Cub Pack 8 will outline handicraft ideas on the December theme, "We'll do our best."

Columbia Street School PTA Pack 1 will provide ideas on the January theme, railroading, and John Humbird School PTA Pack 23, the February theme, "Let freedom reign."

Dates for future meetings will also be decided.

Cub leaders training meetings for the Deep Creek District will end at meetings planned this Friday at 8 p. m. and December 10 at 7:30 p. m. in Oakland City Hall.

Young Demos To Stage Annual Political Session

Members of Young Democrat Clubs in Allegany County have been invited to participate in the third annual Conference of Practical Politics, December 4 at Washington College, Chestertown.

The conference, sponsored by the Young Democratic Clubs of Maryland includes a series of nonpartisan lectures and forums relative to problems in good civil government. The purpose of the conference is to interest young men and women throughout the state in political activities.

High school and college students, along with other young men and women have indicated an interest in this political school, according to Miss Gene Miller, of Annapolis, publicity chairman. Miss Miller is a former resident of this city and was an active member of the local Democratic clubs.

Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, President of Washington College will give the address of welcome, introduced by Dr. Charles B. Clark, Professor and Head of the Political Science Department of the College at 10 a.m.

Panelists J. Glenn Beall Jr., president of the Young Republican Clubs and Joseph D. Tydings, president of the Young Democratic Clubs, will discuss "The Importance of Youth in Politics." Walter R. Tabler Jr., Baltimore County attorney will be moderator.

"The Practical Aspects of Operating a Political Campaign" will be discussed by Arthur Sherwood, Republican candidate for Congress from the Seventh Congressional District, and James C. Morton Jr., Democratic campaign manager for the Fifth Congressional District, with Tabler as moderator, at 11:15 a.m.

A panel composed of Judge Floy J. Kintner, Second Judicial Circuit; Attorney General-Elect C. Ferdinand Sybert; and Albert M. Quinn, assistant to the Governor, will open the afternoon session at 1:30 p.m. The panel will have as its subject "Functions of Our Tripartite State Governmental Branches." Hamilton Fox, state's attorney from Wicomico County, will be moderator.

The conference will conclude with a summation by Dr. Malcolm C. Moos, professor in the Political Science Department of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, and closing remarks by Joseph D. Tydings, state president of the Young Democrats.
